"Nature Proves Immortality, Science Cannot Create Life; Spiritualism Is Bunk"

—THOMAS EDISON, AT 80

Famous Inventor Refuses to Prophesy as to Mechanical Advances, But Thinks Coolidge Will Have Third Term.

By the Associated Press.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Feb. 11.—A small percentage of all the facts known about nature favors immortality, Thomas A. Edison, the wizard of Menlo Park said today on his eightieth birthday, in reply to questions on whether he had changed his views regarding immortality.

"The word 'God' has no meaning to me," he said, "but I believe there is a supreme intelligence pervading the universe, and at times I believe that when a man dies the swarms of billions of highly organized entities which live in the cells, desert the body, go out into space and keep on and enter another and last cycle and are immortal."

"I have not changed my views on immortality," he added.

Wearing a newly cleaned blue worsted suit, with a red rose on his coat, Edison, accompanied by his old friend, Henry Ford, drove up to the Edison plant and laboratory shortly before 10 a. m. in one of Ford's low-priced cars, made in 1922. Last summer Edison named this car "Gustavus Adolphus" in honor of the Swedish Crown Prince. Ford wore a natty dark suit and a purple and pink tie.

Pose for Photographers.

"They need a manager, they all want to do different things," shouted Ford to the deaf inventor, when photographers scrambled here and there attempting to pose the pair in a dozen different positions all at once.

Then Edison and Ford, with newspaper and magazine writers, entered the laboratory building for the questioning to which Edison had announced he would submit. Edison took off his old black overcoat and began writing answers with an old lead pencil, in the firm hand, characteristic of telegraph operators.

Edison said there were many men on the horizon capable of solving problems as great as those which he had met, and he thought man would go through this industrial civilization to a higher one—the age of art. "Fine arts, painting and music are very important to mankind," he added. "The human soul is the same as intelligence.

"Man is not the unit of life. I have stated that many times, but no one understands. Man is as dead as granite. The unit of life consists of swarms of billions of highly organized entities which live in the cells. I believe at times that when man dies this swarm deserts the body, goes out into space, but keeps on and enters another and last cycle of life and is immortal. The origin and meaning of life will not be solved for centuries."

Spiritualism Is "Bunk."

"Do you think that psychic power exists and should be investigated by science?" "It is doubtful, but investigation should go on. It does no harm."

"Spiritualism is bunk," Edison remarked in answer to another question.

"Do you believe that science will ever realize its dream of producing life?" he was asked. "No."

"Do you believe in mental telep-

He Fought a Phantom Rival and Lost

About a hackneyed plot from a tawdry love story magazine, an Iowa high school girl built up a fictitious love affair to perplex her farmer-boy sweetheart. But he, sincere and very much in love with the plain little Veda, failed to sense the unreality of the situation, and when he failed to find the other man he went to his room. They found him next morning, dead.

Another Mary Baker Romance Goes to Smash

When the Chicago heiress began to be courted in whirlwind fashion by the young and handsome Dr. Pouritch, of Belgrade, people began to look for another sudden end of the romance. It lasted a long time, and the young diplomat was with her in Chicago, in London, in Paris and Belgrade. But at last it came, and Mary is now in Italy, still unwed and—as yet—unwooed.

DEPEW FORESEES RE-ELECTION OF COOLIDGE IF HE RUNS

Disagrees With Dr. Butler About Third Term Tradition and Also on Prohibition.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Chauncey M. Depew told the New York Herald Tribune that President Coolidge could be re-elected in 1928, if prosperity continues, even carrying New York State if Gov. Smith should be a candidate against him.

Depew said he could not agree with Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler that the tradition against three terms in the presidency would prevent the re-election of Mr. Coolidge.

"This Coolidge administration is a smiling administration," he said. "The people are content and smiling and they are going to vote to continue the smile. And why not? Main street is for Coolidge and that's a good long thoroughfare."

Depew also said that the prohibition amendment is in the Constitution to stay.

New York Coffee Broker Opened Restaurant by Giving Away Waffles at Terminal.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Mrs. Alice Foote MacDougall, coffee broker, restaurant operator and author, has signed a $1,000,000 lease covering the premises at 50 West Fifty-seventh street for 20 years, at $50,000 a year.

Five years ago she entered the restaurant business by giving waffles with coffee in her little stall in Grand Central Terminal. Last year she tranasacted a business of $2,000,000.

Mrs. MacDougall is a great-great-granddaughter of Stephen Allen, Mayor of New York from 1821 to 1824. At the age of 39 she found herself with an invalid husband, three children and $38. She entered the coffee business, roasting her own coffee and selling direct to consumers. In five years she had built up a $50,000-a-year coffee business, single-handed.

RADIO CONTROL SIDETRACKED

Senate Proponents to Try to Make Bill Unfinished Business.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Radio control legislation is in a dangerous position in the Senate.

Final action on the conference report already approved by the House at this session appears to depend almost solely on the ability of leaders to wear down the opposition. The compromise bill, written by House and Senate conferees, has been sidetracked until after the vote on the McFadden branch banking bill late next week, but proponents then will seek to make it unfinished business. Senator Pittman (Dem.) of Nevada, opposition leader, said today that the exclusion of the provision in conference permitting each state to have its own wave length convinced him a private monopoly was the purpose sought.

LEGISLATORS ASK THAT W. T. FINDLY GET HIS JOB BACK

Both Houses Accept Apology of Chamber of Commerce Secretary for Joking Speech.

HE HAD TALKED OF "PRE-WAR STUFF"

Bixby, Who With Directors Called for His Resignation, "Has No Further Announcement to Make."

Members of the Legislature today decided that they could take a joke, when both houses passed resolutions accepting the apology of William T. Findiy for the jocosely intended remarks which caused him yesterday to be censured by the legislators and ousted from the position of secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Senate's resolution, introduced by Senator Bates of St. Louis, asked the Chamber of Commerce to reinstate Findly as secretary. The House resolution, introduced by Representative Page of Springfield, states that the body "accepts the apology in the spirit in which it was tendered."

Harold M. Bixby, president of the Chamber of Commerce, when told of the legisltors' action, said he had no further announcement to make.

The Boomerang Speech.

Findly, at Wednesday's luncheon of the chamber, talked of the Legislature, which he and some 80 members of the chamber had visited Tuesday, to urge passage of the consolidation and budget program of the Association for Economy in Public Expenditures.

Speaking facetiously, as he afterward said, Findly told the business men that, instead of going in delegations to Jefferson City, they would better employ a "gladhander" and send him there, with a supply of "pre-war stuff," and with a "copper-lined stomach," to enable him to drink what would be offered to him by members of the Legislature. He also ridiculed the "monkey bill" debate in the House, to which he and the other visitors had listened, and commented on the fact that the State Senate had adjourned to hear it.

Denounced in House.

As a result of Findly's remarks, the lower House of the Legislature yesterday morning suspended business, and members took turns rising to a point of personal privilege, to censure the hapless St. Louisan. Some resented the implication that the Legislators drink, and some were more concerned about the suggestion that they were wasting the State's time. A denunciatory resolution was proposed, but was withdrawn when members held that an individual expression did not merit an official reply. Charles M. Hay, dry leader and a friend of Findly, urged the Legislators "not to take Bill too seriously."

Later in the day, the Cole County grand jury issued a subpena for Findly, presumably in order to question him about the sale of liquor in Jefferson City.

Repudiates Findly's Words.

The Chamber of Commerce directors, meeting yesterday afternoon, decided that it would not do to take any chance on losing the good effect which, they believed, had been produced by their appearance before a House committee. So they voted that Findly must resign, and President Bixby sent a telegram to both houses, stating the action taken, repudiating Findly's utterance, and expressing confidence in the Legislature.

Findly sent this message:

"I regret exceedingly that facetious speech made in jest has been given wide publicity along serious lines. Same kind of speech could have been made in the halls of the Missouri Legislature and would have been considered from a humorous standpoint. If I have offended you or any of your members of the House of Representatives I tender my most sincere apology to you and each member of the House."

Findly, who came here in 1899 from Pike County, was secretary to Mayor Kiel for five years, and to Mayor Miller for the first year of his administration. He frequently appeared as a speaker at gatherings both in and outside St. Louis, which the Mayor was unable to attend, and he was considered a tactful as well as a humorous talker. Last May he became secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at $8000 a year, an increase of $2000 over his salary at the City Hall.

HEIR TO $150,000 FOUND BURIED IN PAUPER'S GRAVE

Before His Death in 1925 in Utica, N. Y., Dr. Helegas Had Been Arrested as a Vagrant.

By the Associated Press.

UTICA, N. Y., Feb. 11.—The body of Dr. George Hillegass of Berkeley, Cal., former member of the University of California faculty and heir to $150,000, wa on his way to the Pacific Coast for burial today after being exhumed from a pauper's grave here and identified.

Identification was accomplished by photographs after the body had been placed in a vault. He died in the general hospital early in 1925 and was buried in a public cemetery after efforts to find friends cr relatives had failed.

He disappeared from California 12 years ago and inherited the fortune from his parents and a brother.

Dr. Hillegass was picked up by police in the New York Central Station in February, 1925, and held on a charge of vagrancy. After a month's treatment at the hospital he was discharged and went to St. Johnsville where he visited a Dr. Wagner. Upon his return here, he became ill again and died soon after in a hospital.

Six Troopers of New Jersey State Police Lose Jobs.

By the Associated Press.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Feb. 11.—Resignations of a Corporal and five troopers of the State police stationed at Hammonton were demanded today by Capt. William J. Carter after the six men are alleged to have admitted accepting "hush money" from a Camden County roadhouse proprietor. The resignations are understood to have been immediately offered.

The roadhouse proprietor called Capt. Carter on the telephone and said that while he was willing to pay $50 a week for protection, he could not pay $600 a week which had recently been demanded by the troopers. Capt. Carter is then understood to have called the six men before him and they, it is stated, promptly admitted their guilt.

JURIST ABSENT FROM CITY WHEN BAIL WAS GIVEN

Ralph C. Becker Compares Signature With Admittedly Bona Fide Writing and Calls Them Identical

BAR COMMITTEE WILL VOTE TODAY

Ballot Will Be Taken on Question of Asking Legislature to Investigate Judge's Official Conduct.

A handwriting expert engaged by the Post-Dispatch to compare the signature of Circuit Judge Anthony F. Ittner on one of the three bonds which Sam Arky, professional bondsman, used while the Judge was out of town, with two admittedly bona fide signatures made by Judge Ittner on court documents, has concluded that "all three signatures were made by one and the same person."

Ralph C. Becker, president of the Mechin & Voyce Title Co., an authority on the subject, having qualified as an expert at numerous trials, made the comparison of Judge Ittner's signatures.

The Greivance Committee of the Bar Association is meeting this afternoon to take a vote on the question of asking the State Legislature to appoint a committee to inquire into Judge Ittner's official conduct. Representative Roney of Jasper County said at Jefferson City yesterday that, in his opinion, the Legislature would investigate Ittner if requested to do so by the Bar Association or the Circuit Judges. The facts in the investigation begun by the Post-Dispatch tend to show that Judge Ittner gave bonds signed in blank and in advance to various professional bondsmen.

Should these facts be sustained by a legislative inquiry, Judge Ittner would be subject to impeachment on the ground that he unlawfully had delegated a judicial function to a private citizen.

Arky Produced Three Bonds.

The signature in question appeared on the bond Arky gave for Paul H. Dewey, one of the four defendants arrested for scalping baseball tickets the afternoon of Aug. 29, last. Arky produced it and two other bonds at the Dayton Street Station at 1:45 p. m., pretending that he had just come from Judge Ittner's house, where the Judge had signed the bonds. As a matter of fact Judge Ittner had left St. Louis for Mexico, Mo., at 9 a. m. that day and was in Mexico until 6:40 p. m. attending a Masonic funeral.

The Judge's absence from the city all that day left only two theories to explain how Arky was able to produce three bonds and obtain the release of the four defendants. Either Judge Ittner gave these bonds signed in blank in advance to his friend, Arky, or else the signatures on the bonds were not genuine.

As to the genuineness of the signature on the Dewey bond Becker makes the following report:

"As per your instructions, I have made a careful examination and a comparison of three signatures on three documents all reading: 'Anthony F. Ittner.'

"Exhibit Number one, which is the questioned document, appears to be a common law bond dated Aug. 29, 1926, in which Paul H. Dewey is principal, Sam Arky, security and certified by Anthony F. Ittner, Judge of Circuit Court.

NEW PLAN FOR MERGER OF VAN SWERINGEN INTERESTS

Petition Filed With I. C. C. Seeks Permit to Acquire Erie and Marquette With C. & O. Stock.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—A new plan for merger of a part of the Van Sweringen railroad interests into a single unit was filed today with the Interstate Commerce Commission by the officials of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad.

The Chesapeake & Ohio company, which is now controlled by O. P. and M. J. van Sweringen of Cleveland and their associates, sought the commission's permission to acquire control of the Erie and Pere Marquette railroads and to issue and sell 595,024 new shares of Chesapeake & Ohio stock with a par value of $59,502,400 to finance the transaction.

The proposal as laid before the commission followed closely the outline given this week at Cleveland by W. J. Harahan, president of the C. & O. The Chesapeake and Ohio proposes to acquire, subject to the commission's approval all of the Erie and Pere Marquette stock now held by O. P. Van Sweringen and to buy from the Nickel Plate Railroad, 174,900 shares of Pere Marquette. Further stock necessary to give the Chesapeake and Ohio a majority of the Erie and Pere Marquette will be obtained from other quarters.

UNION DEMANDS 24-HOUR PAY FOR MEN ENTOMBED IN MINE

Raises Issue After Company Grants Two Eight-Hour Shift Wages Daily.

By the Associated Press.

HAZELTON, Pa., Feb. 11.—If a man is entombed in a coal mine for eight days, is he entitled to pay for two shifts of eight hours a day or three shifts? This question has caused a dispute between the miners' Union and the Lehigh Valley Coal Co. in the cases of five miners imprisoned in the Tomhicken colliery by flood last November.

Andrew Mattey, district president of the miners, said the five men had been paid for two shifts a day without notification and that the money was in their pay envelopes when the first regular wage distribution was made after their rescue. Mattey maintains, however, that the men are entitled to pay for 24-hour shifts.

SEVERE STORM IN AUSTRALIA

One Man Drowned, Damage Estimated at $1,250,000.

BRISBANE, Australia, Feb. 11.—A storm struck the northern part of the Cairns district Wednesday, destroying half the houses within a radius of six miles. Rivers overflowed, telegraphic and telephonic communication was cut off, and shipping was affected to a large extent. The material damage is estimated at £250,000 (about $1,250,000). One man is known to have been drowned.

The municipality of Cairns is on the east coast of Queensland. It is a sugar district, with some gold fields and tin mines in the neighborhood.

ST. LOUIS DEMOCRATS AGAINST HOME RULE

City Committee Chairman Asks Legislators to Oppose It on Partisan Grounds.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 11.—The Democratic City Committee of St. Louis is fighting on the grounds of partisan advantage, the city's effort to obtain home rule in its police affairs. Members of the Senate in advance of a vote on the engrossment of the Home Rule bill next Tuesday received letters from Joseph J. Mestres, chairman of the committee, urging them to oppose it because "it will entrench the Republican party in St. Louis as it gives the Mayor absolute control of appointments."

No other ground than that of politics was advanced by Mestres in his letter.

The Home Rule bill, which is a part of the program of the Association for Criminal Justice, would have the effect of taking control of the St. Louis Police from the Republican State administration and turning it over to the Republican city administration. In Kansas City it would take control from the Republican State administration and turn it over to a Democratic city administration.

Republican opposition had been expected because of the Kansas City situation, but none had been anticipated from Democratic organization politicians. Apparently the St. Louis City Committee has hope that some time the Democrats will regain control in the State, but little hope that they will be able to carry St. Louis.

HOUSE ORDERS NUISANCE TAX BILL ENGROSSED

ACTION FOLLOWS SPIRITED DEBATE

Opponents Warned Effort Will Be Made to Increase Income and Corporation Levies if It Fails.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 11.—Administration Republicans in the House of Representatives, supported by some rural Democratic representatives in their revenue raising program, contemplate a drive to increase the income tax and the corporation franchise tax unless Gov. Baker's nuisance tax bill to add approximately $7,000,000 to the State revenues is passed.

During the debate on the latter program yesterday afternoon city members were warned that they could support the measure or be forced to fight a bill which would take even a larger proportion of the needed additional revenue from the cities.

The tax bill is being rushed through the House in an effort to get it into the Senate at the earliest possible moment, and to back it up with measures to increase the income and corporation franchise taxes. The plan is to force the Senate to choose which of the schemes it will adopt, or to force on the Senate the responsibility if no additional revenues are provided.

Senate Majority Agreement.

With this program working, the Democratic majority in the Senate in caucus has virtually agreed that it will not approve any measures which will increase taxes, and that it will hold appropriations to the estimated revenues under existing laws.

Indications are that the two Houses will be in conflict over State finances during the last few weeks of the session.

In the debate on the engrossment of the nuisance tax bill, the position of the supporters of the administration was that unless more money was obtained than present taxes would produce, virtually all of the educational and eleemosynary institutions of the State, as well as the public schools, would be hampered in their activities. That of the opponents was that the proposed nuisance tax program was economically unsound and, admitting that funds were needed, that they should be obtained in some other way. Except for the possible increase of the direct property tax, the income tax and the corporation franchise tax there was no suggestion of another means of obtaining money.

Stand of Rural Members.

Rural members fought vigorously for a tax of 10 per cent on amusement admissions and a tax of 10 per cent on cigars, cigarettes and tobacco, asserting that it was unthinkable that the State would attempt to increase direct property taxes, because of the economic condition in the farming communities.

"We can't go to the country and tax it any more," said Representative McRoberts of Lewis County. "Our schools must have money and the money must be obtained from those places where it is. This is a most reasonable tax and it would not impose a burden where it would hurt."

Representative Freeland of Taney County advanced the idea that a tax on tobacco and on amusement admissions would come nearer than any other to reaching the citizen who has no property and who escapes other forms of taxation. "A property tax," he said, "is a tax on the man who is saving and thrifty. The profligate and the spendthrift enjoys all the benefits of Government without contributing to its cost. This tax would reach him."

Source of Revenue Suggested.

Representative Roberts of Crawford County, opposing the bill, thought that if the stocks and bonds in safety deposit vaults of St. Louis and Kansas City were brought out and taxed there would be no occasion for devising new ways of raising revenue. He declared the proposed bill an unfair one in that it would draw chiefly from the poor.

The chief argument for it advanced by Representative Armstrong of Pulaski County was that it would mean a tax which no man need pay unless he wished. "It is the only tax I can beat without perjuring myself," he said. "I do not have to use tobacco and I do not have to attend picture shows. If I want those luxuries I should be willing to pay this small tax and I am."

Representative Schneider of St. Louis denounced the measure as unsound economically, and Representative Parker of St. Louis said opinion in St. Louis was almost solidly against it. "I would not oppose a higher direct property tax," he said. "Let us be men and quit this little old penurious business. This sort of tax will do more to create bolshevists than all the propaganda Russia can send in here. When the Federal Government had these taxes everybody was cussing the Government all the time, and if we put them on, everybody will be cussing us, and cussing the Government."

Substitute Measure Discussed.

Representative Page of Greene County, Republican floor leader, asked whether, if it was sought to substitute increased income and corporation franchise taxes, the business interests of St. Louis would not rush to the Legislature in protest against such increases.

"Perhaps they would," Parker replied "but they could go straight to the devil as far as I am concerned."

Representative Beedle of St. Louis sought to get Page and Arstrong on record as to whether they would support an increase of 2 cents on the $100 valuation for direct property, 50 per cent increase in income and 50 per cent increase in corporation franchise taxes if the pending measure failed. Page said he would, but Armstrong protested that he would not agree to an increase in the property tax unless the two others went along with it.

Several attempts were made to amend the bill to remove the tax on amendments, but they failed.

Bill Ordered Engrossed.

The bill was engrossed without a roll call, and the indications are that the House will be very closely divided on the bill when it comes up for final passage, which probably will be some time next week. Administration forces express confidence that it will be passed, but they do not expect to have many votes to spare. Opponents express hope they can beat it, but are not overconfident of succeeding in the House.

At the present stage of proceedings there seems little likelihood that the Senate will permit the measure to pass. It was discussed at the Democratic caucus of Senators Wednesday night, and while no definite agreement was reached, the caucus sentiment was against any form of tax increase.

However, the teachers' organization of the State is making a strong drive, and before the end of the session it may be expected that the officials of the educational and eleemosynary institutions will bring strong pressure to bear on the Senate to get more money. Unless there is a strong counter drive, the Senate might submit and choose one of the several bills the House will put up to it.

An increase in the State direct property tax rate, from five cents to seven cents on the $100 assessed valuation is proposed in a bill introduced in the House today by Representative Horace G. Beedle of St. Louis, as a counterproposal to rural members who are backing measures increasing the State income tax 50 per cent and doubling the State corporation franchise tax.

Representative D. L. Bales of Shannon County introduced the corporation franchise tax and income tax bills. The income tax would be increased from one per cent to one and one-half per cent and yield about $2,100,000 a year in additional revenue. The present corporation franchise tax of 50 cents on each $1000 par value of capital stock would be increased to $1, and yield about $1,500,000 a year in additional revenue.

An increase of two cents in the direct property tax would produce approximately $800,000 a year.

Young Pair in Tragic Quarrel

ROABIE SMART, 18, of 933 Rutger street, thought Peggie Crocker, 18, of 1123 Rutger, had "a date" with another fellow, so he shot himself to death at her home last night.

JEALOUS BOY KILLS SELF IN GIRL'S HOME

Roabie Smart, 18, Thinks She Has Date With Another, So Ends Life.

After charging his sweetheart with having an engagement with another man, Roabie Smart, 18 years old, a clerk, of 933 Rutger street, shot and killed himself last night at the home of the girl, Miss Peggie Crocker, 18, of 1123 Rutger.

Smart went to the girl's home early last evening and told her he knew of her engagement for the evening with another man. She denied the charge and Smart departed, going to the home of an uncle, Charles J. Byers of 615 Hickory street, where he removed a revolver from a dresser drawer and departed. He went home and wrote a note, addressed to his father, Samuel Smart, and then returned to the girl's home, at 9:30 o'clock.

He repeated his accusation. When she again declared it to be untrue he told her he was going to kill himself.

Miss Crocker ran from the room to call her sister, Della, and heard one shot as she reached the door. Returning, she found Smart lying on the floor with a bullet wound in the head. He was dead when received at City Hospital.

The note to his father was found in his pocket. It read as follows: "——was so much like an angel he needs wings. Peggy told me she loved me and had a date with ——, so she needs wings, too. I don't want any wings; all I want is revenge, so here goes your baby boy."

LIQUOR RUNNING HERO A HOAX

Seaman Who Rescued Dry Agent Really an Under-cover Man.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The tale of the heroic rescue of Valentine Haas, prohibition agent, by a member of the crew of the liquor boat, Edward Westerbeke, in Great South Bay, last summer, has been bared as an official hoax.

Testifying against James McKenzie, roadhouse owner, charged with violation of the prohibition law, in Federal Court at Brooklyn yesterday, Thomas Shay, former seaman and the man who rescued Haas, disclosed himself as Thomas Clelbron, an under-cover agent for A. Bruce Bielaski. He said he defaulted bail after his arrest, when the Edward Westerbeke was seized. At the time the liquor boat was captured Haas told how Shay forsook his chance to escape to save the life of a fellow man, even though he was a prohibition agent.

REED DECLARES HAUGEN BILL WILL ENSLAVE FARMER

Says Allotment of Part of Crop for Export Means Nothing but Government Peonage.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—In the closing hours of the debate on the McNary-Haughen farm bill in the Senate this afternoon, Senator Reed of Missouri delivered a savage attack on the measure, declaring that its logical consequence would be the reduction of the American farmer to a state of Government peonage.

Referring to that section of the bill which provides that a certain portion of the farmer's produce shall be allotted for export, Reed speaking before crowded galleries and a large attendance in the chamber, shouted:

"When you take a certain percentage of a farmer's grain without his consent, you are taking property without due process of law. If the Government can take 10 per cent, it can also take 50 per cent, and it can reduce the farmers of this country to a condition of absolute slavery.

Doubts Farmers Want Bill.

"Men have stood here and claimed to speak for all the farmers in behalf of this bill. I deny it. I do not believe that more than 20 per cent of the farmers in this country are members of the organizations which sponsor this bill.

"To assert on behalf of this Government the right to take the fruits of a man's labor without due process of law means that the farmers of America can be reduced to agricultural peonage. That's not farm relief—that's tyranny, that's brutality, that's infamy, and a blot on our civilization."

In opening his address, which was limited to 15 minutes by the unanimous consent agreement which provided for a vote at 3 oclock St. Louis time, Reed said it was obviously true that the country was suffering from a "spotted prosperity," in which the farmers were getting all the worst of it, and the banks and manufacturers all the best of it.

Blames G. O. P. for Conditions.

"But," he said, advancing toward the Republican side of the chamber, "it is with a distinct feeling of disgust that I sit here and see proponents of this measure stand on this floor and complain of the hardship of the farmer. They created those hardships by their votes in this chamber. When, by their high tariff, they took from the farmer the right to buy in the free market of the world, in which he is compelled to sell his products, they handed the cream of the country's wealth over to a few favored interests."

"When you," he repeated, shaking his fist at the Republican side, "when you passed a law increasing the price of everything the farmer buys and not affecting the price of anything he sells, you made his impoverishment inevitable.

"That was the first step toward his ruin. Then came the second. When we entered the war, this Congress placed in the hands of Herbert Hoover the power to fix the price of grain and livestock. He caused the establishment of a corporation to export American grain. When the war was over that corporation turned over to the Government $70,000,000 which represented the profits it had made out of dealing in American grain.

Profit at Farmers' Expense.

"This was the profit made by the Government at the expense of the farmers merely on the grain which was exported. Only a fraction of the total was exported. A little calculation will show that Hoover's action deprived the farmers of America of not less than $3,500,000,000 in prices which they would have received without his interference.

"What was the next step? The war ended, and all of us expected prices to fall. Then the representatives of the great banking and manufacturing interests trooped in here from New York, demanding the most extortionate tariff in human history, in order to maintain war-time prices on manufactured goods.

"I saw them come in here, and I heard them say boldly and brutally: 'We won this election, we put Harding over, and we demand the fruits of victory in a tariff that will enable us to keep our prices up.' You Republicans acceded to the demand; you gave them the tariff they asked.

"The tariff was put on, with the result that the price of everything the farmer has to buy was kept at war-time levels, while the price of everything he sells fell with the world market. Now you come in here and whine about the plight of the farmer.

Must Lower the Tariff.

"It is perfectly obvious that the very first thing necessary to help the farmer is to lower the tariff. But no, you don't ask that; you come in here with this bill, which proposes to monopolize his products, fix a price on those which are sold at home, dump the surplus abroad, and divide the loss among the farmers. That's all this bill is.

"If the farmers themselves want to do that they have the right to try it voluntarily, but the Government has no right to force it on a single American farmer against his consent. This bill attempts to say that a free-born American citizen can buy a farm, plant it, harvest it, take his produce to town, and that when he gets it there the merchant to whom he sells it can take out a certain percentage and turn it over to some Government export corporation."

Here he followed with the allusion to the possible consequences of such a law.

As he sat down Senator Caraway (Dem.) of Arkansas, remarked: "That's all right, only there isn't a single thing in the bill that the Senator (Reed) says is in it."

"Well," smiled Reed indulgently, "sometimes my friend from Arkansas agrees with me, and then he's right, and sometimes he disagrees with me, and then he's wrong."

"Sometimes," retorted Caraway, "the Senator from Missouri reads a bill before he makes a speech on it, and then he's usually right, and sometimes he makes a speech, like the one he has just concluded, without reading the bill, and then usually he's wrong."

Bruce Calls It Quackery.

Senator Bruce (Dem.) of Maryland, who preceded Reed, likened the McNary-Haugen measure to populism, greenbackery and "free silver."

"Ever since I was born," he said, "we in the East have been harassed and frightened by the economic fallacies which have been swept out of the brainstorms of the Northwest, to swirl for a few years, and then perish of their own absurdity. This bill is on a parity with them."

Senator Shipstead (Farmer Labor) of Minnesota, countered by reading a resolution passed by the Agricultural Society of Bruce's own State, Maryland, heartily indorsing the bill, and urging Bruce to vote for it. Shipstead remarked it seemed apparent that the Northwest was not alone in its advocacy of the bill.

DEFENSE BALKS PROSECUTOR IN DAUGHERTY TRIAL

Keeps Out Evidence Meant to Show J. T. King Destroyed Records in $7,000,000 Deal.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The Government met with failure today in the Daugherty-Miller trial when it tried to introduce evidence to show that John T. King, late Republican National Committeeman from Connecticut, destroyed records that might have linked him with the conspiracy alleged in the transfer of $7,000,000, the assets of the American Metals Co. to Richard Merton's German house.

United States Attorney Buckner called John Durkin, King's private secretary for six years, and sought to bring out through him testimony adduced at the first trial which showed that a book containing papers relating to the transfer disappeared from King's home in Bridgeport after a congressional investigation of the transfer had been started.

Repeated objections by defense counsel halted this testimony when they were sustained by Judge Knox.

Harry M. Daugherty, former Attorney-General, and Thomas W. Miller, former Alien Property Custodian, are charged with conspiracy to defraud the Government of their best services in connection with the transfer of the metals assets.

King's Check for $25,000.

Through Durkin the Government, however, got into the record exhibits to which defense offered vigorous objections.

A Waldorf Hotel register sheet showing Jesse W. Smith, Daugherty's handy-man, was registered there Aug. 1, 1921, was admitted. Then the Government got admitted a canceled check drawn by King on the Chase National Bank for $25,000. The check was made out to "cash" and the money was drawn by King himself.

By this, Buckner explained, the Government hoped the jury would infer that the $25,000 was given to Smith as his share of a $50,000 "retainer" Merton had given King.

Durkin also gave testimony about the deposit of $195,000 of the Liberty bonds Merton gave King, but this was covered by an attorney's stipulation and the Government's attempt to show that it was not included in King's income tax return, although King considered it a legitimate payment, was obstructed by defense objections sustained by Judge Knox. The Court ruled that Durkin had not learned of this matter until a date subsequent to that of the alleged conspiracy.

INQUIRY INTO IMPEACHMENT OF JUDGE COOPER ORDERED

House Directs Committee to Investigate La Guardia's Liquor Conspiracy Charge.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The House today directed its Judiciary Committee to proceed with the investigation of impeachment charges brought against Federal Judge Frank Cooper of the Northern New York District.

Without a record vote, a resolution by Chairman Graham to give the committee authority to issue subpenas and administer oaths was adopted. The Judge is charged by Representative La Guardia (Rep.) of New York, with having conspired with prohibition agents to entrap persons into law violations.

Graham said his request for authority in no way could be construed as a reflection against Cooper. He said "frivolous charges" had been made and the committee must investigate them.

COUNTESS MINOTTO DIES AT 63

Succumbs to Heart Attack in Her Arizona Home.

By the Associated Press.

PRESCOTT, Ariz., Feb. 11.—Countess Agness Minotto, 63 years old, who achieved distinction as an actress during her early years, died unexpectedly last night at her home in Crown King, Ariz., near here, following a heart attack. At her bedside was her son, James Minotto, and his wife, the former Idamay Swift of Chicago, daughter of Louis Swift, the packer.

Countess Minotto, a German by birth, had lived in this country since 1916. In her stage career she used the name of Agnes Sorma.

SHERIFF ADMITS BEING AFRAID TO ARREST BIRGER

E DENIES SIDING WITH THE GANGSTER

owever, Pritchard of Benton, Less Alarmed Than Turner of Harrisburg, Holds Feudist in Jail.

al to the Post-Dispatch

HARRISBURG, Ill., Feb. 11.—e fear in which Charlie Birger, uthern Illinois gang leader, is ld here, and the power he wields, illustrated in a statement issued re last night by Sheriff Lige rner of Saline County in review- g his course in the Joe Adams urder case.

Birger, as was told yesterday, is w in jail in Benton, Franklin unty, awaiting the approval of 0,000 bond for him on a charge complicity in the murder of Adms, the 300-pound Mayor of West ty, who was assassinated at the or of his home by two men c. 12.

The gang leader was taken to nton yesterday after Sheriff rner had held the warrant for ger for several weeks and had ded every inquiry, even by Sher- Pritchard, as to what he had with it.

n his statement Turner now says did not arrest Birger because he told by a Federal agent, whom does not name, that Birger was Government witness against the elton brothers, Birger's gang emies, for the Collinsville mail bery.

Turner ingenuously remarks that did not think it was advisable nd a posse to arrest Birger bee Birger was unwilling to be rested and would "kill the whole sse."

ne County Sheriff Denies Taking Sides; Issues Statement.

Turner's statement follows:

I want to tell all so people may w just what has transpired sinc killing of Mayor Joe Adams West City. Several days after t occurred I sent my deputy, er Gibbons to the west part of rrisburg to serve some papers. er could not get past the bridge the other side of Birger's home l left his car near this bridge. er serving the papers, he reed, and in trying to turn his around he got it off in the h. Birger and a few other men e out and assisted Elmer in get the car out of the ditch.

While they were thus engaged, er said a warrant had been isagainst him in Benton for the ng of Adams and that Sheriffs chard of Benton and Coleman Marion, with several deputies, e on their way here to arrest .

Gibbons said: 'You're going to ender, aren't you, Charlie?' er informed him that he was bout 5 o'clock that afternoon riff Pritchard and three of his uties arrived at my office and ed me if I knew where Birger . I informed them he was at home. Pritchard informed me t he had a warrant for Birger's est. I informed him that Birger w of the warrant and that he told one of my men that he s not going to surrender. I told tchard that, if he wanted to go to Birger's house, I would go h him, but I advised that we e no one with us.

I told Pritchard that if we went to Birger's house with a bunch men, he would kill the whole e. Pritcherd discussed the matwith me and he did not seem ant to go out to Birger's place. ally Pritchard said to me: 'I'm g to leave this warrant with ' I told him I would arrest er the first chance I had tchard and his men then red to Benton.

The next afternoon a Federal er came to my office and asked concerning the warrant for er. I told him I had it and going to arrest Charlie the first I saw him. The Federal man to me: 'We (the Government) d him, and I'm going to find take charge of him. We can r convict the Sheltons of tee nsville mail robbery if we have him. If I can find Bir- I will go to Benton and try et him bond.'

Told Not to Disturb Biger.

The Federal man did find Bir- and tried to get bond for him Benton, but the State's Attorney would not permit it. The rnment then took charge of er and told me to not disturb until after the trial of the tons.

The Sheltons were convicted, a few days ago I heard Bir- was at home. I decided to go him and summoned Deputy ons of my own office and uty Tom Cain, of Carrier Mills ship. We went out to Bir- home and after repeated ks on the door, Mrs. Birger ed it. I walked in and asked Charlie. Finally he got up out d and came into the room. said, 'Charlie, I have a warrant for you and I have come after you."

"'Don't get excited,' he said, and I assured him that no one was excited. We discussed the situation, and I finally decided to leave Deputy Gibbons at the Birger home until I could satisfy my mind as to the best course to pursue. I was deliberating as to whether to call hSeriff Pritchard or to lock Birger up in our own jail.

"Birger had suggested that we go to Judge Somers and see about bond, but we sidetracked that. I thought of the danger in locking him up here, and while I was deliberating, Sheriff Pritchard and three deputies arrived at my home here. The first thing he said to me was, 'Say, Sheriff, do you know where Charlie Birger is?'

"I said that I did and that I had him under arrest.

"Good for you," said Pritchard, and we started another lengthy consultation. He and I drove out to Charlie's home and were received very cordially. Birger and Pritchard shook hands and sat down on the sofa together and told each other that they had heard lots of each other, but never had met before.

Birger Feared Violence.

Finally Birger said to Pritchard: 'Sheriff, if you take me to Benton, they will overpower you and take me away from you and kill me.'

"Pritchard was worried and so was I. In fact, neither of us knew what was the best course to pursue. Pritchard then said: "I'll tell you, Charlie, what I'm going to do. I am going back to Benton and see if I can't arrange bond for you. In the meantime, you go with your Sheriff here and let him lock you up here and I will see what I can do about a bond for you in Benton." That was agreed and Charlie said to his wife, "Get my coat."

"We then loaded up and started for the jail. We took one of Birger's machine guns to use for our own protection at the jail in case of a raid on the jail. Arriving at the jail, we locked Charlie up and then we had another talk. Pritchard said he would hurry over to Benton and see what he could do.

"I said: 'If you can't get bond, must I take Birger to you?' and he told me to hold him in my jail until I heard from him.

"Pritchard then left me, but before he started I told him I believed I would not go to Springfield on the booster trip, and he urged me to go ahead. He assured me that everything would be all right. He left and I then started to make my arrangements to go to Springfield. If there was any machine gun in Birger's cell I know nothing of it. I make this statement that the people may know I am not faking sides with any set of gangsters. I'm not taking sides with any faction and any report to the contrary is absolutely false."

Birger to Remain Benton Jail Till Excitement Subsides.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BENTON, Ill., Feb. 11.—Charlie Birger, the gang leader who is Sheriff Pritchard's prisoner here, will be allowed to remain in the Franklin County for a week or 10 days, it was announced today by the gangster's attorneys who say they are anxious that "excitement and ill feeling die down," before he makes bond.

Bail has been set at $40,000 for the Adams murder and $2500 on a charge of assault to murder in connection with an attack last fall on Mack Pulliam, a Shelton gangster.

PLEADS GUILTY OF MURDER

After pleading not guilty to a charge of murder yesterday in the Madison County Circuit Court at Edwardsville, Ill., Nealy Markin of Granite City, indicted for killing William McGlothlin, Nov. 27, changed his mind and pleaded guilty. His action followed statements of jurors who had been impaneled that they would impose the death penalty, if the evidence warranted it.

Markin will receive a sentence ranging from one year to life imprisonment. He surrendered four days after killing McGlothlin. They had been drinking together, he said, and after an argument he stabbed McGlothlin.

athy and do you think it will become a means of human communication?" "At present I don't believe in it."

Turning to politics, Edison said he thought President Coolidge ought to be elected for another term and that the Catholic faith of Gov. Smith of New York would hurt his chances in the event that he is nominated as the Democratic candidate for President.

"Democracy works fairly well," he went on, "where people are generally intelligent."

Bolshevism Too Theoretical.

Bolshevism is a menace to the United States and to every other country, in his opinion.

"The Russians mean well," he explained, "but the ruling people know nothing of the real life of the average man or what he will do under certain conditions. Their actions are all theory and based on what they think he ought to do."

"I can't answer this," the aged inventor said with a sigh as he passed by a request for predictions of the scientific achievements which might be expected in the next 80 years.

"I never thought about this and can't answer it," he wrote in reply to the question of one reporter who wanted to know how Henry Ford might best dispose of his fortune for the benefit of mankind.

Edison said he would prefer to be remembered by the phonograph, of all his inventions, and that experimenting pleased him most.

"Nature has many surprises," he added, "and it's great fun to pull them out of the unknown.

"The motion picture industry will go onward and upward," in his opinion, and the legitimate stage "will continue about as at present if no further improvement is made in the motion picture."

Reporters Question Ford.

Ford came in for several questions.

"You've done better commercially than Mr. Edison, haven't you?" he was asked. "I don't know about that; he's done more good than any-one else in the world."

"If you had your life to live over, do you think you could improve on it?" Ford said he had no desire to live his life over. He has had a good time, he said, is happy, and expects to be happy as long as he lives and feels there would be no need of living it again.

Shortly after noon, Edison and Ford went to Newark, to be guests of the Edison Pioneers at a luncheon. The Pioneers are those associates of the inventor who were with him before 1889.

Mrs. Edison said the advancing years were not changing her husband greatly.

Born at Milan, O., in 1847.

Edison was born in Milan, O., Feb. 11, 1847, and received his schooling from his mother. While selling newspapers on the Grand Trunk Railway he learned telegraphy.

Among his contributions to telegraphy are the automatic repeater, the quadruplex and the sextuplex systems of transmission, the electric pen and the printing telegraph.

Edison's carbon transmitter furnished the one link necessary for Alexander Graham Bell's telephone. Edison also produced the phonograph, the original motion picture, the electric valve, now fundamental in all wireless telegraphy operations and the alkaline storage battery.

$175,000 ALT ESTATE LEFT TO WIDOW AND CHILDREN

Postmaster Had Sold Holdings So Heirs Get Cash Instead of Stock Mentioned in Will.

Although the will of Louis Alt, Postmaster of St. Louis, filed for probate at Clayton yesterday, was designed to disposed of his large holding in the Beacon Paper Co., which he sold four weeks ago, intent of the instrument will be carried out through distribution of the cash proceeds.

Value of the estate is estimated at $175,000 by Eugene C. Slevin, attorney who filed the will. Mr Alt died last Saturday. He left the bulk of his estate to his widow, Mrs. Emma C. Alt, but the effect of the will provides a $25,000 legacy for his daughter, Miss Cora E. Alt, and $15,000 each for his sons, Walter L. and Richard C. Alt.

Dated March 14, 1925, the will set forth an agreement in 1912 between Mr. Alt, Alfred E. Fuhlage who recently succeeded the late Postmaster as president of the Beacon Paper Co., and Robert L. Tillman, vice president, whereby the survivors of the first to die could buy the deceased's stock at book value. Mr. Alt, who had 1316 2-3 of the 500 shares, decided to "put his house in order" and sold his associates his holding. Par value is $100 a share and Fuhlage said yesterday book value was a little more than par.

MEN TO APPRAISE PLAZA SITE TO BE CHOSEN MONDAY

A public hearing on the appointment of three Commissioners to direct the appraisal and condemnation of property for the Municipal Plaza and Auditorium provided in the bond issue, was held today by Circuit Judge Hamilton in his courtroom with about 25 lawyers representing property owners in attendance.

The Judge read the names of 47 persons who had applied for appointment as Commissioners and asked for objections. Assistant City Counselor Phillips said the city asked only that no one be appointed who owned property in the affected district, and the attorneys asked that Commissioners be named who would be fair and unbiased in the assessment of values. O. J. McCawley, for the St. Loius Convention and Publicity Bureau, asked that men be picked who would devote their time wholeheartedly to getting construction of the auditorium under way.

Judge Hamilton announced he would name the three Commissioners Monday and would exercise care in picking men who had the time and inclination to push the work to an early completion.

HOTEL JEFFERSON 14-STORY ANNEX TO START IN MAY

Chicagoans Buy Half Interest for $1,000,000 — Plans for $6,000,000 Improvement Given Out.

Erection of the long talked-of addition to Hotel Jefferson is to be an early result of the sale of a half interest in the hostelry to Chicago interests, it was announced today. About $1,000,000 is said to have been paid for the half interest, and it is announced that refinancing, erection of the addition and remodeling of the present building would cost $6,000,000.

The addition, 14 stories high, will increase the Locust and St. Charles street frontage of the hotel by about one-third, to 200 feet. The frontage of the present 12-floor structure on Twelfth boulevard is 220 feet. The lobby will be remodeled and extended, without interfering with use of the hotel. The addition will contain a banquet hall to seat 1200 and two smaller halls seating 200 each, all three of which may be thrown together on occasion. With the addition, the hotel will have 800 rooms, nearly all with bath.

Construction will start in May and is expected to be finished in about a year, it is announced.

Stock to Be Offered to Public.

Lyman T. Hay, president of the Hotel Jefferson Co., and the Gaines estate sold the half interest to a Chicago group headed by Mac L. Teich and Carl C. Roessler, who have operated Chicago hotels for more than 25 years. Teich and Roessler will move here to participate in the management, but Hay, a veteran hotel man, will continue as president of the corporation, with Teich as chairman of the board.

Included in the financial group, said Teich, are contracts for a loan of about 50 per cent of the value of the property, underwritten by the Mercantile Trust Co of St. Louis and the Continental Commercial Co. of Chicago. About $600,000 in preferred stock is to be offered the public.

Name to Be Changed.

Among favorable considerations taken into account by the Chicago purchasers were the width of Twelfth boulevard, the volume of passing traffic, the proximity of the projected Memorial Plaza, the project to connect Twelfth boulevard with the Gravois and Florissant boulevard systems, and the expectation of the continued progress in St. Louis. The traffic factor influenced a decision to construct a number of retail shops in the ground floor of the hostelry.

The name will be changed to "New Jefferson Hotel." The hotel was erected in 1903, the year before the Louisiana Purchase Exposition and the Democratic National Convention here. Thomas Jefferson, patron of the Democratic party, made the Louisiana purchase.

RAIL EXECUTIVE KILLS HIMSELF IN FOUR-STORY LEAP

Edward Chambers, Vice President of Santa Fe, Plunges From Hospital Window in California.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—Edward Chambers of Chicago, vice president of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway, plunged four stories to his death from a hospital window here early today after having been seized with what apparently was an attack of temporary insanity.

Chambers entered the hospital about 10 days ago for a minor operation. He was reported to have been making normal progress towards recovery.

Hospital authorities said that shortly before 3 o'clock this morning he jumped from his bed, grabbed his special nurse and thrust her out of the room, locking himself in. Before the nurse could summon help he smashed a window and plunged over the sill.

Attendants took him back into the building, where he died a few moments later.

With Road 49 Years.

Chambers had been with the Santa Fe for 49 years and was 68 years old.

As the official in charge of traffic, Chambers has been a frequent visitor to the Pacific Coast for several years. He entered the employ of the road in 1878 at Pueblo, Colo., as a freight handler, going to San Diego and Los Angeles on successive promotions.

In 1905 he became assistant freight traffic manager for the Coast lines of the road, with headquarters here, later becoming vice president in charge of traffic and moving to Chicago.

Chambers was made director of transportation of the United States Food Administration during the war, and later was director of traffic of the United States Railroad Administration. In 1920 he resumed work with the Santa Fe.

Nurse Tells of Struggle.

Details of her struggle with Chambers were told by Miss Nonnie Boyle Yates, his nurse, today.

"The patient was sleeping peacefully," she said. "Suddenly he leaped from bed and without a word seized a big flower pot from a table and hurled it at me. I dodged it and it missed my head by an inch.

"Then he swung at me with his fists some of his blows landing with terrific force against the wall as I retreated from him. One blow struck me on the back of the head and another on the face. He grabbed me, knocked me down and dragged me about the room. I managed to slip from his grasp and tried to reach a button which would flash a red light out in the hall. But I could not make it. At last I made my way to the door and flung it open.

"He grabbed me and shoved me into the hall with great force. Then he jumped back into the room and slammed and locked the door."

Chambers wrecked his room while Dr. J. H. West, resident physician, and a number of male internes were forcing an entrance. He brought a heavy metal stool down on all the breakable furniture with heavy crashing blows, finally hitting the door lock a heavy blow that prevented the use of a pass key. His bed was demolished.

DORIS DUKE.

14-YEAR-OLD DORIS DUKE COMES INTO HER MILLIONS

Court Order Gives Girl Fifth Avenue Mansion, Four Autos and Tapestries.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—To a 14-year-old girl the Supreme Court has awarded a $1,600,000 Fifth avenue mansion, a private railroad car, four automobiles, a collection of tapestries and other miscellaneous luxuries. The girl is Doris Duke, daughter and heir of the late James Buchanan Duke, and the judgment of the Supreme Court was to put into effect the provisions of the father's will, filed in 1925.

Duke also left to his daughter a trust fund consisting of one-third of his residuary estate and shares of stock in the Duke Power Co., in New Jersey.

STILL GUARDED BY SIX DOGS RAIDED

Police Rout Animals, Seize the Liquor Plant and Arrest Two Men.

Night Chief of Police Stinger, who normally has a quiet job, found action early today when he joined two motorcycle patrolmen in a raid on a still at 5314 Bischoff avenue.

Five or six dogs, Stinger reporter, charged the policemen as they entered the back yard. Stinger seized a stick and swung vigorously for a minute or two before he knocked one of the animals insensible and routed the rest.

In a garage in the rear of the house raiders found a still from which 110 gallons of alcohol had been run off. Its tender, half stupefied by fumes from the coke and boiling mash, was arrested. He gave his name as Joseph Dogrorio and professed inability to speak English. Another man who said he was Tony Biamonti, was found in bed in the house. He, too, said he could speak no English.

Near the still the raiders found two vats, filled with about 25,000 gallons of mash. They are to be pumped dry by the Fire Department today.

SENTENCE OF FLYER REVOKED

Spanish War Minister Releases Critic of Government.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 11. — A prison sentence imposed on Commander Ramon Franco, Spanish aviator of Spain-Argentina flight fame, has been revoked. He was sentenced to a month's military imprisonment for what the authorities considered a presumptuous message to the Spanish Ambassador to Argentina.

A dispatch to La Nacion from Hendays, on the Franco-Spanish frontier, says an hour after Franco had reported at the San Cristobal castle in Badajoz, to serve his sentence, a message arrived from the Minister of War, revoking it. In his message to the Ambassador the aviator protested against the failure of his country to receive an air transport contract which the Argentine Government had awarded to a French aviation concern.

Child Drinks Insect Poison.

Loraine Nessel, two years old, is in a serious condition at City Hospital from the effects of insect poison, which she drank while playing on the kitchen floor of her home, 1439 South Third street, yesterday. Mrs. Helen Nessel, the mother, told physicians she placed a bottle containing the poison on a chair, from which the child obtained it. She is expected to recover.

POSTMASTERSHIP TO AWAIT EXAMINATION

Republican State Chairman and St. Louis Congressmen Then to Pass on Applicants.

Selection of a Postmaster for St. Louis, to succeed the late Louis Alt, will be made by Dr. E. B Clements, Republican National Committeeman from Missouri, and the Republican Congressmen from St. Louis, after the names of the three high men in the civil service examination for the place are certified, Clements said today.

Clements, who returned from Washington last night to attend the Lincoln day banquet of the Association of Young Republicans of Missouri tomorrow, said he knew of no applicants for the $8000-a-year position, and that there was nothing to be done about the selection until the civil service authorities bold the examination, possibly in three or four months.

While postmasterships are under the civil service, politicians of the party in power usually have a large voice in the choice among the three high men in the examination. It has been suggested that Clements might seize the opportunity to make a political trade in this case, in order to gain support for Dr. Ed Brown of Edina, Mo., as Collector of the Customs here. Local Republican leaders favor reappointment of the incumbent, Louis M. Hall of St. Louis. Clements declared today he would not think about such a trade, as the postmastership was a local place and the collectorship one of interest to the State.

"I think Congressmen Newton and Dyer and Congressman-Elect Niedringhaus should have the most to say about the postmastership," Clements explained. "Names of the three high men will be submitted to me and I will submit them to the Congressmen, providing they are all good men. Then the majority of us will decide on the one to be selected."

Congressman Newton will be succeeded by Niedringhaus on March 4. Since both Missouri Senators are Democratic, Committeeman Clements has the leadership in Republican Federal patronage matters now.

Michener Sworn In.

Athol J. Michener, who has been Assistant Superintendent of Mails in charge of Central Station, in the Federal Building, was sworn in at his old, but flower-covered, desk as acting Postmaster by Federal Judge Davis this morning. About 50 subordinates were spectators. He is 65 years old and began his career in the postal service here as a substitute letter carrier 38 years ago. He will move to the office in the Main Postoffice.

Michener is expected to be a candidate in the examination for Postmaster, with the advantage of familiarity with the work. He was recommended for the temporary place by Clements, who has known him for several years; the Republican Congressmen, Chairman Kiel of the Republican State Committee and Chairman Remmers of the City Committee.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN FOUND DEAD ON ILLINOIS HIGHWAY

Skull Had Been Fractured and Indications Were That He Had Been Killed by Auto.

The body of an unidentified man, about 48 years old, was found last night on State Highway No. 11, near Highland, Ill. Death was caused by a fractured skull. The body was found by Wesley Holsapple, a truck driver. Search of the man's clothing disclosed a vaccination certificate dated Dec. 24, 1926, issued to Charles Miller; a paper bearing the name Tony Paulobish, Box 96, Benton, Ill., and $15 in cash.

Because of the torn condition of the clothing, Highland police believe the man may have been struck by an automobile, the driver of which failed to stop.

LOCAL ADVERTISING TAX URGE

East St. Louis Real Estate Board Advocates Civic Levy.

A law providing an advertising tax for local purposes was proposed in a resolution adopted yesterday by the East St. Louis Real Estate Exchange. Florida and California have a State tax on advertising. The proposal will be presented by East St. Louis delegates at a meeting of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards Monday and Tuesday in Chicago.

The delegates also were instructed to attempt to bring the next State real estate men's convention to East St. Louis, and to urge the passage of laws requiring principal notes to be presented with a mortgage before a release can be obtained. This, it is said, will check many issues of false mortgages on unincumbered property.

"Kidnaping" by Suitor Reported.

The Italian custom of forcibly taking a bride where objections are to be overcome is supposed to be responsible for the "kidnaping" of Rose Pulvirinti, 16 years old, of 1432 North Ninteenth street, near her home at 11:30 p. m. yesterday. Three men, one of whom was recognized as a suitor for the girl's hand, drove up to the curb in an automobile, put her in the machine and drove away.

FIND HEADLESS BODY OF WOMAN IN RIVER

South Bend (Ind.) Searchers in Boats Seek Other Clews to Supposed Murder.

By the Associated Press.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 11.—An investigation was started today along the ice-fringed shores of the St. Joe River, where, in a tiny cove on the grounds of St. Mary's College for Girls, Earl Rupe and Frank Dolde yesterday found the headless body of a woman. The arms, shoulders and part of the trunk were missing, down to the fifth rib, with both legs broken at the hips and bent back, the heels touching the thighs and tied with cord.

The search today was upstream, along both banks for missing parts of the body. Other searchers went in boats along the shallow stream, dragging its bed.

Seventeen women have been reported missing in South Bend in the last nine months. The woman might have met death four months ago, examining physicians said, but because of the condition of the body which had been sprinkled with lime, the time of death was uncertain.

The most common theory was that the body had been placed in a box, which probably was tossed into the river from one of several bridges spanning the St. Joe, between South Bend and Elkhart, Ind. Action of the swift current tossing the rough coffin against river banks and floating debris probably smashed the box, freeing the body.

Rupe, South Bend fireman, said he had passed the spot where the body was found a week ago and that the body was not visible then.

Meager clews given up by the river included a strip of flesh colored silk stocking and a bit of cotton underclothing found clinging beneath one bent-back knee.

The woman described as about 30 years old, 5 feet, 8 inches in height, and weighing about 160 pounds.

Last night physicians found indications that the woman was to have become a mother.

MURDER FUGITIVE ARRESTED

Man Wanted in Detroit Taken by St. Louis Police.

Sam Gjurekovic, 35 years old, a barber was arrested at his home, 1912½A South Third street, last night on request of Detroit police for the murder of John LeMaster in a Detroit saloon on Jan. 2 last year.

Capt. McGuire reported that Gjurekovic admitted firing the fatal shot, but said that it occurred accidentally when he was examining a pistol which had been handed him at the bar by a man he did not know. He said he had gone from Detroit to Chicago and on Nov. 1, learning that he was sought, had come to St. Louis.

GRAND JURY INQUIRY INTO LOBBY ACTIVITIES

Becker Ordered to Produce Records Showing Registration of Legislative Agents.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 11.—An investigation of the activities of the lobbyists at the Missouri Legislature is being made by the Cole County grand jury, in session here, and a subpoena has been issued to Secretary of State Becker for production Monday of all his records pertaining to registration of lobbyists and their expense accounts.

The inquiry also may extend to rumors of liquor being run into Jefferson City during the legislative session.

Only 26 of the small army of lobbyists have registered with the Secretary of State so far, few of the better known lobbyists appearing on the records. This is due largely to the fact that the Supreme Court several years ago declared unconstitutional a section of the law requiring the lobbyists to register, stating the legislation they were interested in, whom they represented, and requiring them to file expense accounts.

The other section left in the lobbyist law by this decision merely prohibits lobbyists from going on the floor of either House to talk to members without an invitation from the House or Senate.

Correspondents of the metropolitan newspapers also have been subpenaed to appear before the grand jury, but the purpose in summoning them has not been made evident.

Among lobbyists registered are W. S. Rutherford of St. Louis, on municipal bond matters; W. Rufus Jackson of St. Louis, police pensions; H. O. Maxey of Poplar Bluff Missouri Welfare League; T. H. Rogers of St. Louis, Missouri Association for Economy in Public Expenditures; Frank Stonner, Associated Industries of Missouri; James M. Pendergast of Kansas City; James A. Potter and former Supreme Judge Otto of Jefferson City, Missouri Association for Criminal Justice; Pierre R. Porter of Kansas City, Chamber of Commerce; Edwin A. Kauthoff of Kansas City, law revision legislation; Gus Vohlkamp of St. Louis, Automobile Club of Missouri; Ann C. McGuire of St. Louis, Associated Nurses of Missouri; C. W. Godefrey, National Hairdressers Association; John C. Hall of St. Louis, representing electric interests.

WATER DRYING FROM COKE CAUSED SHORT WEIGHTS

Explanation Made in Court Wins Freedom for Weigher of Fuel Concern.

On his plea that the water in two loads of coke dried out between the time of weighing and its delivery and cut down its weight, John Doerer, a weigher employed by the Larr Coal Co. of 825 South Twenty-third street, today was acquitted by Police Judge Beck on short-weight charges.

Doerer declared the two loads included about 13,400 pounds each when he weighed them. On delivery the next day one was 200 pounds short and the other 225.

Doerer's attorney introduced a letter in evidence from Dean E. J. McCaustland of the Engineering College, at the University of Missouri, to show that coke attracts and retains water equal to 15 to 20 per cent of its weight. It was contended some of the water in Doerer's coke was dried out in delivery.

POLICE BILL RECOMMENDED

House Committee Favors Adding 400 to St. Louis Force.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 11.—A bill adding 400 policemen to the St. Louis department was reported out today by the House Municipal Corporations Committee with a favorable recommendation after a controversy between St. Louis members of the committee. Representative Frank O. Bittner of St. Louis, a commitee member who opposed the bill, said the report was made over his protest.

The bill was brought up in an executive session of the committee earlier in this week at the request of the author, Representative Louis A. Riener, of St. Louis. Chairman Charles Albrecht later said the bill had been laid over without action, but Riener and Representative A. A. Huber of St. Louis, asserted the committee had voted seven to two to report the bill out favorably.

PIN TAKEN FROM GIRL'S LUNG

Six-Year-Old Accidentally Swallowed It While Playing.

Ada Feiselman, 6-year-old daughter of O. C. Feiselman, of Washington, Mo., is recovering at Missouri Baptist Sanitarium from an operation performed on her last night to remove half of a safety pin, which she accidentally swallowed. The pin lodged in her lung. It was removed by means of the bronoscope and a small pair of pliers inserted through her windpipe. The operation was performed in 12 minutes.

Ada was holding the pin in her mouth and playing with her brother when he pushed her over backwards, causing her to swallow it.

$9970 Pay Roll Taken in Holdup.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—A National Biscuit Co. payroll of $9970 was seized today by five robbers who fired several shots to intimidate Walter Durack, an employe and a chauffeur. The money later was recovered when the robbers abandoned their automobile in a fight with police.

ROD LAROCQUE QUITS DE MILLE

Movie Star Files Suit to Cancel 5-Year Contract.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—Rod Larocque, film actor, has filed suit to cancel his five-year contract with Cecil Be de Mille and the Cecil B. de Mille Pictures Corporation, because on four occasions his name was not advertised in as large type as his agreement stipulated.

The actor's suit declares the salary feature of the contract, which he signed two years ago and provides for a sliding scale wage ranging from $2500 to $6000 a week, is satisfactory. The contract, however, specifies that in all advertising La Rocque's name shall be in type as large as the name of the production.

NEW CHILEAN CABINET AGAINST TACNA PARLEY

Ibanez Ministry Reverses Past Policy and Opposes "Useless Negotiations."

By the Associated Press.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 11.—The new Chilean Cabinet, headed by Gen. Carlos Ibanez, is opposed to continuation of "useless negotiations" for settlement of the Tacna-Arica problem between Peru and Chile. A spokesman said today that the question had been prolonged uselessly by former Chilean Cabinets, but that the new Government would adopt "an absolutely contrary policy."

Questioned about reports that Chile was likely to annex the disputed provinces, Minister of Foreign Affairs Conrado Rios Gallardo said there was no such intention, but he intimated hostility t ward continuation of the present negotiations at Washington.

Gen. Ibanez, War Minister in the previous Cabinet, took office Wednesday after a declaration that Bolshevism, facilitated by a weak government, had carried the country to "deplorable extremes." Following this declaration by Ibanez, the other members of the Cabinet resigned, leaving Ibanez to organize a new one.

Twenty naval officers have resigned, following the example of Admiral Juan Schroeders, who retired as Director-General of the Navy.

STOCKHOLDERS OF LAND CONCERN ASK FOR RECEIVER

President of Company Charged With Refusing Them an Audit of Books.

Six stockholders of the Pioneer Land and Investment Co. of 317 North Eleventh street, yesterday applied in Circuit Court for a receiver for the corporation. They allege the president, William S. Cordry, has refused to allow them to make an audit of the books. They further allege that officers of the company issued to themselves stock in the corporation for which no cash was paid into the treasury.

According to the petition, an effort is being made to "freeze out" the plaintiffs from the business, in which they invested a total of $3500. The defendant company, which has a small capitalization, was organized to acquire by purchase title to land in Florida on which owners had failed to pay taxes.

U. S. AUTHORITIES CHARGE BANKRUPT CONCEALS ASSETS

Man Arrested as G. Potaro, Head of Defunct Firm, Says He Is S. Castelli, an Employe.

WARRANT ISSUED IN BOTH NAMES

Penalty Is Five Years in Prison and $10,000 Fine—Assets $1400, With Debts of $29,000.

Federal authorities, co-operating with the St. Louis Association of Credit Men in the prosecution of bankrupts for concealing assets, yesterday centered their activity against G. Potaro & Bros., wholesale grocery and olive oil company at 1025 Franklin avenue, which failed recently with liabilities estimated at $29,000 and assets of $1400.

With a warrant charging concealment of assets they arrested a man alleged to be Giovanni Potaro, president of the concern. The prisoner insisted he was Santi Castelli, an employe, but when creditors identified him as Potaro, the warrant was reissued naming him as Castelli alias Potaro. He was held in default of $10,000 bond for a hearing March 9. The maximum penalty for the offense charged is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

A large part of the concern's business, since it was organized last April, Federal officers assert was in moonshiners' supplies. The St. Louis Can Co. claims $1900 for five-gallon cans, 25,000 of which were ordered, and a wholesale grocery company seeks payment for a large quantity of corn sugar such as moonshiners use. Claims indicate that heavy buying in corn sugar and cans began last September.

Joseph Reardon, receiver for the concern, could not identify the prisoner as Potaro, never having met the president of the company. Anthony Canzoneri, attorney for the prisoner, declared he knew Potaro, who he insisted was not the man under arrest.

To Have Nice White Hands In Winter

Many women have recently learned how to have soft, pretty, white hands even in winter, regardless of the kind of work they have to do. Many of our shop girls have beautiful, soft, pretty, white hands because they have learned how to care for them and at little cost. The secret lies in rubbing a little Ice-Mint into the hands occasionally preferably just before retiring at night. In the morning you will be agreeably surprised at the pleasant transformation that has been wrought by even a single application. Ice-Mint is made from a Japanese product that is simply marvelous for its beautifying properties whether used on the hands or face. Regardless of what kind of work a woman does she should have pretty hands as they are really the true marks of refinement. A few applications of Ice-Mint will actually make any woman proud of her hands and skin. It costs little and is sold and recommended by good druggists everywhere.

SHELTONS GO TO WORK IN PRISON STONE YARD

Man Found With Their Mother and Sister Questioned in St. Louis.

The three Shelton brothers—Carl, Earl and Bernie—who were sentenced last week in Federal Court at Quincy, Ill., to terms of 25 years each for the Collinsville mail robbery, have been assigned to work at Leavenworth prison in the stone yard, cutting stone out of which additions are being made to the prison. They occupy different cells but work near each other and have the privilege of conversing during recreation periods.

St. Louis detectives yesterday found Carl Shelton's wife, his mother and Arthur C. McDonald, a drayage contractor at Daytona Beach, Fla., registered at the Laclede Hotel and took them to Police Headquarters for questioning.

McDonald disclaimed any connection with the gang activities of the Sheltons. Police at Daytona were notified by telegraph that he was being held here.

At the hotel also was Hazel Shelton, a sister of the three convicts. She and her mother had come from Fairfield, Ill., to attend the trial at Quincy, and said they had stopped off in St. Louis to visit Carl's wife on their way back to Fairfield.

NEW TRIAL GRANTED TO TWO KLANSMEN OF HERRIN, ILL.

Abe Hicks and Sam Childers Had Been Convicted of Impersonating U. S. Officers in Liquor Raids.

A new trial was granted by Federal Judge Lindley at East St. Louis yesterday to Abe Hicks and Sam Childers of Herrin, Ill., convicted Nov. 14, 1925, of impersonating Federal officers. Judge Lindley said the evidence failed to prove their guilt, and remarked the case seemed to be based on enmity etween klansmen and anti-klansmen. He suggested the prosecution be dropped, but District Attorney Baker will consult with the Department of Justice before taking action.

Childers, a Constable, assisted S. Glenn Young, Ku Klux Klan leader, in a liquor raid, and arrested a man who was thereupon fined by Hicks, Justice of the Peace. The man complained that Young, Childers and Hicks had represented themselves to be Federal officers. All three were indicted, but Young was killed before the trial.

FACTORY EMPLOYE FOUND DEAD IN ELEVATOR SHAFT

Albert Burgdorf, 23, Crushed by Gate as Car Proceeded to Upper Floor.

Albert Burgdorf, 23 years old, of Granite City, a trucker at the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co., Fifteenth street and Clark avenue, was found dead at the bottom of an elevator shaft there at 11 o'clock last night when a fellow worker, Frank Schwink, 2709 Michigan avenue, investigated the crashing of a gate on the second floor.

Investigation disclosed Burgdorf apparently had started to go from the second to the fourth floor to get an empty truck and in getting on the elevator at the second floor had been caught against the gate and crushed and dropped into the basement while the elevator continued upward. His skull and chest were crushed.

PROBST BROTHERS RELEASED ON $15,000 APPEAL BONDS

Former New Athens (Ill.) Brewers Were Given Two-Year Sentence for Dry Law Conspiracy.

George and Benjamin Probst, brothers, owners of the New Athens, Ill., brewery, who were sentenced yesterday to serve two years in the Atlanta penitentiary and fined $10,000 each by Federal Judge Walter Lindley at East St. Louis, later filed supersedeas bonds of $15,000 each and were released from custody of the marshal, after an appeal was granted on a writ of error to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The Probsts, who were convicted Dec. 17 with eight other defendants of conspiracy to violate the Volstead Act by the manufacture and sale of real beer at the New Athens brewery, were described during the trial as "the big men behind the brewery."

JUROR COLLAPSES IN COURT

Damage Suit Continues With 11 in Jury Box.

A juror collapsed this morning when hearing testimony in a damage suit in Circuit Judge Mix's court. He was said to have suffered an attack of epilepsy.

The juror was Harry T. Ryan, a salesman, 3709 Sullivan avenue. The case, which was a suit of Mrs. Nellie Kendrick for $7500 for personal injuries when a porch fell at 2009 North Broadway, where she was a tenant of Frances E. Austin, continued with 11 jurors, by agreement of counsel for both sides.

New York Night Clubs Raided.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Seven men were arrested on charges of violating the prohibition law when Federal agents raided eight restaurants and night clubs in the mid-town area and in Greenwich Village early today. Agents say liquor was found in seven places.

STATE PRINTING FIGHT EDITORS' MAIN TOPIC

Republican Publishers of Missouri Discuss Referendum Suit at St. Louis Convention.

Interest at the annual business meeting of the Republican Editorial Association of Missouri, at Hotel Jefferson today, centered about the controversy over publication of initiative and referendum propositions and constitutional amendments, which has been taken to the State Supreme Court.

Father John Fugel, a Catholic priest and newspaper publisher of Vienna, Mo., as has been told, sued to enjoin Secretary of State Becker from paying $206,655 for publication of the propositions before the November election. These were printed almost entirely by Republican country papers, selected by Becker and paid at a rate fixed by law which the priest contends is exorbitant. Previously Father Fugel had failed in an effort to make the Secretary of State take bids for the publication.

Payments Held Up.

The Republican editors who met here are particularly interested because the suit has prevented payment of the money for this printing. Becker addressed them, defending his actions. He said he had followed the custom and the law. The rates paid, he declared, were not too high for country papers, but were too low for city papers. He quoted Walter S. Dickey, publisher of the Kansas City Journal-Post and president of the Republican Editorial Association, as saying the rates would not buy the paper necessary for city newspapers to publish the propositions.

Fenton Stockard, an attorney and "Blue Sky" Commissioner under Becker, described the legal steps taken in the suit and said the defense had planned the action whereby the case recently was taken to the Supreme Court. He and Becker told of an act introduced in the Legislature last month to appropriate the $206,655 to pay for last year's publication, and providing for certification of the bills to the State Auditor. The publishers' bills already have been certified to the Secretary of State and the general appropriation act provides for their payment also, but the injunction suit would prevent the Secretary of State from acting.

May Make Both Moves.

Stockard and Becker explained that the Legislature might be expected to pass two measures, leaving it for the Governor to decide which to approve and which to veto, if the Supreme Court does not decide the suit before the Legislature adjourns. In short, the plan for certification to the State Auditor is a device to avoid the litigation and pay for printing already done.

Last autumn the association decided to employ counsel to help Becker defend the suit and Charles W. Fear, secretary-treasurer of the association and Becker's chief clerk, announced publishers had contributed $735 to date to meet this expense.

Acting Mayor Neun welcomed the gathering this morning and W. R. Dutton, editor of the Seneca News-Dispatch, responded. The Rev. Frank Fay, editor of the Chillicothe Tribune, delivered the invocation. Speakers at the morning session included President Dickey, George Hagee, president of the Association of Young Republicans of Missouri, which will hold its annual Lincoln day banquet here tomorrow, and E. E. E. McJimsey, Springfield publisher.

General discussions of Republican journalism in Missouri and of professional matters, followed by reminiscences of former years, reports of district vice presidents and election of officers occupied the afternoon.

YOUTH SHOT IN BACK RUNNING FROM POLICE

Officer Hunting Suspected Coal Thieves, Wounds James Grandinetti, 17.

James Grandinetti, 17 years old, of 1515 North Eighth street, was shot in the back yesterday afternoon when he ran after Patrolman Carl House had ordered him to halt. The boy, who has a police record, is at City Hospital in serious condition.

House and two other policemen were sent to the railroad yards at the foot of Mullanphy street by Police Capt. Nally after Louis Gilderman, a private watchman, had reported that three youths were there with the apparent intention of stealing coal and that one of them was a coal thief who had threatened his life a year ago.

When House and Patrolman Joseph Schottel came upon the three youths they fled. House took after Grandinetti, firing a shot in the air and then shooting directly at the boy. He also fired a shot at one of Grandinetti's companions, who stumbled, then scrambled to his feet again and escaped. The third boy got away from Schottel.

Grandinetti, who has been arrested six times and is a former inmate of Bellefontaine Farm for wayward boys, told police he had just been released from a two-month sentence at St. Charles for interstate transportation of a stolen automobile. He said he was afraid that police might lock him up without placing a charge against him.

Gillerman said he had never seen the wounded youth before.

HOMES OF MEXICAN REBELS BURNED BY FEDERAL TROOPS

State of Colima Virtually Pacified; Revolters Executed in Jalisco When Captured.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 11.—Talamantes, in a report to the War Department, announces that the State of Colima virtually has been pacified through the action of the Federal troops in burning homes of those who took the field against the authorities in the various towns.

Five rebels of the State of Jalisco have been executed. They were arrested when trying to escape pursuit by Ferreira's troops. Fifteen rebels were killed and one officer and three soldiers were wounded in combat at Cerro Prieto, when 150 rebels attacked a column of Federals and were routed.

A statement from the office of President Calles says that the attempted "Catholic Revolution" has been definitely suppressed.

Archbishop Orozco Y Jiminez of Guadalajara, who recently was reported to have taken the field at the head of a rebellious group, in the State of Jalisco, has arrived in Mexico City.

MAN AND WIFE FACE PRISON

J. W. Goheen and Mate Convicted of Receiving Stolen Clothing.

J. W. Goheen and his wife, Grace, were convicted by a jury of receiving stolen property, in the Circuit Court of Edwardsville, Ill., yesterday, upon the testimony of Mrs. Mary Kriger, 60-year-old widow, whose home near Edwardsville had been entered and clothing and household goods stolen while she was away last June 3.

Several days after the robbery Mrs. Kriger called on her neighbors, the Goheens, and found Mrs Goheen wearing some of her stolen clothing. She obtained a search warrant and the remainder of her effects was found. Goheen said in his defense that an unidentified man had given him the articles The sentence carried a penalty of from one to 20 years imprisonment.

NEW WATERMAN BUS PROTEST

Residents Plan Meeting to Demand Pneumatic-Tired Vehicles.

A mass meeting Tuesday night at Dorr & Zeller Catering Co., Waterman and De Baliviere avenues, to renew protest against use of double-deck buses on Waterman, was planned by 20 property owners last night at the home of John P. Leahy, 5851 Waterman avenue.

President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service, other city officials and candidates for Alderman are to be invited to hear the complaint. Property owners demand use of pneumatic, instead of solid tires, or single deck instead of double deck buses, to end damage they say is being done o the street and their homes.

BOY FINDS MAN'S BODY

Police Think That Wood Alcohol Killed Arthur Mann.

A boy looking in a window of a vacant building at 3701 Vista avenue yesterday evening saw the odd-jobs man of the neighborhood, Arthur Mann, 55 years old, lying face down on the floor, motionless. The police found the man was dead.

On Mann's overcoat, beside him, was a flask that smelled, police said, as if it had contained wood alcohol. An autopsy will be held. Relatives are being sought.

COURT FORBIDS POLICE TO STOP 3 SEX SHOWS

Temporary Injunctions Returnable in New York on Monday and Tuesday.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Temporary injunctions, restraining police from further interference with performances of "Sex," "The Captive" and "The Virgin Man," whose producers and casts were arrested Wednesday night charged with corrupting morals and with maintaining public nuisances, were signed last night by Supreme Court Justices Levy and Valente.

The orders are returnable before Justice Bijur on Monday as to "Sex" and on Tuesday as to the two others. The injunctions are directed against the Mayor, the Acting Mayor, the District Attorney, the Commissioner of Licenses and the police authorities.

Scheduled performances were given last night, although "The Virgin Man" had been prevented by police from ringing up its curtain in the afternoon.

Halt Court Proceedings.

The temporary injunctions take precedence over the proceedings begun by police and District Attorney Banton Wednesday night, at the instance of Acting Mayor McKee, in which all those connected with the three shows were held on bail for hearings Monday and Tuesday in Jefferson Market and West Side courts.

McKee has instructed Corporation Counsel Nicholson to apply to Justice Bijur for an order vacating the temporary injunctions, in which case police and the District Attorney will be at liberty to proceed with the prosecutions in the Magistrates' courts.

Meanwhile, other developments came thick and fast. In Bayonne N. J., where "The Drag," a homosexual play, produced by C. W Morganstern, sponsor of "Sex," was scheduled to open with an afternoon performance, Chief of Police O'Neill, acting on recommendation of Prosecutor McMahon, forbade the management to present the show.

Committee Outlines Plan.

Early in the afternoon the Theater Committee of Nine, representing producers, players and dramatists, met at the Actors' Equity Association and gave out the plan they had submitted to the District Attorney for censorship of the stage from within.

The committee said:

"We shall maintain a committee of three managers, three authors and three actors as a permanent theater supervision board to act as a clearing house for all complaints regarding plays already produced and for advance information regarding plays in prospect or in rehearsal. Plays will be reviewed by a jury of seven members, five appointed by the American Arbitration Association to represent the public, and two appointed by theater supervision board to represent the welfare of the theater. Any play reviewed by the jury will be subject to the jury's verdict. A majority will condemn, acquit or amend. A play being condemned, the actors will be withdrawn in accordance with contracts between the managers and members of the Actors' Equity Association. As it is a virtual impossibility to produce any play without Equity actors the jury's verdict will be final and there can be no possible appeal."

System Eliminates Delay.

"Delay has been the difficulty before. This plan, obviating the intricacies of both legal and volunteer practice, attains speed. Objectionable plays may be prevented from opening. Plays may be closed on the morning following their opening. Complaints will receive prompt consideration. By this plan the public will protect itself. Needless to say, the District Attorney's office and the courts remain the final judges of such plays as may get by the theater's self-supervision."

300 at Conference on Drama Hear Pollution of Stage Berated.

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 11.—If the community may insist that "physical sewage be properly disposed of in ways not menacing to health, it is equally justified in protesting against the pollution of its sources of moral decency," President James Rowland Angell told 300 men and women from 23 states gathered here today for the Conference on Drama at Yale University.

"One must admit that any institution which touches so intimately as does the theater the life of our people, and especially our youth, must comport itself with some regard to the accepted canons of decorum," said Dr. Angell.

"The community will not indefinitely tolerate the parade of social filth for purely mercenary motives, nor will it allow the urge for so-called self-expression to indulge itself in indecent exposure of diseased or obscene impulses. These things may flourish for a time, but they always lead to a reaction which is destructive to the finest and most enduring uses of the theater."

The delegates to the conference represent the nonprofessional drama.

Birds' Nests Cause Church Fire.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MACON, Mo., Feb. 11.—Birds' nests in the cupola of the Presbyterian Church, the largest church building here, are believed to have been the cause of a fire at the church this morning. The loss is between $5000 and $6000. It is thought that sparks from chimneys of adjoining houses may have ignited the nests.

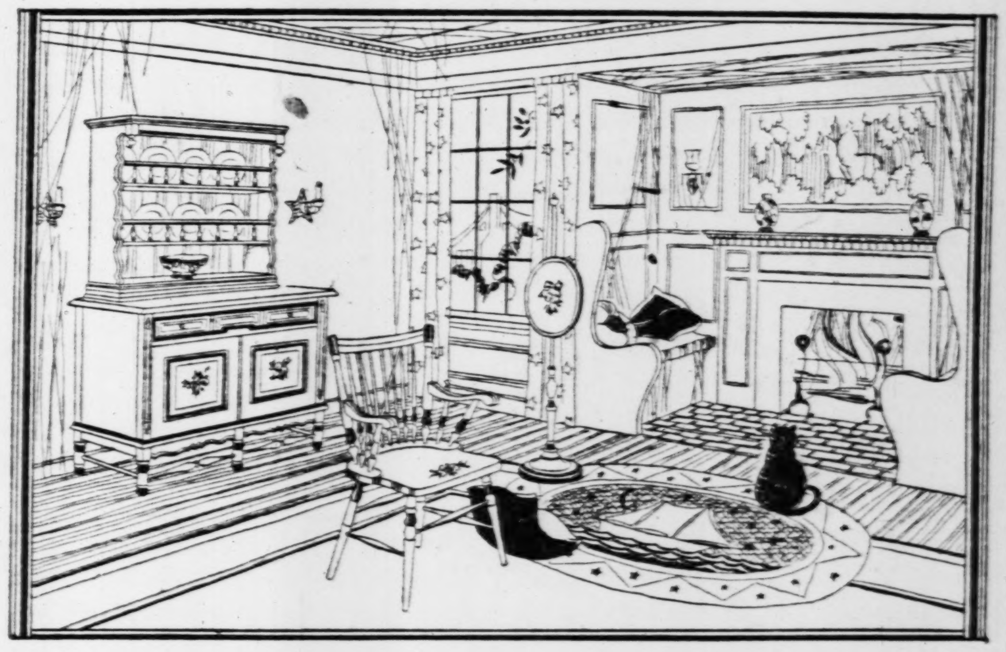
Stickley Bros. Quaint Furniture in the Early American Manner
Is a Special Feature in the February Sale

A SPECIAL purchase of three carloads from these celebrated shops enables us to offer an interesting collection of reproductions of quaint old-fashioned furniture in the early American style at greatly reduced prices. Seldom do you find such authentic reproductions and adaptations of the sturdy furniture of our forefathers made by a well-known manufacturer at these exceptionally low prices.



Quaint Welsh Cabinet
A stately Cabinet with roomy shelves to hold your treasured antiques, or colorful old plates, is made of sturdy birch, finished in high-lighted effect—a modern adaptation of the quaint dressers found in rural Welsh homes. These Cabinets are used in the living room or dining room.

A Windsor Armchair
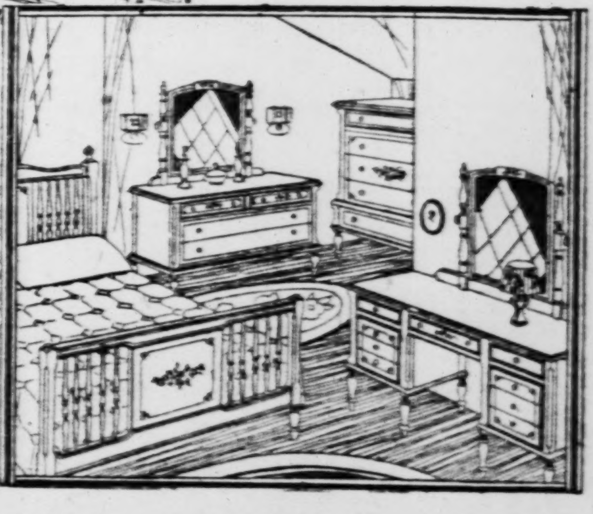
So interestingly colonial in feeling, so distinctly interpretative of early American vigor, a quaint old Windsor Chair fills us with memories of bygone days. The Windsor Chair has always been popular because of its versatility — it is equally at home in the living room or bedroom.

Old-Styled Fire Screen
$12.00
In the early American period, before the era of furnaces, the people depended entirely upon the fireplace during the long, cold Winter. If you have ever stood in front of a roaring fire and had your face burn while your back freezes, you will appreciate the good qualities of this Fire Screen.

Bedroom Suite
Of Four Charming Pieces
$237.50
An increasing admiration for simplicity of design has brought about a revival of interest in furniture done in the early American manner. This Suite, built of birch, is color-dyed and finished in high-light effect.



Breakfast Set
Table & Chairs—Special at . . . $49.75
The quaint charm of early American furniture design is reflected in this sturdy Breakfast Set, of solid birch, which is color-dyed, and decorated with soft color shadings.

THREE BROTHERS LOSE $602 TO HOLDUP MEN

One Tries to Throw Money Bag Behind Him, but Robber Sees It.

Samuel, Charles and Paul Kram, brothers in the wholesale fish business at 1307 Biddle street, reported to police that they were robbed of $602 by two men in a holdup behind their home at 1011A North Eighteenth street last night.

They had put their automobile away and were in the alley when the men appeared at 10:50 o'clock. Samuel, who was carrying the money in a cloth sack, tossed it behind him, but one of the robbers saw it, picked it up and ran down the alley with it, followed by his companion.

$300 Cash and $600 Ring Stolen in Bakery Holdup.

Mrs. Anna Mueller, owner of a bakery at 1400 Monroe street, was robbed of $300 cash and a diamond ring valued at $600 by a man with a revolver who entered the store at 8:35 p. m. He also took a $35 ring from a customer, Mrs. Gladys Simons, 1014 Benton street. Mrs. Mueller's husband, Otto, coming from the kitchen as the man departed, fired three shots after him.

Mrs. Elsie Thoroughman, owner of a confectionery at 4182 Ashland avenue, was robbed of $5.50 by a holdup man at 8:25 p. m.

Stanley Farnham, grocer, at 2127 Clark avenue, was robbed of $145 by two Negroes at 7:20 p. m.

John T. Sharkey, undertaker at 2831 Union boulevard, was robbed of $5 and his Buick sedan by two men who held him up at Kingshighway and Arsenal street at 10:45 p. m.

Harry Kirchhoefer, Kroger manager at 1226 North Vandeventer avenue, was robbed of $65 by one man at 6:40 p. m., and Henry Fisher, Kroger manager, at 5203 Thekla avenue, similarly was robbed of $50 at 6:30 p. m.

Alex H. Shore, druggist at 1100 Hodiamont avenue, and a customer, Mrs. Lena Singer, 6040 Bartmer avenue, were compelled to lie on the floor behind the prescription counter at 11 p. m. by two robbers who escaped with $85.

James E. Diaz of 6310 North Broadway was robbed of $20 and a watch by a man with a knife who stepped from a doorway at Broadway and Salisbury street.

FORMER FORD STOCKHOLDERS FINISH TAX SUIT TESTIMONY

Hearing Adjourns Until Monday When Government Will Offer Evidence.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Concluding the presentation of their case in the hearing before the Board of Tax Appeals, counsel for former minority stockholders of the Ford Motor Co., who are resisting the Government's attempt to levy additional taxes on the sale of their stock to Ford, put Commissioner Blair of the Internal Revenue Bureau, and C. R. Nash, his Chief Deputy, on the witness stand yesterday. The hearing adjourned to Monday, when the Government will offer evidence.

A letter from Senator Watson (Rep.) of Indiana, to Commissioner Blair, inclosing a copy of a Treasury Department memorandum which challenged its original appraisal of the value of Ford stock, was permitted to go into the record. The letter, which was sent in February, 1922, by Watson to Blair's residence, drew a reply from the Commissioner that another investigation of the value of Ford stock, as of March 1, 1913, would be conducted through different channels. Watson at that time was a defender of Senator Newberry in the Michigan senatorial contest.

Home Bombed After Two Robberies

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—Emil Denemark, automobile dealer and radio station owner, is the victim of repeated underworld attacks. The front of his home was damaged last night by a bomb explosion. Twice recently Denemark was robbed. Jewelry valued at $7000 was taken the first time and money and jewelry totaling $16,800 in the second robbery. Less than two weeks ago Denemark's negro chauffeur was shot to death while resisting robbers. Denemark is owner of WEDC broadcasting station.

PIMPLES AND BLACKHEADS ALL OVER FACE

Was ashamed to be seen—simple remedy brought quick improvement

Munden, Va., Aug. 5:—"Awhile ago I began to be troubled with enlarged pores and blackheads. Then pimples developed, and even boils. My skin was very sore and in a terrible condition. It was so disfigured and unsightly I was ashamed of it. I tried about everything to be had for pimples, but with no good results. I had heard Resinol Ointment and Soap so highly recommended for troubles like mine, I decided to try them. After one treatment there was a decided improvement, and the pimples began to fade away. I advise everybody with skin trouble to try Resinol." (Signed) Miss Hazel Beasley.

COURT ENDS RECEIVERSHIP OF SOUTHERN GEM COAL CO.

Stockholders of Defunct $5,000,000 Corporation Get Nothing, Creditors Given Stock in New Concern.

The three-year receivership of the Southern Gem Coal Corporation, a concern capitalized for $5,000,000 and owning coal mines in Southern Illinois, was ended yesterday with approval, by Federal Judge Lindley at East St. Louis, of the final report of the receivers, S. C. McLean, East St. Louis real estate dealer, and W. S. Wilson, retiring coal operator of Pinckneyville, Ill.

As told in the Post-Dispatch last June, when Judge Lindley ordered the receivers to make their final report, stockholders owning $1,021,054 of the capital stock of the corporation received nothing in the liquidation. Stock in a company which purchased the corporation's properties has been issued to holders of $440,000 in bonds and creditors having $400,000 in claims.

DRY LAW VIOLATORS JAILED

Federal Judge Lindley Also Imposes Fine on Pair.

Questioned by the Court when he pleaded guilty of violating the prohibition law, Leonard Baker, 46 years old, of 522 Brady avenue, East St. Louis, told Federal Judge Lindley yesterday he was a violator of the old Sunday closing law in East St. Louis and had been arrested by police.

Judge Lindley sentenced him to 30 days in jail and to pay a $300 fine. An under-cover agent had purchased a drink in Baker's place and a pint of liquor was found in a raid.

W. B. Rodman, a horse trainer at the Duquoin (Ill.) fair, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $500 when he pleaded guilty of possessing beer and whisky in a roadhouse about two miles from the fairgrounds last fall.

$100,000 TO BE EXPENDED IN PHONE CABLE EXTENSIONS

Bell Company Announces Improvement Plans for West and Northwest St. Louis Districts.

Approximately $100,000 will be spent in telephone cable extensions and replacements in the Cabany-Parkview exchange beginning March 15, the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. announced today. Main cables in the district will be supplemented with additional underground cables to meet increasing business, and aerial distributing cables will be augmented and replaced.

About two-thirds of the money will be spent in the area north of Olive Street road between Big Bend boulevard and the Wabash tracks. Three miles of underground cable will be routed over Delmar boulevard, Westgate avenue, Olive Street road and Ferguson avenue to a terminal on Page boulevard.

Other improvements will be in the area immediately west of the city limits, between Delmar boulezard and Clayton road, with cables under Delmar and Big Bend boulevards to Wydown boulevard. About 300 new poles will be placed.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN DIE IN BATTLE AT NICARAGUA

Many Struck by Machine Gun Fire at Chinandega; Liberal Troops Reported in Flight.

By the Associated Press.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 11.—Gen. Viquez, commander of the Conservative troops at Chinandega, reports that cavalry is pursuing the Liberals and has captured five machine guns. The Liberals are fleeing toward the Honduras frontier.

Conditions at Chinandega are very bad, there being little food or water and there is much suffering Dr. Daniel Molloy of the Rockefeller Foundation, with other doctors of the Red Cross, are proceeding there on a special train.

At least 00 wounded are being cared for, and there are many wounded receiving no attention, although some have been taken to Corinto and may be receiving aid there.

Twelve blocks of the city of Chinandega were burned and many of th stores, warehouses and residences were looted. Women and children were killed by machine gun fire in trying to save their household furniture.

APPROVES $16,000 IN BOND FUNDS FOR MORGANFORD ROAD

Appropriation of $16,430 of bond issue funds for laying a 20-foot strip of concrete pavement in Morganford road, between Gravois avenue and Bates street, was approved by the Citizens' Bond Issue Supervisory Committee yesterday. Next year abutting property owners will be taxed for permanent reconstruction of this street and the concrete strip will be used as part of the future base.

Approval also was given a $6934 appropriation to reimbuse the Baden Bank from bond money for an advance made in 1924 to permit early installation of electric street lights in the vicinity of Broadway and Baden avenue.

By acclamation, the committee re-elected as its officers W. Frank Carter, chairman; Harry Scullin, vice chairman, and Arthur Stoehr, secretary.

RAIDS AT MIAMI REPEATED

Florida Antigambling Squad Finds Fashionable Resorts Closed.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 11.—Eight night clubs and music halls in Miami and Miami Beach were visited early yesterday by county officers in continuation of an antigambling campaign, which started Monday. The latest sorties started at midnight, when an automobile load of Deputy Sheriffs toured Miami Beach.

Hardie's Casino at Miami Beach, where four arrests were made and alleged gambling devices seized on the previous visit, was found in darkness. The Sixty Club was visited at the heights of its nocturnal celebration, but the alleged gambling rooms were closed, following the single arrest and confiscation of alleged gaming equipment there Monday. A second visit to the Evelyn Nesbit Supper Club in Hileah, operated by the former wife of Harry K. Thaw, showed the place in darkness, as on the previous visit. The other clubs in the Miami area were operating as usual.

BUDGET HEARING UNATTENDED

A public hearing, to which nobody went, was held by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment today in the Mayor's office at 10:30 a. m. on the matter of the 1927 municipal budget. Usually about 50 or 60 citizens appear for the budget hearing, but this year, in spite of published notices, there was no audience.

The Board waited several minutes and then turned to other business. It approved an ordinance appropriating $50,000 for a central laundry building for the City Sanitarium and Infirmary, and an ordinance appropriating $300,000 for pipe and valves for the Water Department.

CUTS THROAT BEFORE FAMILY

Barber Uses Razor and Is at Hospital in Critical Condition.

Declaring that he "was going to end it all," Urban Collier, 32 years old, a barber, slashed his throat with a razor in the presence of his wife, Myrtle, and their four children, at his barber shop, 3029 North Broadway, at 1:10 p. m. yesterday. He is in a serious condition at City Hospital.

According to another barber, employed at the shop, Collier and his wife engaged in an altercation The Colliers reside at 888 Elias avenue, St. Louis County.

BRITISH HOUSE REJECTS LABOR MOTION ON CHINA

y Vote of 320 to 113 Commons Turn Down Resolution for Recall of Troops.

NORTHERN ARMIES BEGIN ADVANCE

im of Manchurian Dictator Is to Capture Hankow and Stop Cantonese Advance Toward Pekin.

y the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Parliament s apparently strongly behind the Chinese policy of Sir Austen Chamberlain, the Foreign Secretary.

This was demonstrated last night when the House of Commons, by 20 votes to 113, rejected a labor mendment to the address from e throne, which was clearly intended to embarrass the Government in the Chinese situation.

ir Austen's outline of the Government's policy, in the course of ich he declared that to hasten e negotiations for a settlement th the Chinese, it had been decided to land only an Indian bride at Shanghai, unless there re signs of immediate danger, eakened the position of the Government's opponents.

Agreement With Chen.

he agreement between Eugene n, the Cantonese Foreign Minter, and Owen O'Malley, the British representative at Hankow, as nounced in the Commons, is nerally accepted as satisfactory. his agreement provides that the ankow concession shall be re-rned to the British Municipal ouncil, and subsequently turned er to a Chino-British municipaly, the Chinese Nationalists conting neither to use nor countence force and to seek arrangeents by negotiations.

The labor amendment to the ing's address moved by Charles . Trevelyan, asking for immediate version and recall of the British rces now on their way to China. evelyan said that self-respecting tions did not sign treaties while e mailed fist was being shaken their faces.

Reproaches Laborites.

fter reproaching the extremist borites, for making the Government's path to negotiation difficult, r Austein reviewed the entire hinese situation since the tariff nference.

The Foreign Secretary argued at it was impossible to wait until nger was at the gates. The Brit- position was different from of other Powers—although all taken certain precautions—as the last two years, the whole inese drive had been anti-Brit- , hence British nationals were re seriously menaced than oth- foreigners.

Sir Austen explained that the itish Minister Miles Lampson, harge O'Malley, the British Conl at Shanghai and the Commandr-in-Chief of the China station, ce-Admiral Sir Reginald Tyritt, now at Shanghai, all have vised the Government to send additional troops.

lied Northern War Lords Begin Advance.

the Associated Press.

PEKIN, China, Feb. 11.—The ed war lords of the North have un their drive to hurl back the ntonese invaders into the South- . Chang Tso-Lin, dictator of nchuria, made the announcet yesterday in telegrams to erals of the Northern Alliance, ch he heads, as the power be- d the Pekin Government.

hrough Chihili and Shantung vinces, the Northern troops are ancing to recapture Hankow m the Cantonese, who have been g it as their Central China base prepare for their further march ard Pekin and Shanghai.

he Northerners will not halt at Yangtse River, said Chang, but force the Cantonese back ough Honan Province to their e Province of Kwangtung, m which they began the northd march last spring that gained them domination over half of na.

n a statement to Generals of shal Wu Pei-Fu, Chang noti- them that the Northern armies e advancing into their Province Honan. He requested their coration, but warned that he ld brook no opposition.

any requests for relief from tonese rule had reached him, Chang, and he was most anx- to assist the people of Honan Hupeh Provinces, but in this had been balked by Wu Pei-Fu, his ally.

arshal Wu, charged Chang, not had done nothing for six ths in Honan Province against Cantonese, but had prevented ng from driving them out. forces had placed obstacles before the advance of the Northern troops. Wu had failed to act against the enemy which drove him from Hankow last August and wrested nearly all of Central China from his rule.

Wu's Reply.

Reports are circulated in Pekin that Wu has made spirited reply to Chang's declarations. Wu was said to have demanded that Chang state the number of troops he was sending into Honan Province and to have ordered Chang to stop their advance at Changteh, at the northern border.

The Cantonese have been concentrating their forces at and near Hankow. Foreign ships have been commandeered by the Cantonese in their haste to take to Hankow troops from other places along the Yangtze.

With the Northern armies pouring in from the North and East, Wu Pei-Fu may be caught with his army between opposing forces. If so, he may have the choice of allying himself with either, or fighting both.

Transport Carrying 1200 Marines Leaves Honolulu.

DRY AGENTS' BARS ASSAILED

Mrs. Willebrandt Says Illegal Methods Are to Be Condemned.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Government speakeasies, run by enforcement agents, have no sanction from responsible department heads at Washington, said Mrs. Mabel W. Willebrandt, Assistant United States Attorney-General in an address last night.

Illegal methods of prohibition enforcement are as much to be condemned as non-enforcement, she told members of the League for Political Education. Prohibition, she said, had disclosed graft and corruption which used to be cncealed.

SUBWAY PLAN TO SPEED TRAFFIC IN DETROIT WILL BE VOTED ON APRIL 4

Would Cost $92,000,000 of Which 75 Per Cent Would Be Paid by Assessments on Benefited Property.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 11.—Detroit is at a critical transit period. Whether its more than 1,000,000 inhabitants are conscious of the fact, will be answered at the spring election, April 4, when the proposed subway program will be submitted for their approval.

Decision to leave the question to the voters was unanimously reached by the City Council last Tuesday.

This action marks the end of a prolonged period of bickering and concession which began when the Rapid Transit Commission presented to the council last August, a plan for four subway routes.

This subway system, comprising almost 47 miles of two-track line, was recommended to meet the present needs of the city. If authorized, two of the lines would be in operation in 1933, and the other two in 1938. Detroit would then have three-thenths of a mile of rapid transit route per square mile of present area. The cost to the city at large in financing the program would be $4,300,000 a year for ten years. This would not cover local benefit assessments.

Four-Route Plan Rejected.

After a number of hearings it was decided that this amount might be more than the city could undertake in view of its other pressing necessities. Consequently the plan was rejected by the Mayor and Council as being too difficult to finance.

The construction of two-level streets in the downtown section was next suggested by Mayor Smith and other city officials. It was estimated that by confining this system to the "loop" district, the cost would be approximately $23,000,000.

The Rapid Transit Commission voiced objection to this plan, pointing out that a system of downtown subway dips would set a bad precedent for the financing and construction of the rest of the complete system. The commission said that if its proposed complete system were not put to the voters "on account of political, psychological, or other reasons," it were better to make "a beginning on a smaller scale than the full project originally recommended."

Alternative Two-Line Plan.

On Jan. 14 the commission presented to the Council a recommendation in line with this opinion. It offered two lines, giving the city 21 7-10 miles of rapid transit, which would serve 55 per cent of the industrial workers and 33 per cent of the residential population. It would be possible to arrange the financing so as to complete both these lines in five years.

The Council decided to follow the commission's recommendation, and at a meeting last Tuesday voted unanimously in favor of placing the proposition on the ballot for a vote of the people on April 4.

The construction cost of the two lines to be submitted, as estimated by the commission, would be $92,211,100, of which Detroit's share would be $81,891,100. Three-quarters of this cost will be borne by special assessments on property bordering the lines, locally benefitted by their construction. The share to be paid by taxes on the city at large will be $22,145,500, spread over a 10-year period, or 70 cents per thousand of assessed property valuation.

Total Cost to City.

Cost of equipment is estimated at $42,749,000. The total cost of the two subway lines, including equipment, to the city proper will be $124,640,000, the commission estimates. Equipment funds are to be raised by trust equipment or other notes not on the faith and credit of the city. These notes will be paid from the revenue of the subway lines.

The two proposed lines will be known as the Woodward-Fort route and the Grand River-Gratiot route. The former will be seven and nine-tenths miles long and extend in a northerly direction under Detroit's main thoroughfare, Woodward avenue. The Grand River-Gratiot line will radiate from the extreme south-central part of the city in a northeasterly and northwesterly direction. This line, which will serve principally the industrial workers, will be 13 8-10 miles long.

John P. Hallihan, chief engineer of the Rapid Transit Commission, today expressed confidence over the outcome of the election.

"Although both the council and the general public felt that our four-line proposal was somewhat too ambitious for the present, I am confident that they will approve the two-line in the spring election," he said.

"It is difficult to picture or realize the potentialities of Detroit. Since 1915 it has doubled in population. Its area has multiplied 12 times. In no great city has there been better concert of action in the preliminaries incident to the inauguration o an improvement than has been accorded in Detroit.

"The plan adopted for financing the rapid transit system of Detroit is based on the principle that the cost of a rapid transit facility should be equitably distributed in the same measure as the benefits derived. It has been shown in the records of other cities that a direct and realizable enhancement value attaches to the land along the rapid transit routes. Detroiters appreciate these facts and will indicate their appreciation on April 4."

ASKS HOUSE TO DISAPPROVE THIRD TERM FOR PRESIDENTS

Beck of Wisconsin Says, However, Point Does Not Apply to Coolidge.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—A move to put the House on record as opposed to third terms for Presidents has been initiated by Representative Beck, Republican insurgent from Wisconsin. He introduced a resolution which was referred to the Judiciary Committee to declare it the sense of the House that any departure from the two-term maximum would be "unwise, unpatriotic and fraught with peril to our free institutions."

No mention was made of President Coolidge, but Beck, in a statement, pointed to the contention of some individuals and newspapers that the third-term issue should not be raised against his re-election.

Germans Buy French Securities.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 11.—Foreign speculators particularly Germans, have been buying up French Government and corporation bonds in such volume that the Government has decided to intervene. The Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean Railroad Co. has been asked to suspend its issue of new bonds because too many of them are finding their way to Berlin. Foreign buyers turned toward French securities when it became evident that the Poincare Government intended to halt the rise in the franc quotation.

St. Joseph Offered Balloon Race.

By the Associated Press.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Feb. 11.—The international balloon race was awarded to the United States for 1927 because an American won the race in Belgium last year, but the National Aeronautic Association has not yet selected a city. St. Joseph was offered the event but turned it down because the cost would be $500,000. Now word has been received that the maximum cost will not exceed $25,000. The St. Joseph chapter was asked to reconsider the offer.

JAPAN TO ACCEPT COOLIDGE'S NAVAL CONFERENCE PLAN

Tokio Government Welcomes Opportunity to Reduce Tax Burden by Further Disarmament.

BRITAIN ALSO FRIENDLY TO PLAN

French Press Critical, One Paper Calling Proposal a "Torpedo Against League of Nations."

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Feb. 11.—Rengo, the Japanese news agency, learned officially today that the Japanese Government already has decided to accept the proposal of President Coolidge suggesting a new conference for the reduction of naval armament, and it is expected a reply to the President's message will be forwarded to Washington soon.

It is understood that Japan is basing its acceptance on three premises first that foreign Minister Shidehara had expressed to the diet Japan's intention of furthering additional equitable disarmament in every way possible; second, Japan's financial and economic condition makes further disarmament most welcome as a relief from tax burdens, and, third, Japan feels her international responsibilities make necessary her whole-hearted co-operation with other Powers for armament reduction.

It is understood Japan, in its acceptance of the Coolidge proposal, will state that at present she has no plans or specifications for an armament reduction, feeling that such agreements and plans should be left to the naval experts of the various Powers concerned.

Furthermore, it is believed the attitude of the Government in accepting unconditionally would be directly opposed by the sentiment of the Navy Department.

Some Papers Hostile.

Some of the newspapers are antagonistic to disarmament extension to a point under the 5-5-3 ratio. Officials are said to believe, however, that the acceptance will be approved by the Diet.

The Kokumin editorially opposes application of the 5-5-3 ratio, declaring if such a plan were effective Japan's defense would become meaningless.

"We might just as well scrap our whole navy and bow down to Great Britain and America, if we accept such a proposal," says the Kokumin. "We dare say the Japanese people will reject such a plan."

The paper further declares Japan deserves special consideration more than does France and Italy because American naval strength has been moved from the Atlantic to the Pacific since the Washington conference and also because of naval construction activities at Singapore.

Plea for Fairness.

"If President Coolidge really is desirous of permanent peace and having the armament race stopped, he ought to remove all selfishness and be fair," it adds.

The Hochi Shimbun takes no definite stand on the message, merely explaining the nature of the proposal and hoping Japan "will not commit the same mistake as at the time of the Washington conference, namely, facing the conference without a definite policy."

The Jiji Shimpo welcomes the proposal and foresees numerous difficulties in the relation of naval strength to air and land forces. ident Coolidge already has consid-

It believes, however, that President Coolidge already has considered such difficulties and has made the new suggestion as a step toward general comprehensive disarmament.

Britain Indorses Principles of American Note.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The British Government heartily indorses the principles of President Coolidge's naval disarmament proposals. This was made known at the Foreign Office today.

"The generally favorable press comment on the President's note voices both the public and official opinion of Great Britain," an official told the Associated Press.

It was asserted that Great Britain's support of American efforts toward disarmament, as enunciated by Lord Balfour at the Washington conference, would be accorded Mr. Coolidge's plan at Geneva.

British naval experts have yet to be heard on the technical aspects of the American plan and it is too soon to say whether Great Britain is ready to alter her present naval building program or to apply the 5-5-3 ratio to all classes of naval armaments.

It is emphasized, however, that any impetus to the cause of disarmament is acceptable to the

SERVICE-AT-COST LAW UNDER FIRE IN LEGISLATURE

Bill for Repeal of the Statute Urged by Attorney for U. R. Carmen at Committee Hearing.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 11.—The "service-at-cost" law passed by the 1925 Legislature, enabling St. Louis and other cities of more than 75,000 population to enter into agreements with street car companies for street car fares based on actual cost of service, plus a fair return, was defended by officials of the city of St. Louis and the United Railways in a hearing last night before the House Municipal Corporations Committee on a bill to repeal the act.

Negotiations for a service-at-cost franchise for the United Railways in connection with the pending re-organization of the street railways, now are under way in St. Louis.

Representative W. R. Schneider of St. Louis, attorney for the street car men's union and author of the bill, told the committee he introduced the bill because the service-at-cost plan was impracticable and the only one that could lose under it was the city.

Argument for Repeal.

He said the dual control of the street railway company by the city and owners under the provisions of the act, was impracticable and was an attempt to get away from supervision by the State Public Service Commission. Referring to the provision for automatic revision of fares based upon operating cost he said the system guaranteed a return to the utility irrespective of the cost of service. "Such a plan is only for the best interests of the public utility and the city is bound to lose," Schneider asserted.

"Some very shrewd gentlemen in Wall street found the St. Louis street car lines were not doing as well as desired after they had milked the local company for some time," Schneider said. "A receivership was in effect and the bonds had dropped to between 40 and 50. So they favored this service-at-cost agreement which will run these bonds back up to 100. They have sold our distinguished Mayor and City Counselor on the plan."

Schneider later stated his reference was to the North American Co. and the interests behind the reorganization committee of the United Railways.

U. R. Attorney Heard.

N. C. Whaley, of the legal staff of the United Railways Co. said the service-at-cost measure was a fair one and the city would be protected through control given it over the amount and kind of service to be furnished. He pointed out that any agreement reached would have to be approved by the Public Service Commission. "You ought to give us a chance to work out our salvation," Whaley said. "The Board of Aldermen must pass on it and the franchise will be submitted to the people for approval."

The proposed agreement was defended by City Counselor Muench who said the present system of appearing before the Public Service Commission for orders on even the most trivial matters was cumbersome and unwieldly. If the city wants to adopt the service-at-cost plan "I don't see how any one else can be interested except people of the city," Muench said.

C. E. Smith, consulting engineer for the city, said the rights of the city would be fully protected and controversies over valuation of the street car property and rate of fare would be eliminated.

The committee announced the bill would be laid over for further consideration before a report is made.

Against One-Man Cars.

Another bill by Schneider, which would prohibit the United Railways from operation of one-man street cars in the congested districts of St. Louis was considered by the committee. The discussion developed Schneider had introduced it after negotiations between the street car men and the reorganization committee to regulate operation of one-man cars, through terms of the proposed franchise, had failed.

Schneider asserted operation of one-man cars in the congested districts was unsafe, resulted in more accidents and delayed service. He said the bill would not prevent operation of one-man cars in outlying sections of the city.

Whaley submitted records from other cities tending to show that use of one-man street cars did not increase accidents and did not materially slow up service. He said the Public Service Commission had full regulation of the use one-man cars. "I don't see why the Legislature wants to interfere with Public Service Commission," Whaley said.

"If you like to work with the Public Service Commission so well, why did you take the 8-cent fare case from the commission into the Federal Court?" asked Representative F. O. Bittner of St. Louis, committee member.

Answers Fare Question.

"We waited and waited for a decision and were going into the hole, so we went where we could get it," Whaley replied.

Representative A. A. Huber of St. Louis, a committee member, asked Smith why the fare could not be brought down to 5 cents through use of one-man cars and the supposed economies of the service-at-cost plan. Smith declared this was impossible. He said the cost of operation to the company was roughly 6 cents out of each fare collected, 4 cents for wages and 2 cents for supplies, material and electric power. "Under the 7-cent fare this left only 1 cent for the company," Smith said.

Another hearing will be held on the one-man car bill before the committee reports it.

LIFE IS EASY IN SAMARKAND

Men Do Housekeeping in First Mohammedan Republic.

By the Associated Press.

SAMARKAND, Uzbekistan Soviet Republic, Feb. 11.—Samarkand the golden, as both natives and foreigners are fond of calling the new capital of the first Mohammedan republic, is a paradise for women and a haven of rest for men.

The women do little else than attend to their toilet and dress, burnish their nails, dye their hair with henna, pay social visits, sip tea and gossip. Ordinary household duties are considered beneath their Moslem dignity. The men, polite and gallant, do whatever light housekeeping there is and even look after the children. After their labors are finished, they retire to the bazars, where they sit, drink their sugarless, watery tea and chatter.

Brogan's Wet Bill Killed.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 11.—Senator Brogan of St. Louis today introduced a resolution memorializing Congress to amend the Volstead act to permit the manufacture, sale and transportation of beverages containing not more than 2.75 per cent alcohol. On motion of Senator Cave it was referred to the Committee on Constitutional Amendments, from which it never will emerge.

TROOPS RULE LISBON, TAKEN FROM REBELS

Women and Boys Found Among Revolutionaries—300 Reported Killed.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Lisbon is under martial law, and censorship precludes accurate details of casualties in the revolution, which, from all accounts, has been suppressed. It was the twenty-third revolution in the 17 years of the republic's life.

Many persons were killed, a large number wounded and there was heavy property damage. One report places the list of dead at about 300, with more than 1000 wounded. The arrival at Lisbon of President Carmona with troops from Oporto decided matters against the revolutionaries, whose numbers are said not to have exceeded 5000, for the most part civilians, among them women and boys.

Several dispatches agree that barricades in Lisbon were destroyed by Government artillery, while airplanes bombed the arsenal. Government ambulances were forbidden to take wounded revolutionists because it was believed they would use the ambulances to escape. The revolt started a week ago in a garrison at Oporto, which surrendered under bombardment.

Advices received in Paris from Lisbon say Maj. Americo Olavo, former Minister of War, was assassinated by the revolutionaries in Portugal. The number killed at Lisbon, according to the Havas correspondent, is 198. At Oporto the deaths were 76, with 360 wounded.

PANI TO DISCUSS MEXICAN LAWS WITH U.S. OIL CONCERNS

Former Finance Minister Will Stop in New York on Way to France as Ambassador.

Copyright, 1927, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 11.—Former Finance Minister Pani, ostensibly on his way to France as Mexican Ambassador, will, on his arrival in New York next week initiate a series of conferences with the heads of American oil companies operating in Mexico, in an effort to settle their dispute with the Mexican Government amicably.

Any provisional understandings he may reach will have the backing of former President Obregon which is counted on to offset opposition within the Cabinet here.

Pani is a seasoned authority on the dispute between the American oil companies and his Government. He was Minister of Industry, Commerce and Labor in 1917 when the present constitution was written. He prepared the first presidential decree and regulations interpreting Article 27, which deals with oil lands.

MELLON SEEKS SPECIAL FUND FOR 'UNDER-COVER' AGENTS

Money Would Be Used to Get Evidence of Dry Law and Narcotic Violations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Secretary Mellon has asked Congress to authorize a special fund for the use of undercover prohibition and narcotic agents.

He also submitted a copy of a proposed bill, under which the money would be advanced to field agents by special disbursement officers and would be used to obtain evidence of violations of the Volstead and narcotic acts.

An appropriation of $500,000 for such use recently was eliminated from the Treasury supply bill.

SENATORS IMPUTE POLITICAL MOTIVE TO THE PRESIDENT IN ARMS PROPOSAL

They Believe Program Is Hopeless and Speculate on Why It Is Announced at This Time.

AIM MAY BE TO KILL LONGWORTH'S BOOM

Or Perhaps Executive Hopes to Divert Attention From Collapse of World Court Policy.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Seldom has a presidential proposal of such great importance aroused so little response in Congress as that which greeted President Coolidge's announcement yesterday that he had invited Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan to join the United States in a conference for further limitation of naval armaments.

The reason for the apathy was easily found; it was simply that most Senators and Congressmen apparently believed that the proposal had no hope of success, and a great many of them bluntly declared that the President knew it could not succeed when he made it. "Just politics," they said.

At the Washington Arms Conference in 1922, it was agreed to place a limit on the number of capital ships and airplane carriers. Proposals to extend the limit to cruisers, submarines and destroyers were unavailing. Chief among the reasons was the unwillingness of France to limit her submarine building program, which, obviously, is a precautionary measure of defense against Britain's superiority in capital ships.

France Not Likely to Agree.

It was pointed out at the Capitol yesterday that nothing has occurred which indicates any intention on the part of France to recede from that position; on the contrary, the indications are that France would be likely to maintain a stiffer attitude now than then. Her relations with Great Britain and the United States are no better, and her financial condition is improving. Moreover, there has never been a time since the end of the war when Great Britain had more need of cruisers and destroyers than at present. She has dozens of them in Asiatic waters now, with more on the way, and portents of trouble in the Orient multiply every day.

When all these circumstances were considered there was a general and very noticeable conviction that the President's proposal simply had no hope whatever of succeeding, and outspoken Senators like Reed of Missouri plainly asserted it was incredible that the President was not aware of it.

The natural reaction was to conclude that his action had a political motive. Whether justly or not, the fact is that President Coolidge is generally credited here, even by members of his own party, with playing politics 24 hours a day and seven days a week. Almost automatically speculation began as to the possible motive in this case.

Various Motives Suggested.

Several suggestions were advanced. First and foremost, he was credited with a desire to block the provision in the pending naval appropriations bill, providing for construction of three additional cruisers to begin immediately. The Senate has passed the provision, and there are indications that the House may pass it when the bill emerges from conference. In his opposition to the measure, on the ground of economy, the President has failed to hold a majority of his party in line.

Speaker Longworth of the House is one of the leading advocates of the cruiser program. Incidentally, he is credited with presidential aspirations, and some observers saw in the President's action a desire to discredit the Longworth boom by smashing the cruiser program.

The second political motive attributed to him was a desire to divert public attention from the adverse third-term talk which was stated this week by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler in New York.

Few persons doubt that the President wants to be a candidate again, but nobody believes he relishes the use of the words "third term."

Still another idea ascribed to him was a wish to divert attention from the collapse of his World Court policy, which came to grief in London Tuesday when the British Government failed to approve

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Police Pension Fee.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN a letter appearing in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch on Feb. 7th, signed by Mr. F. E. Gunter, chairman of Police Pension Committee, taking exception to a letter in the Post-Dispatch of Feb. 4th, signed by John Brangenberg, Mr. Gunter contends that a $10 fee provided for in section 17 of House Bill No. 222 and Senate Bill No. 125, known as the police pension bill is justified, because considerable detail is involved in issuing these annual permits. Now as a matter of fact, the annual renewals require a minimum of detail and do not justify even the fee of one dollar ($1) and there is no more detail to the original application than there is in investigating a citizen's application to get on the police force, and there is nothing in said bill which requires the latter applicant to pay any fee for same, although he is a young man under the age of 35, and generally much younger. Yet, Mr. Gunter says that this $10 fee which said bill proposes to assess on poor old men even at the age of 78, is justified. Let us see just what that would mean: A perfectly sound man at the age of 24 could enter the service and retire on a pension at the age of 49, when yet a young man, and that old men from the age of 55 to 78 would be required to support the younger men on a pension. He also states there are only 80 beat watchmen. I am not concerned whether there are 80 or 2000, I am only interested as to the merits of section 17 of the pension bill.

No, Mr. Gunter, all that section means is to hang a burden on the poor old man and his poor old companion. When the citizens of St. Louis voted for the pension bill, they did it believing the fund would come from the city treasury, and would be derived from equal taxation from all the citizens. At least that was my understanding when I voted for it, and I am willing to pay my portion on that basis.

The Price of Cleanliness.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

FAR be it from Serena Sampel to be the one to lay the proverbial last straw upon the camel's back.

Her remarks were directed exclusively at the Association of Cleaners and Dyers, whom she expected to profit, likewise exclusively, to the extent of a 50 per cent increase in some instances.

Rather than add to the burden of the underpaid employes, she will accept stoically, cheerfully, if she can, the further shrinkage in the purchasing power of cleanliness. It is a good thing they can't charge for godliness, its next-door neighbor, or we should be anxiously asking "What price glory?"

Forgive me, "Dye Pots"; I'm sorry I spoke.

Physicians' Responsibilities.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE case of shooting of Dr. Sante brings to mind a query of the duties of a physician to his patients when called at midnight and later. When such a call is made its urgency is obvious. Yet it would be inconsiderate to censure him altogether when he does not answer the call. It may be true in some instances that a physician will refuse to come because he feels indisposed; in most cases, however, it is because of old age or of the physical impossibility caused through the fatiguing treatment of a case or cases during the last few days and evenings.

Nevertheless, when we consider the human element involved, it is impossible for us to permit the physician to wash his hands completely of the matter. In the laws of our land, the principles of moral duty is under certain circumstances converted into a legal duty. In this instance we may rightfully feel that Dr. Sante having given treatment to the woman before, certainly owed her a duty when called on in an emergency. If he was unable to answer he should have at least directed her to some one who could.

This is a matter for the physicans to arrange among themselves and can be properly and easily done. The medical profession is reputed to be "the finest," ethically and otherwise. Certain financial inconveniences could and should be overlooked in subordination to the humantarian and finer side of the affair.

Our Tax-Levying Eagles.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

APROPOS your recent editorial "Eagles and Dollars," I can imagine something more characteristic of our material time than transforming 41,812 eagles into 41,812 dollars and have accepted your invitation to write you, to-wit our tax burdens: Additional tax on gasoline, additional tax on tobacco, additional tax on cigarettes, additional tax on amusements, additional tax on food, additional tax on clothing, additional tax on all things whether material or immaterial—all this is more characteristic of our material time and you've got to admit it.

You say that the eagle is the emblem of freedom. Freedom to do what? Murder his defenseless fellow creatures three times each day of his life in an effort to satiate his unsatiable appetite and he don't give value received.

Does the tax-levyer give value received? Answer me that.

JOS. E. POTTER.

WANTED FOR ST. LOUIS—A TRANSPORTATION PLAN

The most important problem with which St. Louis has to deal in the immediate future is that of urban transportation. It is not an easy problem to solve, on account of the rapid changes of transportation conditions.

Upon the wisdom of the plans which the city adopts now for the solution of its transportation problem will depend the future development and growth of the city, and the comfort, convenience and prosperity of the people. A sound solution of the problem is vital to progress.

Since the task of reorganizing the United Railways began and the question of the basis upon which a franchise would be granted to the reorganized company was taken up, many transformations have taken place. The situation is radically different.

At that time, after a thorough investigation of the so-called service-at-cost system in Cleveland, the Post-Dispatch approved in principle the service-at-cost plan as being preferable to any other in which the ownership of street railway properties remains in private hands. We suggested that the city consider entering into a service-at-cost contract with the reorganized street railway company for their surface lines.

Steps were taken by representatives of the company and the city to that end. An ordinance was framed. An attempt was made to bring the Mayor and other city officials into an agreement with the company's representatives on the details of the ordinance. The ordinance is now pending.

Changes in conditions, however, raise the question not only of whether the city should adopt the pending ordinance, but whether any service-at-cost arrangement should be made. Serious objections have arisen. The city is planning to build subways. It has asked the State Legislature to adopt an enabling act permitting the city to build a rapid transit system, including subways, by bond issues, and to assess benefits against property owners. It is a comprehensive act, increasing the period for which rapid transit bonds may be issued, and including in the rapid transit system practically all means of public transportation. The bill applies to all Missouri cities having a population of 75,000 or more.

Assuming that the city should build subways and construct other means of rapid transit, what effect would that have on the surface street car system? What effect would it have on the 30-year contract with the reorganized street railway company to pay interest at 7 per cent on the agreed capital valuation of the street railway system?

The city would own the subways and rapid transit facilities and would be under obligation to the street railway company to maintain its complete system, and to pay interest on its agreed capitalization, for at least 30 years. Within that period subways and other rapid transit facilities may take the place of a large part if not all of the surface street railway system. New rapid transit facilities may render a large part of the surface railways obsolete and useless. The city would have to support the subway system and at the same time pay for abandoned surface tracks.

St. Louis would have a divided transportation system, one part owned by the city and the other part owned by a private company operating under a guarantee of returns on a valuation which may, in large part, be wiped out. The subway system may require a radical change in the means and methods of handling feeders. In other words, the city would be under contract to support a surface system mostly useless, but contributing heavily to the cost of service.

The situation with regard to valuation of the surface railway properties has changed. It is agreed by experts generally that low valuation is an essential factor in the success of the service-at-cost plan. It was a factor which made the Cleveland experiment worth trying. The reorganizers of the United Railways have gone to the United States District Court and asked for a great increase over the $58,000,000, which was expected to be the figure the company would insist upon in the service-at-cost franchise. They have asked for an 8-cent rate.

We do not pretend to judge what is the fair valuation of the company upon which it should ask a return of 7 per cent. We do not question its legal right to seek a higher valuation and an increased fare, or the conditions under which it feels impelled to obtain a higher valuation and a higher fare.

The point the Post-Dispatch raises is whether it would be wise for the city to enter into a service-at-cost contract for surface service only for 30 years on a valuation of even $58,000,000, in view of the city's subway plan and of the changes which have occurred and which may be expected to occur within 30 years.

What about the busses, which have become an influential factor in urban and suburban transportation? They, with private automobiles, are cutting deeply into the earnings of surface street railway lines. One of the conditions upon which the Post-Dispatch based possible favorable consideration of the service-at-cost plan was the consolidation of bus and street car systems and the co-ordination of their services, with all the fares going into one treasury. There is no certainty that anything of this kind will take place.

Conditions have changed, not only in St. Louis, but in all other cities. Practically every large city in the country is confronted with a transportation problem under varying circumstances. Some are facing costly mistakes.

New York is trying to rectify her blunder in building subways and leasing them to companies with surface lines. The surface lines are rapidly disappearing, but their capitalization remains in the total capitalization upon which New York must pay returns. The cost of abandoned surface lines is heaped upon the cost of subways.

In Detroit, where Senator Couzens as Mayor won a long fight for municipal ownership of the street railways and for a comprehensive plan of subways and speedways, the people will vote at the spring election on a subway proposal which will require $90,000,000 to begin with and over $280,000,000 to finish.

Mr. Couzens forced the Detroit street railway company to sell its system to the city for $19,000,000, a low valuation. He believed that the city should own the surface lines before it began to build subways. He believed in a unified system, under the same ownership. Mr. Couzens is against the service-at-cost system, because as a rule the valuation on which it is based is exorbitant. He does not believe in divided ownership. His opinion is that unless surface lines are linked permanently with subways, busses should be used as feeders.

The rapid transit plan which Detroit expects to adopt is the result of the work of a commission of able men. We might cite other instances in which the most progressive cities are working out plans for future transportation with the aid of commissions of capable business men and experienced experts.

Several public utility experts attending the convention of the Economists' Associations in this city, in interviews with the Post-Dispatch, warned St. Louis against hasty, half-baked plans to accept service-at-cost contracts and build subways.

Edward W. Bemis of Chicago and New York, a recognized authority on public utilities, declared that the success of any service-at-cost plan was determined largely upon the valuation base. The others agreed with him on this point.

Prof. Hale of Columbia University thought that the life of surface street railways is limited. It is threatened by the competition of busses and other means of urban transportation, and will in a few years be a "dead horse."

John Bauer, who is engaged in helping New York to devise a plan to recapture its subways, warned St. Louis against making initial mistakes in its transportation plans. He expressed the opinion that the public assumed a great risk in entering into service-at-cost contracts with surface lines. The thing that the cities want now and are thinking about is not so much street car service at low cost as some form of rapid transportation. Every city should consider the future, and plan for the future with full realization of the changes in the means of transportation that are now taking place and will probably take place within the next generation. He thought that St. Louis should make a comprehensive plan of transportation with the view that the future means of transporting the masses will be either underground or overhead, and that street car service will in large measure at least be abandoned.

The warnings of men like Couzens, who has had wide experience in big business and whose capacity is demonstrated, and public utility experts such as we have quoted should be heeded by St. Louis.

They should at least induce our municipal authorities and the people of St. Louis to proceed cautiously and formulate sound plans to meet our future transportation needs. If we do not lay a good foundation now; if we make mistakes, the city will suffer, and the cost of remedying defects will be enormous.

We do not want to buy a "dead horse." We do not want to be hampered or burdened by ill-considered contracts.

How can we avoid mistakes and obtain a comprehensive, practical plan which will meet the needs of St. Louis?

We know of no better way than by a thorough survey of present conditions and future possibilities of both the city's needs and means of transportation.

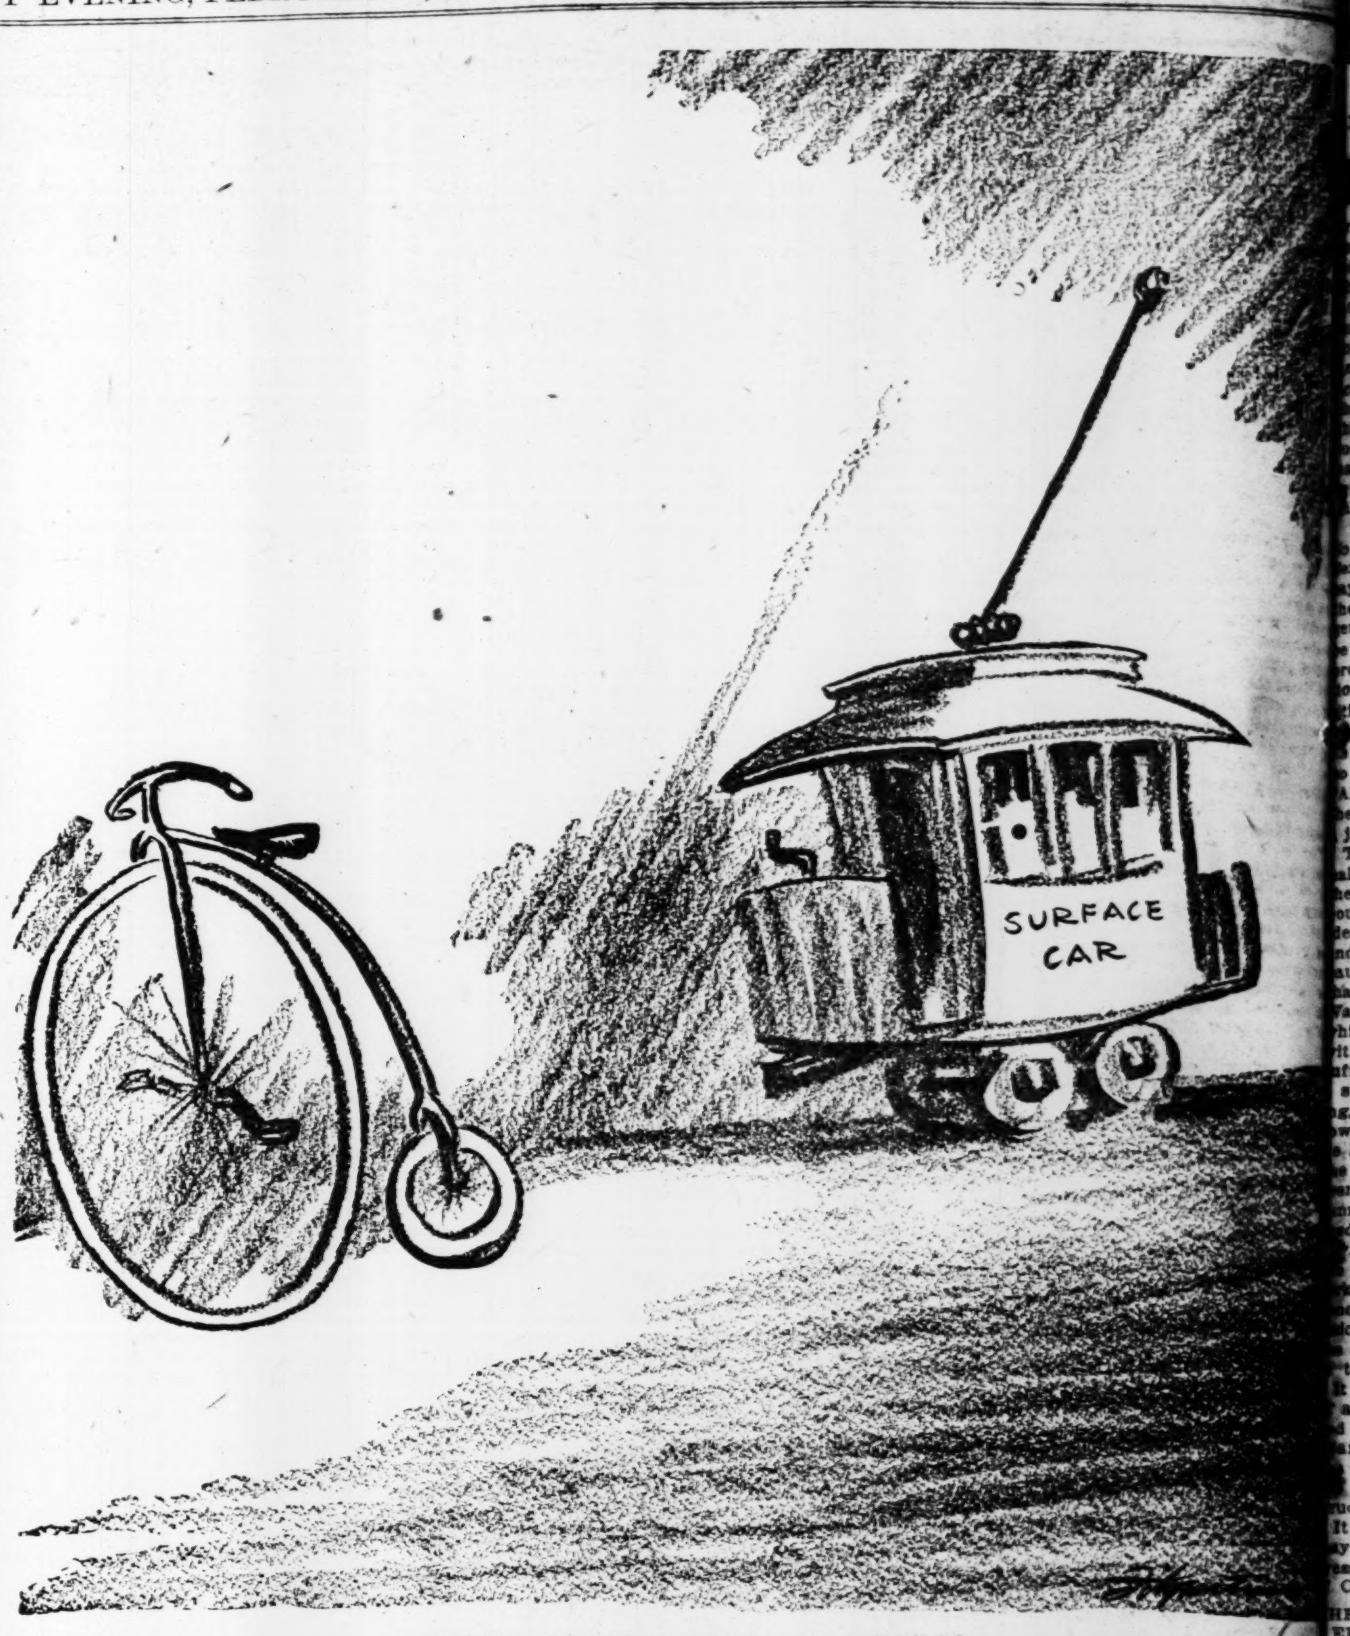
We know of no other way to get a thorough survey, and to create from the survey an adequate plan, than through a commission of capable men—men who have high business capacity and men who have made a thorough study of public utility conditions and problems.

St. Louis tried the commission plan in devising a program for improvements combining utility and beauty. Our City Plan Commission has been at work for 10 years, with fruitful results. Those results were valuable in putting over the bond issue, and they have been invaluable in applying the proceeds of the bonds. We had a definite plan upon which to proceed in widening thoroughfares, opening new streets, designing the Plaza and other public works.

The Post-Dispatch suggests that the city create a transportation commission, charged with the duty and supplied with the means of making a thorough survey and from their study of conditions to formulate a comprehensive plan. It will cost money to obtain commissioners of the right sort, or at least advisers who know. But it will be worth the cost. If the city paid $100,000 for satisfactory transportation plans, it would be a fine investment. It would be profitable to pay $100,000 to avoid mistakes which might require millions to rectify.

The cost is mere guesswork. The main thing is to get a wise, practical plan.

When we know what we need and what we ought to have, in the way of transportation for St. Louis now and in the years of growth to come, we can go ahead with confidence. We can invest millions with the assurance that the money will not be wasted.



WHAT OF THE NEXT 30 YEARS?

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

A GOOD RULE OF THUMB.

WALTER LIPPMANN in Vanity Fair.

THERE is no inherent reason why a limit of eight years should be set upon the tenure of the presidency. Yet it is an extraordinarily good rule of thumb. Just because it is so easy for a President to renominate himself, just because he disposes of such immense patronage, it seems to me a sound rule which prevents him from entrenching himself too long. It is easy to say: Why only eight? The answer is: Would you make it 12, 16, 20? Nobody would make it 20. Well, eight has become established, and it is just as good a number as any other. Eight years established by custom is, moreover, infinitely preferable to any other number of years fixed by the Constitution. The eight year tradition could be broken if there were strong reason for breaking it. The country might, for example, find itself in the midst of a great war, and a third term for the President might, under such conditions, be supremely necessary.

But, short of a supreme necessity, the eight year custom is so useful that it ought to be kept intact. After all, nobody can argue; nobody, not even Mr. Frank Stearns and Senator Butler, can say with a straight face that Mr. Coolidge is more needed after 1928 than Washington was needed after 1798. I think millions of Americans will feel when they think it over that if the ancient tradition is to be scrapped they would like to scrap it for some fairly important reason.

BALLADS AND SALADS.

From the Kansas City Star.

HAVING refreshed our memory with the book of quotations, we are able to state authoritatively that Andrew Fletcher (of whose identity we are in doubt) wrote to the Marquis of Montrose (the gentleman of whose beheading the old poem tells, maybe) that he knew a very wise man who believed that "if a man were permitted to make all the ballads, he need not care who made the laws of a nation." Quoting which we feel impelled to say that William Allen White would modify this bit of wisdom, changing ballads to salads. If he is permitted to make the salads, he doesn't care who is Governor of Kansas (barring Jonathan Davis, of course). That rules out all fruit salads as an abomination before the Lord and enthrones lettuce salad, properly worked over by Mr. White in the walnut paneled dining room at Emporia, as described in the Woman's Club Cook Book of Hagerman, N. M. Now that this is settled will all the brethren and sisters rise and sing, beating time with their salad forks?

LEGISLATION FOR CUPID.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

THE North Carolina Legislature has reported unfavorably on an anti-petting bill; and all the chances are that the action is wise. Cupid is sometimes silly and sometimes indiscreet, but there is more wisdom in his quiver than was ever packed in a blue law.

A BIT OF RUSSIAN HISTORY.

From an Article in L'Europe Nouvelle, of Paris, as Translated for the Kansas City Star.

UNTIL recently the historic dining car wherein Nicholas II was forced to sign his abdication in March, 1917, has been sidetracked near the Novy-Peterhof station, where it failed to attract any particular curiosity. The car had been turned over to an official scientific body known as the Glavnaouka for preservation as a relic. We are now advised that, as a measure of economy and to help out in the shortage of rolling stock, the Glavnaouka has returned the car to the commissariat of railways for general service, retaining as a souvenir of the imperial debacle only the small table at which the late czar seated himself to sign away his throne.

THE FLIGHT OF TIME.

From the Tulsa Tribune.

TEN YEARS AGO Calvin Coolidge was not in Who's Who. Neither was Al Smith, or Governor Ritchie, or Governor Donahey of Ohio. Today Harry M. Daugherty, the power behind the Harding administration, is about to face his second trial for conspiracy. Ten years ago he also had not attracted sufficient attention to promote him into Who's Who. The man who now stands easily first among our dramatists, Eugene O'Neill, was absent from the volume. In fiction the creator of Main Street did not appear. Taking one thing with another, time moves on.

IT CAN'T BE FAR BEHIND.

From McNaught's Monthly.

JUDGE ELBERT H. GARY has handed down his regular judicial opinion that times are good and we have a wonderful season of prosperity before us. Henry Ford has stated, at considerable length, that his business is on a sound basis. Calvin Coolidge has nodded his head twice and unclasped his hands. Otto Kahn has made an after-dinner speech about Otto Kahn. Congress has voted to build a postoffice at Collins Corners and a harbor at Tongonoxie, Kansas. Has anything been forgotten? Very good: the desk is cleared for spring poetry.

'Of Making Many Books'

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

A Mad Book

LPHA. By Emery Balint. (Macy-Masius, New York.)

THIS Hungarian novel is said to be one of the best sellers of the day in Europe. This being true students of world affairs may learn more about the real malady of Europe by reading "Alpha" than by giving the most careful attention to all the political jockeying over there. What is fundamentally important in the study of any society is the state of consciousness that dominates it; and this can be gotten at most readily through popular literature and art, for, unlike the exceptional individual, what the crowd wants is a representation of its own passions and prejudices.

"Alpha" is an important book as is Kraft-Ebing's "Psychopathia Sexualis" an important book. To say that a book is important is not the same as recommending it for general reading. The book may be described as an expressionistic protest against modern civilization from the viewpoint of a sensitive artistic personality that has been unable to adapt the music of his inner nature to the jazz tempo of the world. Laughter in "Alpha" is a mirthless cackle, and the nearest approach to humor is jaded hilarity.

The book is rather more than half mad. It is concerned with the spiritual degeneration of a young artist who, beginning as an idealist, loses faith in the world and plunges into unspeakable debaucheries. There are chapters that are nightmares. The World War comes on, and for a little while the young artist is deluded with a hope that the incalculable suffering of millions will result in a social katharsis. The hope failing, the youth flees to a country town and there goes mad. Indeed, he had not far to go, since even in the first chapter of the tale he seems eligible for admission to the [illegible] house, and as the tale proceeds he gets no better very rap[illegible]. At last, in a frenzy, he burns the village and is slain with pitchforks by the enraged citizens. A concluding passage introduces a vision of Christ. But "this," writes the author, "may be but a figment of the imagination."

It is said that "Alpha" is the first of a trilogy of novels, the second and third to be called "Beta" and "Gamma." The purpose of the series is to describe the downfall of our civilization and its reconstruction on saner lines.

It would seem that Emery Balint may have been profoundly impressed by the terrific philosophy of Oswald Spengler.

THE OXFORD BOOK OF EIGHTEENTH CENTURY VERSE. Oxford University Press.

This latest issue in the famous series of Oxford anthologies covers the period between the death of Dryden and the death of Cowper. The arrangement is chronological, but the order of authors is not determined by the dates of either their deaths or births. They are placed by a central date in their career or by the date of their most important work, as, for instance, Pope by his translation of the Iliad, Cowper by "The Task." At first glance it may surprise the reader to note that neither "Tintern Abbey" nor "The Ancient Mariner," which appeared in 1798 is included. The editors explain that with the publication of "Lyrical Ballads," in which these poems first appeared, began the new movement which belongs to the following century. The volume opens with "The Choice" by John Pomfret, a well-meaning but dull old codger, and ends with some scornful "Dactylics" thrown by their author, George Canning, at the new Liberty then (1797) coming into vogue:

"Liberty's friends thus all learn to amalgamate,
Freedom's volcanic explosion prepares itself,
Despots shall bow to the Fasces of Liberty,
Reason, Philosophy, fiddledum diddledum."
Peace and Fraternity, higgledy piggledy,
Higgledy, piggledy, fiddledum, diddleddum."

HARSANGUE. By Garet Garrett. Dutton.

The story of an experiment in state ownership of grain elevators, flour mills, etc., and of a Peoples' Bank from which the industries of the state, chiefly agricultural, were financed. Among the characters are a group of New York intellectuals, a young woman seeking an outlet for inherited wealth, an I. W. W., and an old banker whose murder brings about the crisis of the tale. "Harangue" is a romance with intellectual implications which need not bother the reader who does not want to think. Mr. Garrett was at one time one of the great financial reporters of Wall street and his treatment of economic questions is based on a sound knowledge of his subject.

G. K. Chesterton has found something else to "outline." This time it is sanity that comes in for tabloid treatment. "The Outline of Sanity" is soon to be issued by Dodd, Mead & Co. It is said that the book is written as a plea for man's freedom and as a protest against the present tendency to dictate to the average man what he shall eat, what he shall drink, how he shall dress, etc.

THE RHINELAND OCCUPATION. By Henry A. Allen, Major-General, U. S. A. Bobbs-Merrill Co.

Gen. Allen, who was commander of the American forces in Germany and the American representative on the Rhineland High Commission, here gives a detailed history of the occupation from the Armistice to February, 1923, when the American troops left Ehrenbreitstein.

BRITAIN'S FIRST TOTAL ECLIPSE IN 200 YEARS

Preparations to Observe Darkening of Sun There Next June 29.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Feb. 11. — The first total eclipse of the sun visible in England for more than 200 years will take place June 29, just after sunrise.

Greenwich astronomers have not prepared any new large telescopes, because the best view of the eclipse will be in the North. Existing portable apparatus and new prismatic instruments will be used.

Dr. Jackson, who will be in the party from Greenwich Observatory, said that they would probably take two telescopes and two spectroscopes to Giggleswick, Yorkshire, which is the station half-way between Hartlepool and Southport, in the path of the eclipse, chosen for their observations.

"We do not expect to be able to make any great discoveries," he continued, "because the eclipse will occur early in the morning, and I doubt if there will be a cloudless sky. England is not a satisfactory place for observing eclipses, and the sun will on this occasion have an altitude of only 12 degrees.

London will not be in total darkness, for it will have only a 96 per cent eclipse. It will, though, be almost dark and extremely cold, and there will possibly be a second appearance of the stars.

The eclipse lasts for only 23.5 seconds, and that does not give much time for observations. A total eclipse, one of the most beautiful of nature's tricks, has not been seen in this country since Newton's time, in 1724, and there will not be another until 1999."

Arrangements are already being made to take parties of students, school children and visitors to Southport, Hartlepool, or some other spot on the belt. Motor coaches have been booked for the occasion, and it is proposed to run excursion trains to the neighborhood.

Churches to Observe Lincoln Day.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—Commemorating the birthday of Abraham Lincoln and in observance of Race Relations Sunday, members of the Chicago Church Federation will exchange pulpits Feb. 13, Negro pastors preaching in white churches and white pastors occupying the pulpits in Negro churches. Thirty-[illegible] churches will take part in the interchange of pulpits.

the reservations upon which this Government had conditioned its adherence to the Court.

Virtually every Senator who could be induced to comment upon the proposal advanced one or more of these explanaions, and some of them were of the opinion that a combination of all was the correct answer.

Time Will Give Answer.

There are, however, a small group of members who argue that the President would never have made his proposal public without first privately and informally sounding out the governments concerned, and receiving some assurance from them that the proposal would be favorably received. If Charles E. Hughes were Secretary of State, there is no doubt whatever that such a course would have been pursued. However, Frank B. Kellogg is Secretary of State, and the answer must await developments.

SCOTTISH HOME RULE BILL

Approved by Convention, It Now Goes to London for Hearing.

By the Associated Press.

GLASGOW, Feb. 11.—A Scottish home rule bill, which has been approved by the Scottish National Convention, probably will have a hearing in London soon and representatives from all parts of Scotland plan to attend.

The bill provides for establishment in Scotland of a single chamber Parliament of 148 members who would deal with Scottish affairs and have power to make laws. Representation of Scotland in the House of Commons of the Imperial Parliament would cease. A supreme Court of Scotland is substituted for the House of Lords as the final court of appeal, and the power of levying and collecting taxes would be transferred from London to Glasgow.

Victor Lawson's Mansion Sold.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—The Lake Shore drive residence of the late Victor Lawson, former publisher of the Daily News, has been sold to Peter F. Reynolds, a real estate dealer and builder, with indications that it will be leased to the Casino Club. The price was understood to be in the neighborhood of $30 a square foot, or more than $775,000.

MISS MARTHA GELLHORN.

MISS GELLHORN, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George Gellhorn of 4366 McPherson avenue, is home from Bryn Mawr College for a short visit.

At an attractive dinner party given last night at their home, Mr and Mrs. James G. McConkey, 5362 Maple avenue, announced the engagement of their daughter, Betty, and James Lawrence Howerton of Anniston, Ala. Miss McConkey is a graduate of Washington University and Mr. Howerton of Washington and Lee University in Lexington, Va. He is the son of Mrs. J. R. Howerton of Lexington, and the late Rev. Dr. Howerton, who was professor of philosophy at Washington and Lee. Dr. Howerton had filled the pulpit of the Westminster Presbyterian Church in St. Louis on occasion, and was well-known here.

The guests at the dinner were Miss Virginia and Miss Mary Bell McConkey, sisters of the prospective bride; Miss Mary Elizabeth Coburn, Miss Frances and Miss Justine Ottofy, Miss Edith Gordon and Arthur Kehl, Randall Williams, Robert Knight, Thomas Dunn, Dean Lewis and Eugene Johansen.

The wedding will take place in the early fall and Mr. Howerton will take his bride to Anniston to reside.

A number of parties will precede and follow the Junior prom for the seniors at Mary Institute tonight. Miss Allene Blanke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Blanke of 5215 Lindell boulevard, will have 20 guests at dinner at her home, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Rathmann of 6424 Cecil avenue, will have a similar affair for their daughter, Miss Betty. After the dance Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Miss Thelma Whaley will entertain with a Valentine party for the alumnae of the Chi Omega Sorority at her home, 353 South Gore avenue, Webster Groves, tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. William T. Kilgore of Erie, Pa., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Henri Coleman of Clayton. Mrs. Kilgore was formerly Miss Mary Douglas.

The St. Louis Woman's Club announces a musicale for Thursday evening, Feb. 17, at 8 o'clock. Dinner will precede the program at 7 o'clock. The artists will be Mrs. Karl S. Howard and Walter Newman, with Mrs. David Kriegshaber at the piano. Mrs. Thomas G. Ratcliffe is chairman of the entertainment committee.

College Club members and guests who attended the musical by the Steindel Ensemble last evening at the clubhouse were delightfully entertained. The ensemble, composed of Mrs. Esmeralda Berry-Mayes violinist; Mme. Pampari, harpist and Mr. Max Steindel, 'cellist, offered a varied program of 10 numbers. During the intermission, following the first four numbers, Mrs Philip S. Elliott, president of the Missouri Division of the American Association of University Women, spoke briefly on "The Workshop," an organization for creative work maintained by the Kansas City College Club.

SMITHSONIAN ESTABLISHMENT IN FIRST SESSION SINCE 1878

Taft Summons Gathering of Scientific, Political and Industrial Leaders.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Fifty scientific, political and industrial leaders gathered here today for the first meeting since 1878 of the establishment of the Smithsonian Institution.

President Coolidge, Vice President Dawes, members of the Cabinet and leaders in private life, who make up the establishment's membership had been requested to attend by the Institution's board of regents, of which Chief Justice Taft is chancellor. Its purpose, said an announcement, was to "reveal the exact nature of the Smithsonian's activities in the increase and diffusion of knowledge, the strength of its position as a private institution under the guardianship of the Government and its prestige as the parent of American science."

MOUNTAINEER, 146 YEARS OLD, DISCLOSED BY RUSSIAN CENSUS

Nearly 150 Persons in Scattered Parts of Country, Who Are More Than Century Old.

By the Associated Press

MOSCOW, Feb. 11.—Despite all of its revolutions, civil wars, famines and epidemics, some of Russia's rural inhabitants enjoy longevity.

In carrying out the 1927 census, Government inspectors discovered nearly 150 persons in scattered parts of the country who are more than a century old, 60 per cent of whom were women.

The most notable case was that of Ivan Shapkovsky, a hardy mountaineer of Abkasia, whose birth certificate showed that he was born six years after the American Declaration of Independence, making him 145 years old. He attributed his long span of life to his frequent marriages and numerous children, coupled with a consistent diet of goat's meat, koumiss and a quart of vodka every day.

Among the oldest women was Martiana Maliarevitch of Novo Borisoff, White Russia, who came into the world 131 years ago, just as Catharine the Great was passing out. She walked 20 miles in the snow to the census office to make sure the officials would not fail to register her among the country's 140,000,000 other citizens.

Unlike Shapkovsky, Martiana never married. She ascribed her fullness of years to strictly frugal habits, 12 hours' sleep every night, an easy conscience and a contented life.

British Government, with a definite program to be worked out at Geneva.

Downing Street officials are interested in the continental comment on the Coolidge proposals. Although sections of the continental press are not enthusiastic, it is hoped here that this will not be misinterpreted and criticized in the United States. One of the essentials to the success of Mr. Coolidge's efforts, it is believed, is to avoid the idea that disarmament is primarily an Anglo-American or Anglo-Saxon movement which is being imposed upon the Latin nations.

Favorable Press Comment.

British press comment on the proposals, as was indicated by the Foreign Office spokesman, has been favorable. Terming the memorandum well-timed, the Manchester Guardian says:

"Great Britain again has the chance to prove that she is no less eager than America to carry the beneficent work of the Washington conference to a logical end."

The Liverpool Post says in part: "The fact that Mr. Coolidge has American sympathy, irrespective of party, behind him should have a salutary effect upon certain Governments which need not be named."

The Westminster Gazette says President Coolidge's overture is most timely. There should be no doubt of Great Britain's willingness to meet the suggestion sympathetically, says the paper.

The Daily Chronicle, while stressing the complexity of the disarmament problems, welcomes the proposals saying "It would immensely assist the larger task of the preparatory commission if the five principal naval powers could complete an agreement where agreement was clearly possible."

The Daily Express, while favoring disarmament, is despondent regarding its achievement and dwells on the failure of previous attempts.

"We appreciate the nobility of President Coolidge's sentiments," says the Express, "but what is really wanted is a formula to permanently cure nations of their warlike intentions."

"Torpedo Against League," Says Paris Paper.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 11.—"The American plan, whether you like or not, is a veritable torpedo launched against the League of Nations." That is how the Journal looks upon the proposals of President Coolidge for further limitation of naval armaments, and this expression represents the general tone of the comment in French newspapers.

Even the moderate Petit Parisen asks of unqualified acceptance of the proposals would not ruin a cause that France defended and had adopted at Geneva in 1924. It considers this would be a terrible blow to the League of Nations.

The Nationalist Echo de Paris considers the best thing would be to submit the American proposal to the League Council at Geneva, which, for once, would serve some useful purpose.

The moderate Figaro believes American intervention in the question of limitation of naval armaments will be productive of sur-

APAN TO ACCEPT COOLIDGE NAVAL CONFERENCE PLAN

se, rather than of acquiescence. President Coolidge's proposal is eiving careful study, it was said the French Foreign Office this orning. Official comment is re-erved until the bearing of the uggestion on the present activi-ties of the League of Nations is clear, and the eventual conse-quences of a new naval conference are weighed.

It is remarked that Mr. Coolidge addressed his memorandum only those Powers that were repre-nted at the Washington confer-ce, and the question arises ether the League is likely to e offense at a program that uld seem to take the question naval disarmament out of its nds.

It is suggested in official quar-s, however, that this difficulty n be bridged over if the Wash-gton Government is willing to ociate the League in the new nference.

Recognition in the memorandum the special position which nce holds so far as concerns er than capital ships has made favorable impression, though re is some inclination to con-r the proposal as aimed at sub-rines—a type of vessel regarded France as essential for the se-ity of her sea routes to her col-es.

ubt in League Circles as to Success of Negotiations.

the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Feb. 11.—Reaction at eva to President Coolidge's rec-mendation for a supplementary -Power naval accord was two-d. The League of Nations was ppy to see anything done to rther the cause of disarmament, t this was coupled with doubt as whether France and Italy, or n Great Britain, would see ir way clear to negotiate a na-agreement limiting cruisers, troyers and submarines, unless accord were linked up with an eement on military and avia-problems.

Experts are of the opinion that rance and Italy accept partici-on in a five-Power conference will be almost certain to make reservation that the treaty t not enter into force until a sfactory pact is achieved rela-to military and air matters.

On the other hand, it is admit-that a general international ference bearing on all the as-ts of armament, with Russia re-ing to participate, would stand le chance of attaining important ults, especially European and tinental army reduction, and t there is something to be said favor of the American idea of dling disarmament in concrete es among the Powers interest-in particular armaments.

t is remarked, however, that if nce and Italy accepted a sep-e naval parley they would risk g American and British sup-for a later conference on itary and air problems.

y Expected to Consult With Britain and France.

e Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 11.—It is under-od in political circles that an hange of views on President lidge's naval armament propo-will be sought by Italy with land and France, and probably an.

Premier Mussolini is said to have ussed the President's memoran-at length with Marshal Badog-chief of staff of Italy's armed es.

The general opinion continues to ail that Italy will agree to join discussion of further naval lim-ons, with some reservations g them an insistence upon firmation of the principle, sanc-ed at the Washington confer-e, of an equal ratio of strength ween the Italian and Frenh ies.

Most of the newspapers publish Coolidge's memorandum tex-y, but thus far there has been editorial comment.

Pope Expresses Pleasure.

The Pope, informed of the pro-l of President Coolidge on rmament, expressed great sure at learning of a further intended to lead to the main-ance of world peace. The pon-, however, refrained from mak-a definite statement until he d study the text of the docu-t.

atican circles were greatly sed, and considered President lidge's move a most important in completing the work of the hington conference, having as efinite aim, if not abolition of at least rendering war less y. It is pointed out that the dge proposal, whatever its confirms the universally rec-ed view that America has magnificent world leader-n favor of peace.

rmer Wife of J. L. Babler Very Ill When Document Was Signed, the Witness Asserts.

When Mrs. Elizabeth L. Dilrth, divorced wife of Jacob L. bler, former Republican National Commiteeman from Misuri, made a will on Nov. 5, 1924, ving most of her $437,000 estate the Bethesda Corporation, a aritable enterprise, she was very according to Antonio Trenier, r houseman at the time. She ed March 4, 1925.

Twenty-one relatives, living in nnsylvania, sued to break her l, alleging she was in no condito make a will and was uny influenced by persons close her. Trenier gave a deposition ehalf of the contestants which filed at Clayton today.

the day the will was signed, rding to Trenier, Mrs. Chris-Wolff, wife of a Clayton lawand frequent guest of Mrs. worth, telephoned from the latcountry home, Oak Manor, on Big Bend road, to former State ator A. E. L. Gardner, asking to come to the house and some blanks, as Mrs. Dils was to change her will.

Testimony of Houseman.

Gardner came over about 2:30 the afternoon," Trenier testi. "Mrs. Wolff admitted him to house and they went to the m where Mrs. Dilworth was in . Afterwards the nurse came n and told me Mrs. Dilworth not been able to sign the will. y sat around until midnight ing for her to sign. We served n coffee in the kitchen about o'clock. Later they went away, ing they would 'leave it with the e.' In the morning the nurse Mrs. Dilworth had signed will."

GIRL ARRIVES TO WED ACTOR, FINDS HE MARRIED ANOTHER

Robert Ames and Wife Deny He Was Engaged to Miss Helene Lambert.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—Mrs. Muriel Oakes Ames, who married Robert Ames yesterday, and Miss Helene Lambert, who came to Chicago announcing she had expected to become the actor's bride, occupied apartments at the same hotel today.

Ames, twice divorced, eloped to Waukegan, Ill., with Miss Oakes, a member of New York society, returning to play the leading part last night in a play.

"It can't be true," Ames declared when informed Miss Lambert had been quoted as saying she came here from New York to marry him. "Miss Lambert is an old friend of mine. I thought she just came here to say 'Hello.'"

"I'm overwhelmed," exclaimed Miss Lambert, a hostess in a New York night club.

The new Mrs. Ames said:

"Everyone in New York knew Bob and I were to be married. We've been engaged since August."

HEARING ON EAST ST. LOUIS WATER RATE SUIT MONDAY

City Attorneys of Belleville and Other Towns to Oppose 25 Per Cent Increase.

Hearing before the Illinois Commerce Commission on a proposed 25 per cent increase in water rates by the East St. Louis & Interurban Water Co., affecting 10 East Side municipalities and environs with a population of 150,000, will be held Monday at Springfield, Ill.

City attorneys will oppose the application which has been amended, it being contended that the amended scale of new rates places the burden of the advance on the minimum and moderate consumer and decreases the rate for large corporations, the maximum users.

SENATE ADOPTS ST. LOUIS BILL

Constitutional Amendment Would Give City Two Houses.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 11.—The Senate today adopted Senator Kinney's resolution for submission of a constitutional amendment to permit St. Louis to have two Houses in its legislative department, the members of one to be elected by wards. The purpose is to enable the Democrats to have representation.

The resolution now goes to the House for consideration. There was no opposition in the Senate.

Two Give Bond on Liquor Charge.

Gus H. Baumann, 54 years old, and Michael Roeder, 49, were arrested in a saloon Baumann operated at 9201 South Broadway when Deputy Sheriffs from St. Louis County found a quantity of whisky and home brew in the place last night. They were released on $1000 bonds each to appear for preliminary hearing at Clayton Feb. 21.

COMMISSION TO STUDY MEXICO ADVOCATED

The Rev. Dr. Strong Says Wrong, Prejudiced Impressions Would Vanish.

Commissions of Americans to learn the truth about conditions in foreign countries and interpret it to their fellow citizens at home were advocated by the Rev. Dr. Sydney Strong, a Congregational minister of Seattle, Wash., who was in the group which visited Mexico recently, in an address before the City and Town clubs, at the City Club yesterday.

Such groups can ascertain facts with which to combat false propaganda, he said, and even contradict wrongful impressions given out by the home government. He apparently alluded to the recent State Department talk about Mexican bolshevism, exposed by the Post-Dispatch. Commissions of this sort should be sent to China now, he declared, to study events in that country.

After discussing the visit of his group to Mexico early this year, under leadership of Hubert C. Herring of Boston, Dr. Strong proposed formation of a commission of half a dozen or more St. Louisans to go to Mexico to study only the relationship of church and state. An agency like the City Club or a newspaper might initiate this, he told reporters afterwards, suggesting Charles Nagel, former Secretary of Commerce and Labor, as a good man for the commission. A Catholic priest and layman, Jews, Protestants and women should be included in the body, he added.

Trying to Help People.

The last Mexican revolution, Dr. Strong said in his speech, summarizing his own impression after the Herring Commission visit, brought not merely a change in government, but "a new government which is trying to bring about a change in the economic, industrial and intellectual life of the people."

"We ought to love our neighbor nations," he continued, "and we ought not be legalistic. We ought not emphasize property rights. It is the Mexican people who are suffering. I am glad to raise my voice for those trying to help them."

The speaker did not go into details about the new Mexican petroleum and land laws and the church question, but said the Government, while anti-Catholic, was not anti-religious. He cited the fact that school children received as a text the four Gospel books of the Bible, and books on ethics.

"The Herbert Hoover of Mexico told me," he related, "of the difference between the Spanish-Mexican legal system and the Anglo-Saxon system of America. The Spanish-Mexican system does not contemplate the surrender forever of subsoil rights (as of petroleum), and so the change to the present law was made."

Tells of Commission's Study.

Dr. Strong defended the commission from the criticism that it spent too short a time in Mexico, saying it consisted of trained observers and veteran travelers. It went to various places, he continued, gaining the necessary experience of absorbing the spirit of the people. He found Mexico a country utterly foreign to American eyes.

He told how the commission interrogated informally the heads of Government departments, of its long interview with President Calles, as has been described in press dispatches, and its audience with the Catholic hierarchy, which answered prepared questions. There are three fundamental ideas underlying the Mexican Government, he declared—labor, the agrarian movement and enthusiasm for education.

As characteristic of Mexican honesty, he told of seeing $2000 in silver money left unguarded in a sack on a sidewalk and of a library of Cervantes in a park, unattended.

Bullet-Proof Vests for Police.

Four steel bullet-proof vests were added to the Belleville Police Department equipment yesterday. The vests and riot guns will be used in cases of bank or payroll robberies and in pursuing robbers. The department also will be equipped with tear bombs.

To Address Town Club.

Dr. Richard Burton will address the Town Club next Tuesday, Feb. 15, instead of Wednesday as was previously announced.

Cruel Pains Ruined His Night's Rest!
Suffered Several Years From NEURITIS
Now Recommends Eopa Neuritis Tablets for Quick Relief

"I have used your Eopa Neuritis Tablets for Neuritis about ten days with good results after several years' suffering. I had the worst pain when I wanted to rest at night. I worked all day in the laundry and only slept a few hours at night. I will recommend your remedy highly."
(Signed) E. M. Worley.

Neuritis pains, whether in the arms, legs, shoulders, neck or any other part of the body are caused by worn-out, inflamed nerves. The only way to stop the throbbing pains is to soothe and relieve the inflammation and tone up the nerves, which is exactly the way Eopa Neuritis Tablets conquer the trouble. A few of these remarkable tablets usually bring comforting relief. If the pains are sharp, stabbing and agonizing, take two tablets every two hours until relieved.

Based on a physician's prescription, Eopa Neuritis Tablets are guaranteed safe, effective and free from narcotics, bromides and heart-depressing drugs. All druggists. Always at Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores, Walgreen Drug Co.

MISSOURI FLOOD AREA RETURNING TO NORMAL

Families Return to Homes as Water Recedes—Highways Being Repaired.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KENNETT, Mo., Feb. 11.—Southeast Missouri's "boot district" is getting gradually back to normal, after the worst flood in many years. The flood water has receded so that the hundreds of men who are employed in the woods and in the mills that were forced to close because of flood conditions are returning to their work.

Citizens of Kennett subscribed approximately $700 for relief of approximately 175 families during the critical period extending over the past eight or 10 days. The families in distress were given provisions twice a day for five days. All necessary funds for relief work were obtained locally.

Relief Headquarters Open.

In other communities conditions are much the same as in the vicinity of Kennett. Hundreds of acres of land in the lower sections were inundated as a result of heavy rains two weeks ago.

The relief headquarters will remain open here as long as needed, but it is expected that little demand for food will be received here after this week.

Under a plan adopted by the city, about 20 men were given employment on the streets of Kennett under Street Commissioner J. W. Royer, for several days. This work gave them funds with which to provide for their families.

Many families in the flood district were driven from their homes. The situation was more serious in many cases because farmers, who were affected by the low cotton price, were endeavoring to pass the winter months with as little expense as possible.

Conditions in the vicinity of Hornersville also are improved. The water has receded from the highways, and traffic is being resumed as fast as the highway crews can put the roads in condition.

Acres Still Inundated.

There is yet a large territory inundated, including portions of the highways. Because of the soaked condition of the earth, the rivers receded slower than usual. The water has left highway No. 84 where the greatest damage resulted and traffic has been resumed. Temporary wood bridges have been constructed on Highway No. 25 at White Oak levee. Water is expected to be off of Highway No. 53 between Holcomb and Campbell by tomorrow. The road was inundated for one mile.

While approximately 100 families were made homeless in this vicinity, some of them have been able to return to their homes. They were cared for by neighbors during the high water period.

HOSPITAL FOR TUBERCULAR CONVICTS REQUESTED IN BILL

Measure, Introduced in House, Says $60,000 Appropriation Would Be Necessary.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 11.—Establishment of a hospital here for the treatment of tubercular convicts sent to the Missouri penitentiary is requested in a bill introduced in the House today by Representative Asel of Cole County, Republican.

An appropriation of $60,000 would be made, under the bill, for the purchase of a 42-acre tract adjoining Prison Farm No. 1, just east of the penitentiary, and a large residence on the land.

A committee of three, including one Senator, a Representative and a member to be named by the Governor, would be created by the measure to make the purchase. Not more than $56,000 could be paid for the property, however, the bill provides.

There is now no effective method for segregating the tubercular convicts in the State prison, the bill points out, and the disease is being carried outside the penitentiary to all parts of the State by discharged prisoners.

Tubercular convicts now are confined to a small, frame building near the center of the prison grounds.

Woman Freed of Workhouse Term.

Miss Pauline Wolf of 3947 West Pine boulevard was discharged by Judge Gayer of the Court of Criminal Correction yesterday after hearing her appeal from a $50 fine and a sentence of 10 days in the workhouse for careless driving. The sentence was imposed Jan. 25 by Police Judge Roescan. Her arrest followed a collision with the parked automobile of Elmer Pollak, 4051 McPherson avenue, near his home.

No Cold In 5 Yrs.

The writer has not had a cold in five years. He catches colds from contacts, just as others do. But at the first sneeze he takes HILL'S. I have proved that colds do not develop when one does that.

But there are other things that millions know. HILL'S checks a cold in 24 hours after it has developed. It ends the fever, opens the bowels, tones the entire system. It leaves one feeling better than when the cold began.

HILL'S combines four of the greatest helps modern science has discovered. It was perfected by one of the world's largest laboratories. It is so efficient, so well-proved that the present owners paid $1,000,000 for it.

Nobody who knows what HILL'S can do will ever use a lesser help. Nor will they delay.

STATE'S CHIEF WITNESS HEARD AT MELLETT MURDER TRIAL

He Admits, Under Cross-Examination, Telling Story of Plot to Obtain Reward.

By the Associated Press.

CANTON, O., Feb. 11.—Steve Kascholk, the State's key witness in the trial of Ben Rudner for the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton editor, admitted under cross-examination today that he told his version of the plot originally in order to collect a reward with which he hoped to obtain a divorce.

It was a point strongly stressed by defense counsel in an effort to impeach his testimony. Kascholk's story was that he had been approached by Patrick McDermott, now serving a life sentence for Mellett's death, and has gone to Massillon, O., where he discussed with McDermott and Rudner a "job" in connection with Mellett's editorial campaign against vice and crime in Canton. He said that when he learned that murder was contemplated he withdrew.

George Gordon Battle of defense counsel drew the admission from the witness that he had watched Cleveland newspapers while the rewards for the editor's slayers mounted from $5000 to more than $20,000 before he told his story to the authorities. Mellett was shot down by the door of his garage on the night of last July 16.

WOMAN SLAYER SENT TO PRISON

Mrs. Pearl Miles of Dupo Given Indeterminate Sentence.

Mrs. Pearl Miles, 38 years old, pleaded guilty in the St. Clair County Circuit Court of manslaughter and was given an indeterminate term in Joliet prison. She was taken to prison yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Al Petri. She was charged with shooting and killing Ray Hauser in Dupo. Mrs. Miles is married and has two small children.

Petri also took Harold Pollard, Owen Darling, Albert Watts and Attrice Fulton to the Pontiac reformatory; Paul Staley to Vandalia prison farm and Frank Corder to the St. Charles Industrial School.

HEADS TAILORS' DESIGNERS

Harry A. Schmidt Elected President at Pittsburg Convention.

Harry A. Schmidt, tailor in the Arcade Building, was elected president of the Merchant Tailor Designers' Association, a national organization, at its annual convention at Pittsburg, Pa., yesterday. He was formerly first vice president of the organization.

Schmidt, who lives at 3636 Wyoming street, has been a merchant tailor all his life. He inherited the Schmidt Tailoring Co. from his father, the late Harry A. Schmidt, who established the business at Sixth street and Washington avenue in 1878.

COEDUCATION CAUSES STRIKE

PARIS, Feb. 11.—Half of the children of Pinet, in Central France, went on strike when the boys' and girls' schools, on opposite sides of the main street, were combined.

The schoolmaster, in charge of the boys, and the schoolmistress in charge of the girls, are man and wife. When one was ill the other tried to operate the two schools and finally they found it so convenient that the schools were combined permanently. Every appeal to the Ministry of Public Instruction has failed and the parents are keeping their children home under tutors.

PLANNING MENUS FOR THE COMING WEEK

Care and Time Should Be Given to Proper Arrangement of Meals.

It will be noted that old-fashioned brown sugar syrup appears as an accompaniment to the Sunday morning waffles. Just here one might call attention to the fact that although sometimes difficult to procure, this sugar is worth hunting for. It contains some of the important ash which has been eliminated from the ultra-refined granulated sugar. Added to this, it has a very delicious flavor.

Although country sausages appear as another attraction of this particular Sunday breakfast.

It lends itself, however, to cold weather meals by way of occasional variety.

Notice that carrot straws are served with the veal. This slicing into thin long slivers is an excellent way of serving the valuable carrot. Moreover, carrots are a good accompaniment for any rather heavy meat dish, as they provide body-regulating material of a particularly valuable type.

The cream of canned pea soup may be "dressed up" both in appearance and food value if a "dab" of whipped cream is added to each portion. The blending of colors is appetizing in itself and a soup already nourishing is enriched many times in food value by the addition of cream. When oranges are expensive the carrot marmalade served at Monday's breakfast makes a very good alternative. One orange may be made to do the work of several when the wholesome carrots are used as a basis for the jam.

The boiled rice with brown gravy mentioned at Monday's luncheon may be served as the main dish of a meal if there is leftover meat. Brown gravy is made in the ordinary way with a few spoonfuls of fat left in the pan after cooking meat. The hot boiled rice has had stirred throughout it very finely ground cheese so that it is smooth, creamy and delicious. When the brown gravy is added we have a dish that is, to quote many enthusiasts, "just like meat."

When Frying Doughnuts.

If a little vinegar is added to the fat in which doughnuts are fried, the fat will not be absorbed so quickly.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR COOKS

Left-over breakfast mush appears at luncheon in delicate slices crisply fried. The dish is so hearty that one should remember this in planning the menu. For example, fried mush is usually served with syrup and sometimes with bacon also. In either case, this dish should do double duty; first, as one of the main dishes, and second, as dessert. If a hearty dessert is added, the meal is likely to be over-balanced in energy food.

Black beans make a very good variation for the more commonly used peas, white beans and lentils. Black beans are very rich in vegetable protein, that is, body-building material. The fact that they are somtwhat hearty makes it advisable to serve lemon slices with the soup. The lemon flavor is excellent in combination with the richer flavor of the beans.

This is the season for serving raw apples frequently. It is an excellent practice to use this form of fruit at breakfast at least once a week. Such a practice adds variety to the menu, but better than this, it provides the mineral salts and vitamins undisguised by sugar as in the case of baked apples or stewed apple sauce. The crisp texture of raw apples is a particularly good appetizer and stomach stimulant for breakfast.

Grape juice is especially good for any one whose diet must be carefully balanced as regards acid and alkaline foods. Any one with catarrhal condition of the stomach and bowels may also be benefited by its use. One need not wait until he is ill, however, to enjoy this delicious beverage. It should be used frequently to vary the morning orange juice.

Plan Advance Meals.

What a load off one's shoulders to plan the week's meals in advance! If you have never tried it, won't you do so this week? Your work will be lighter and your family will probably be better nourished.

Have you Heard?—

That soup has less tendency to curdle if the vegetable puree is poured into the white sauce, instead of the white sauce into the vegetables?

Crackers of Every Kind Have Place in the Di

Wheat Biscuits, Graham Crackers, Sweete Wafers and Fancy Dessert Crackers, Al Are Extremely Valuable.

Crackers, or, as our English cousins term them, biscuits, have a place all their own in a well-planned dietary. If they are chosen with reasonable attention to the menu as a whole, crackers may be called an almost indispensible addition to an attractive and nourishing diet.

Beginning with the children's meals, since they are most important, such crackers as graham and unsweetened whole wheat wafers are especially valuable. Well-made graham crackers containing, as they do, a slight addition of sugar, may well take the place of cake for children too young to indulge in this dainty.

Unsweetened whole wheat crackers, on the other hand, are excellent as an accompaniment to the children's morning or mid-afternoon glass of milk. They should also be served with the youngsters' other milk dishes.

There are, of course, almost endless varieties of crackers and biscuits, both plain and sweetened. Our purpose is to think of crackers as an actual contribution to the diet. Let us consider these two standbys — unsweetened whole wheat wafers and graham crackers as our starting point. Let us make such additions as animal crackers by way of occasional change from the sweetened graham. Let us alternate arrow-root biscuit with whole wheat wafers and we have a fairly satisfactory basis for considering food value of the cracker family as a whole.

Now as to composition. Graham crackers contain two calories or measures of body building material for every 9½ measures of energy as a whole. In other wor dren who have this form of sweet cracker may upon receiving a generous body building material. This of material, the energy in the starch of the flour and body-building material in the tein, is an excellent supplem the other food elements in milk.

The plain unsweetened come next. When eaten wit or soup these wafers supply tically the same proportion of building material. Their spe vantage lies in the fact that entirely without sugar, the is not apt to cause fermenta young digestions. This is portant point and any that may exist should be up. While lightly crackers are, as we have said, good for lunch or des unsweetened ones are a standby as an accompanim soup. Children's digestions not grown up to the point of ing care of sugar in combi with starch unless it exists in small quantities.

As for the more elaborate eties of crackers and biscuits, containing considerable ing, sugar and other add these are also important, have their own place. The within the class of dessert and should be used accordin

One final suggestion abo children's plain biscuits. a basis for sandwiches, chopped fruit or cream filling, these make a very ble addition to the school box.

DRESS UP YOUR SWEET POTATOES

This Vegetable Should Occupy a More Exalted Place in Cookery.

Sweet potatoes can be obtained in some cities any day in the year, but they are available anywhere from the last of August until spring.

There are two distinct types of sweet potatoes: the dry, mealy-fleshed types preferred in northern markets, and the moist-fleshed types loosely referred to as yams, which are so popular in the South. The moist-fleshed types, while delicious, are poor shippers, and consequently are not so well known in the North as they deserve.

Sweet potatoes may be baked; the tops cut off, the pulp scooped out and mixed with cream or butter seasoned with salt and placed back in the potato skins. Just before serving each cut potato is topped with a bit of whipped cream.

Sweet Potato Pudding.

To make sweet potato pudding, take three cups sweet potatoes, one cup seeded raisins, two tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon salt and marshmallows.

Put raisins in saucepan; cover with cold water and simmer until raisins are puffed up. Drain and when cool put in casserole or baking dish; cover with sweet potatoes which have been cooked, mashed and seasoned with butter and salt. Then cover with a layer of marshmallows. Put in a pan of hot water and place in a moderate oven until marshmallows are toasted, about 25 minutes.

Glazed Sweet Potatoes.

Boil and peel medium sized sweet potatoes. Brush them with melted fat, then lay separately in a frying pan in which an inch of molasses has been poured. Place over a slow fire and turn frequently until candied and a little brown. Two tablespoons of butter and juice of one lemon added to the molasses give a flavor that is very pleasing.

Sweet Potato Pie.

Line a deep pie tin with your favorite pastry. Peel, core and slice two cups of apples and one cup of sweet potatoes. Mix together and put in tin, sprinkle with three-fourths cup sugar, a little cinnamon, nutmeg and one-half teaspoon butter placed in dabs over it. Put on top crust and bake slowly until the potatoes are done.

Sweet Potato Pone.

Just a suggestion. Sweet potato pone is a welcome addition to any pork dinner. To prepare it, wash, peel and grate four large sweet potatoes. Beat four eggs well; cream one-half cup butter and three-fourths cup brown sugar, then add the eggs and the grated sweet potatoes and three-fourths cup molasses; add one teaspoon each of ground cloves, nutmeg and cinnamon. Add one cup milk and beat all well, then add the grated rind of a lemon. Put into well buttered pan and bake slowly for an hour. May be served either cold or warm.

Frosted Sweet Potatoes.

Boil, peel, cook and mash sweet potatoes in the same way that white are prepared for quick mashing, but in cutting them in slices put into cold water immediately. They will cook soft in 20 minutes. A little sugar may be used with other seasonings. As many uses or more can be found for mashed sweet potatoes as for white. They are even good toasted on toasted bread. To make frosted sweet potato put mashed potato into buttered baking dish, cover with marshmallow "topping" mixed with a few chopped raisins and bake until it puffs and browns slightly. Serve from baking dish. This is a favorite complement to fried chicken in some parts of the country. White of egg lightly sweetened and combined can be used instead of the marshmallow or home-made marshmallows.

Consider Your Dessert A Part of Your Meal

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator From New York.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

IT is in their choice of meats and dessert that we can best observe the differences in the bringing up of our friends and neighbors.

I suppose most women enjoy sweet desserts, but you will find that many men refuse them.

In this connection I am wondering what effect smoking has upon the appetites of women. Almost any man who smokes will refuse candy while he is smoking. Sweets and tobacco do not mix in male mouths. Is it so with women?

Men are more likely to enjoy cheese and crackers and to take them instead of ice cream, pudding or other pastry. However, this is a matter of taste and has no relation to health. So far as health is concerned, one of these desserts is as good as another.

There are so many varieties of cheese from which to choose that every appetite can be pleased. there are the several kinds of cream cheese and the more expensive sorts—Camembert, Roquefort, Gruyere, etc.

In this connection, I repeat what so often I have occasion to say—that every dessert must be regarded as food, not as a luxury quite apart from the main meal. When this fact is drilled into the mind, there will be less temptation to fill up on the substantial portions of the meal on the theory that the dessert is something entirely separate and apart.

You are not dealing fairly with your stomach if you do not give it variety, and certainly you are unkind to it if you overload it. When you know there is to be a delicious dessert, leave room for it. Don't crowd it into an already groaning organ.

A pastry of some sort leaves a pleasant taste in the mouth. A dish of delicious ice cream, a slice of well-made cake, a piece of good pie—who can resist the ideal! Our commercial bakers and ice cream makers have solved the mysteries of uniformly excellent dessert. A dinner is not complete without this addition.

No matter how splendid have been the appointments, the serving and the quality of the dinner, without the final touch of an appealing dessert, the whole meal is spoiled. It is like a church without a steeple or a house without a porch. You just must have cheese or a sweet dessert.

VERSATILE BACON USE IT OFTEN

Adaptable for Combination Dihses or as a Trimming or Garnish.

To many people, bacon is a food reserved for only a breakfast dish and then possibly served when the mornings are cool.

For luncheons and dinners, use eggs in souffles, creamed and scalloped dishes. Make an effort to serve colorful foods, cool and refreshing. If a dish is served which is a type that cannot be crisp, then supply its crispness in garnishings.

The trouble with many vegetable meals is that they fail to hold the eye and attract the appetite. Now bacon, crisp and golden brown, is just the food to put the finishing touches to these vegetable dishes, improving the taste and appearance.

Scalloped cabbage, potatoes, squash, or egg-plant with a few slices of bacon on top is delicious.

A border of bacon around hamburger cakes changes this dish from an old one, similar to hash, to an entirely new dish.

The uses of bacon in sandwiches are too numerous to mention. Besides club sandwiches, it may be used in combination with cheese, sliced tomato, cucumber and jelly, and there are a number of other sandwiches which may be improved by one or two slices of crisp bacon.

When sliced thin, broiled crisp and served hot, bacon tempts even the most delicate appetite. For this reason, it is one of the first meats allowed the convalescent.

For breakfast, crisp bacon with fried mush is a substantial dish. For variety, chop the bacon and use as omelet filling or serve it with cream sauce on toast.

For picnic luncheon, buns with hot bacon filling are a favorite and nourishing sandwich. The bacon cooking over the open fire gives off a tempting aroma which has a strong appetite appeal.

Any possible left-over cooked bacon makes a delicious seasoning for vegetable salad. It should be grated and lightly sprinkled over the salad just before serving.

Leftover bits of pie crust cut into squares, buttered, sprinkled with sugar and cinnamon and allowed to brown, make a very tasty little tart to be eaten with tea.

Turkey Bombay.

Cut the meat from the turkey in one-half inch pieces. Heat a tablespoonful of butter, add a minced green pepper and the minced hearts of two white onions, brown a few minutes, and add one-half chopped apple, one cupful of raw washed rice, two cupfuls of consomme, one-half cupful of strained tomato juice, one teaspoonful of salt, and one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper. Then add the turkey, mix well, put in a covered casserole in oven, and bake for 45 minutes. Remove and add to the hot mixture two beaten egg yolks and two tablespoonfuls of grated Parmesan cheese. Mix lightly, put all in a greased mold and steam for 25 minutes. Unmold and serve hot with reheated gravy.

Tense nerves and cross-patch tempers

SHE knew people were beginning to notice how irritable she was — but she simply couldn't help it. . . . How could she be gay when throbbing eyes and endless headaches made up her day? How could she smile and laugh when jumping nerves and aching muscles tortured even her sleep? Why, she hadn't been herself for months!

What a vicious thing constipation is! Thief of health, robber of happiness—the cause of untold suffering and disease! It wrecks vitality. It saps beauty. It fills the brightest heart with despair. What a blessing that there is a safe relief from this curse! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation—pleasantly, permanently. More—to prevent it.

Why ALL-BRAN is far better than part-bran

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN absorbs a great deal of moisture which it carries through the digestive system. At the same time it gently distends the intestines—cleansing, purifying, removing poisons and wastes. Being 100% bran, ALL-BRAN accomplishes 100% results. How different from part-bran products, which contain so little bulk that effective results are seldom possible! That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN.

Don't trust habit-forming pills!

And contrast healthful ALL-BRAN with dangerous pills and drugs — which become useless unless the dose is constantly increased. This sometimes causing serious injury! ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream. Let it soak a few moments in the milk to bring out its nut-like flavor. Add fruits or honey for an extra treat. Sprinkle ALL-BRAN in soups. Try the recipes on every package.

Don't take chances with a part-bran substitute. At best, it can only be partially effective. Insist on genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Sold by all grocers. Served in diners, hotels, restaurants. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

Sweet Potato Strips.

Take three large sweet potatoes, one-fourth cup melted butter, four medium-sized white potatoes, three tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one-half cup hot milk or cream and a few grains of paprika.

Wash sweet potatoes very clean, cover with boiling water and cook until tender. Drain, cool and remove skins, slice lengthwise, about one-third inch thick. Wash, pare and cook Irish potatoes in boiling water until tender. Drain and mash. Add butter, salt, pepper, hot milk or cream. Beat until very creamy and fluffy. Place in warm pastry bag and with large rose tube pipe on strips of sweet potato which have been brushed with melted butter. Place on greased baking sheet and put in oven to reheat and brown. Sprinkle with paprika and serve immediately.

Try This.

In planning your meals, did you ever try a cooking-double plan? The idea is to cook at one time a large enough quantity to serve in just a little different style for a second meal. This plan is especially good when cooking vegetables which may be served creamed or with butter for the first meal and in salads or escalloped dishes at the second meal. It is equally good with meats.

PRIZE RECIPE

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN THE WEEK'S MENUS

Valued Recipes Handed Down From One Generation to Another.

Every week the menus carry dishes which, on account of their popularity, may be made in several ways. With this idea in view, we are offering today new recipes for making some of the favorite dishes included in this week's menus.

Maryland Chicken.

Select a young chicken and cut in at the joint, rolling in flour and seasoning with salt and pepper; fry in a very hot frying pan, one or two pieces at a time. Let stay in the fat until each piece is well browned. Lower the heat and cook slowly for about one-half hour. Serve the fried chicken on toast and pour around a nicely seasoned white sauce. Serve corn fritters with the chicken.

Rarebit.

One and one-half cups grated cheese, two tablespoons margarin, one and one-half cups cooked cereal, one teaspoon mustard, dry; two eggs, one-half cup milk, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Scald the milk and add margarin; beating in the cereal and then add the mustard, cheese and eggs. Season with paprika, and after the mixture is thoroughly hot add the Worcestershire sauce. Serve on toasted crackers.

Grape Tapioca.

One cup grape juice, two and one-half cups water, three-fourths cup sugar, two-thirds cup minute tapioca, one-third teaspoon salt, juice of one lemon. When the water is boiling add salt and sugar. Stir in the tapioca and cook in a double boiler until quite clear. Add grape juice and lemon juice and cook for a few moments longer. Set away to get very cold and serve with whipped cream. A few spoonfuls of grape juice may be whipped into cream if desired.

Cornmeal Waffles.

One cup cooked cornmeal mush, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, two tablespoons sugar, one cup flour, two eggs, two tablespoons melted margarin, one cup milk. Mix the cornmeal mush with the eggs and beat until there are no lumps. Sift the flour with salt and baking powder and combine with the sugar. Add this to the cornmeal mixture and then add the melted margarin. Beat again and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake about five minutes so that the waffles will remain tender.

Peanut Loaf.

Two cups canned tomatoes, one and one-fourth teaspoons salt, two tablespoons cornstarch, two cups peanut butter, one cup dried bread crumbs, pepper to taste. Mix the cornstarch with a little of the tomato and then add to the remainder of the tomato. Then add the peanut butter, crumbs, salt and pepper. Mix thoroughly and place in a well greased mold. Cover tightly and simmer for two hours. Serve very hot with creamed onions. This loaf is excellent when cold if sliced.

Cauliflower and Pepper Salad.

Two cups cooked cauliflower cut in dice, one green pepper, one cup pickled beets, sliced. Pour a little of the French dressing over the cauliflower and beets and let stand separately until cold. Just before serving mix with the pepper and garnish with lettuce.

PIE-MAKING HELPS

Attention to Details Assures Delicious Light Pastry.

Do not let dough for pastry stand; roll out at once, otherwise it will become dry and difficult to handle.

When juicy fruit is used for a filling, some of the juice is likely to escape. To prevent this bind edges with a strip of cloth wrung out of hot water.

When crust is baked before filling is added, cover an inverted pie plate with pastry and prick before baking.

Crusts and fillings should be cold before putting together to prevent sogginess.

The oven for all pies should be moderately hot.

Carrots.

The carrot is usaully among the unpopular vegetables. A little care in its preparation usually results in restoring it to favor. Young baby carrots may be scraped, eaten raw in the form of salad. Older carrots should be steamed rather than boiled, the latter process depriving it of much of its nourishment. It may be interesting to you to know that in Vichy raw carrots are served with every meal. As those in charge of preparing the food know that carrots help in overcoming putrefaction in the intestines. Carrots have an extremely valuable source of food lime, although it must be admitted that in order to secure the full lime ration a rather excessive quantity of the vegetable must be eaten. Served, however, in the ordinary way, carrots play an important part in the vegetable portion of the died.

RY CANNED FRUITS IN DAINTY DESSERTS

The Canned Article Is Equally as Delicious as Fresh Fruit.

Canned fruits are among the blessings of the modern housewife. Formerly, canned peaches and pears were the popular favorites and they were generally served as makeshift dessert. The perfection of product put out by the modern commercial canners has changed all this, for now the up-to-date cook uses all varieties of canned fruits, pineapples, peaches, pears, cherries, blueberries, green gages and plums, in cooked dishes.

The winter season offers an opportunity to try out new dessert recipes and here are some delicious desserts which utilize canned fruits.

Canned Peach Dessert.

Butter a loaf-shaped pan and line it smoothly with wax paper. Cut day-old sponge cake in thin slices and place in pan, cover the sponge cake with a layer of canned peaches, then put in a layer of butterscotch filling, then another layer of cake, and cover the cake with a layer of stiffly whipped cream. Fill the pan in this order, having the last layer of cake. Place in icebox six hours, remove, turn pan upside down on a large plate, cover with a warm cloth, remove pan and garnish with slices of peaches and whipped cream.

Blueberry Pudding.

Take one cup sugar, one cu flour, one quart canned bluebe ries and one-half cup butter.

Sift together sugar and flour. Cut in butter with two knives. Wash and pick over berries. Put in baking dish and cover with first mixture. Bake in a moderate oven 30 minutes. Serve with cream.

Cherry Betty.

Pit one quart of canned cherries, add one and one-fourth cups o granulated sugar. Put a layer i a buttered baking dish, cover with a cup of soft bread crumbs mixed with one tablespoon of melted butter and continue in this way until there are three layers of each. Cover and bake in a moderate oven for an hour. Uncover the last 15 minutes to brown. A little nutmeg may be added to the cherries if desired. Serve with liquid butter sauce.

Pineapple Souffle.

One cup grated canned pineap ple, one teaspoon lemon juice, two tablespoons butter, five eggs, one-fourth cup sugar, one teaspoon baking powder, two tablespoons of flour and one-fourth teaspoon salt.

Put butter in top of double boil er; add flour and salt and whe blended add pineapple pulp and juice. Gradually add sugar and lemon juice and cook 10 minute Remove from fire; add beaten e yolks. Beat whites until froth add baking powder and beat unt stiff, then fold into mixture. Tur into buttered baking dish, set i pan of hot water and bake i moderate oven 45 minutes. Serv with diced pineapple and juice.

Braised Peaches.

For the braised peaches heat can of peaches in their own sirup adding sugar if desired, and se one on top of hot rice.

ART THE DAY WITH A GOOD MEAL

Filling and Appetizing Breakfast Starts the Day Right.

ariety in breakfast dishes is an- r "must." And this variation of the hardest problems with ch the housewife is confronted. ere are recipes for some ap- ing breakfast dishes that are om served in these days of light kfasts.

Creamed Codfish.

eat two cups of milk. Mix one- cup flour smooth with butter, per and salt, cook 15 minutes; one-half pound salt codfish ch has been soaked at least two rs. Boil up once and serve with ve fried apples with pork s or bacon as a pleasant ge from apple sauce. First h the apples clean and core . Cut into rings about one- inch thick and fry in some of fat from the meat. Serve on ame platter with the meat in attractive arrangement.

Breakfast Lamb.

t up cooked meat, sprinkle flour, add bacon fat and sea- ngs. Brown in bacon fat. Stew ly in gravy, or water if no y is available, for 15 minutes. eason with little lemon juice. ve hot with potatoes, or lima ns.

Bacon and Eggs.

ry slowly as many slices of ba- as desired, and when done h to hot plate to keep warm, g the fat remain in the frying Break into it as many fresh s needed, and shave over several paper-thin slices of green onions; dust with salt pepper, and finish cooking by g with bacon fat. As soon as ggs are done remove to the containing the bacon, and in center of each egg put a tea- nful of either chili sauce of to- catsup, preferably heated; at once.

Scalloped Ham.

p cold ham and add an equal unt of bread crumbs. Season pepper and salt, if needed. ach cup of the mixture add a spoonful of melted butter and icient milk to form a soft . Have muffin pan well ed and half fill the rings with mixture. Carefully break an on top of each, dust with pep- salt and cracker meal and about eight minutes.

Broiled Lamb Steak.

at should be cut at least one thick. Wipe meat with damp and trim off superfluous fat ne. Heat broiler very hot, with fat and put on meat. first on one side, then on and when well browned heat and continue cooking, ng the meat occasionally.

Potato and Sausage.

h thoroughly medium-sized es and peel. With an apple-corer push down through the middle to the bottom and remove the core thus made. Fill the cavity remaining with well-seasoned sausages, which have been slightly browned, and pour over the drippings. Bake until potatoes are done. They should be an appetizing brown.

ACCOMPANIMENTS FOR VEAL

Certain Vegetable Always Go With Certain Meats.

Now about foods to serve with veal. With a roast serve mashed potato or noodles or boiled rice. The choice should depend on what the other foods are. For example, unless you have at least one other green vegetable represented in the menu and preferably two, serve potatoes rather than rice. There is a reason for this. Veal, like all other meat, has an acid reaction. Potatoes have an alkaline. Therefore, there is common sense behind the phrase, meat and potatoes.

Now about the green vegetables. Among those to serve with roast veal are spinach, green peas, asparagus and beans. With the roast have tart jelly or fruit sauce. A pineapple compote is very delicious.

For veal chops the potatoes may be either mashed or creamed and the other vegetables may be cucumbers, sliced tomatoes, corn or mushrooms and the sauce a spicy fruit or a tomato sauce.

Veal sweet breads are, of course, a delicacy and are best served with creamed potatoes, or mushrooms, or green peas.

When Too Salty.

An excellent antidote for too much salt is to stir a little coarse brown sugar into gravy, vegetables or soup and the dish will become palatable again.

When food is made too salty, it may also be counteracted by adding a tablespoon each of vinegar and sugar.

NUTRITION NUGGETS

Timely Tips on Values of Everyday Foods.

Frequent use of lemon juice in beverages, in salad dressing, and, of course (though to a much less degree), in sauces for puddings, and as a flavor in various dishes, will do much to increase body health during the cold weather when the general tendency is to overeat starchy foods, syrups and heavy gravies.

A handful of salt should be added to a pan of water when washing utensils that have contained fish and the odor of fish will quickly disappear.

If nuts are served as part of the meal, either in their natural state or cooked with other foods, they are not only more easily digested, but furnish food value at low cost and enhance the flavor of a good many dishes to tempt the appetite.

From a health point of view, cranberries are valuable. They are an acid fruit which furnishes the blood with material which purifies it.

CARDINALS CONSIDER TRADING HAINES FOR PIPP AND LUQUE OF RE

BOTTOMLEY IS NOT INVOLVED, BREADON SAYS

Cincinnati Report Says St. Louis First Sacker Is Likewise Being Figured in Proposed Swap.

A trade with the Cincinnati club, providing for the transfer of Jess Haines to the Reds in exchange for Adolfo Luque, pitcher, and Wallie Pipp, first baseman, may be completed soon, the Post-Dispatch learned this morning.

Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, admitted that he had discussed such a trade with Garry Herrmann, owner, and Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati club.

"We would like to have Pipp," Breadon said. "But we are not considering trading Jim Bottomley. I want that understood. But I did discuss the possible trade of Haines for Luque and Pipp was mentioned in the discussion."

The report to the Post-Dispatch was to the effect that another Cardinal infielder was to be included in the deal. Breadon was asked if he cared to mention the infielders involved, if any, or if they were substitute infielders.

"No, I don't care to mention anybody except Haines," Breadon replied.

Haines a Holdout.

Haines is considered as trading material, probably, because he is a holdout. Offered a new contract at his 1926 salary of $7500, he refused to sign. Breadon then offered him an increase of $500, but Haines departed for home, stating that he would insist on a contract calling for $12,500. This was the salary paid Grover Alexander last year.

Haines won 13 games for the Cardinals last year and was the mainstay of the staff during the late stages of the pennant race. He also won two games of the world series.

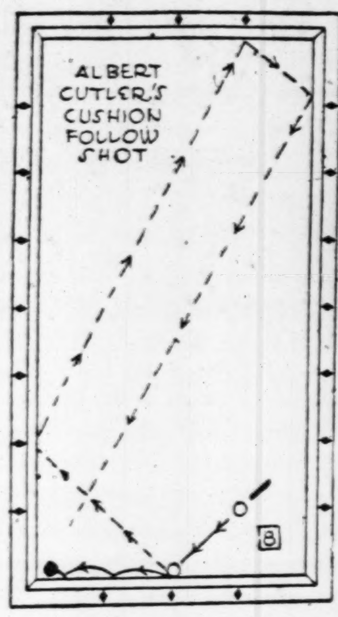
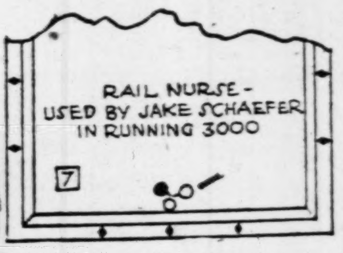
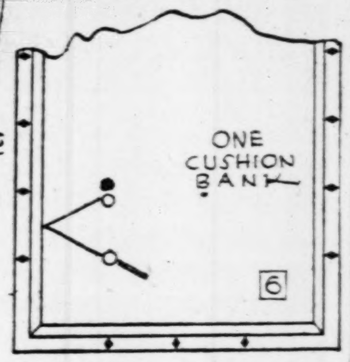
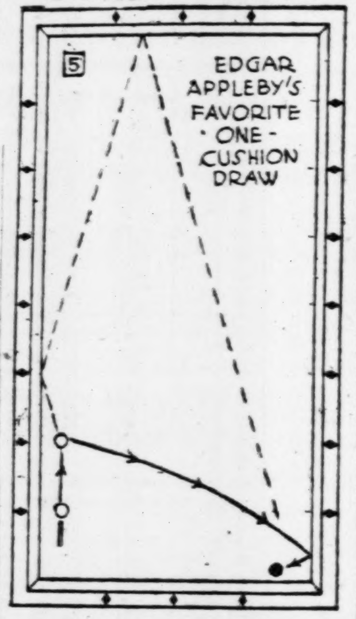
Four More Shots in Peterson Series



CHARLIE PETERSON







Pete Describes Four More Shots In Gather Series

One-Cushion Draw, Cushion Follow, Simple Bank and "Rail Nurse" on List.

The Post-Dispatch presents herewith four more of the series of 20 gather shots which Charlie Peterson has prepared for a national telegraphic tournament, designed to bring back the game of straight-rail billiards.

The series will serve other purposes. Experts and beginners alike can profit by practicing the shots outlined by Peterson. Each is a gather shot. The plan of the tournament calls for contestants to place the balls as directed and shoot until they make 10 points or miss. After missing the balls are rearranged for the next shot. Thus with the 20 shots it would be possible for a contestant to make a total of 200 points, 10 for each shot.

Peterson advises that every shot be played only with sufficient force to make the count and gather the balls in the area near the second object ball.

The first four shots were described and illustrated with diagrams in the Post-Dispatch Sunday.

One-Cushion Draw.

The fifth shot in the series is a one-cushion draw, described by Peterson as Edgar Appleby's favorite gather shot. The bridge length suggested by Peterson is about six inches. The cue should be held as level as possible. Aim at the object ball three-fourths right, that is, on the right side of center.

No. 6 in the series is one of the more simple shots, but a delicate touch is necessary to keep the balls in position to make the run of 10. It is a one-cushion bank shot, described by Pete as Tom Gallagher's "old reliable." The bridge length should be about four inches, the cue held level and the cue ball should be struck in tht center, striking the cushion as shown in the diagram.

The seventh shot is the "rail nurse," used by Jake Schaefer, the wizard, in running 3000 points. When Old Jake made his run with this nurse the need of change in the rules was seen and soon the 18.1 and 18.2 games were introduced for the experts.

It Looks Easy, But——

The proper bridge length is about three inches, with the cue slightly elevated. Strike the cue ball as near the center as possible. Pete can run a couple of hundred points in a jiffy with the rail nurse, but the beginner soon finds the balls scattered. It is an excellent shot to practice, as mastery of it will give the player a great advantage in any match in which he can get the balls into position for the rail nurse.

No. 8, described as a cushion follow shot, a favorite gather of Albert Cutler, looks difficult, but it is not hard to master. The bridge length should be about six inches, with the cue level. Aim at object ball full and strike cue ball one-half above center, with no english. It you strike the ball with the proper force, it will make a perfect gather shot.

Other shots in the Peterson series will be described and illustrated in the Post-Dispatch from time to time until the 20 shots are covered. Straight rail players would do well to clip out the diagrams and the instructions and practice the shots. Peterson will hold a tournament based on the shots in the near future and St. Louis also will be represented in the national tournament through Peterson's parlors.

FINAL MATCH TODAY IN WOMEN'S GOLF MEET

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 11.—Mrs. Robert Gipson, Kendallville, Ind., and Miss Beatrice Gottlieb, of New York City, woman's municipal champion, will meet here today in the finals of the Miami Beach Women's Golf Tournament.

Mrs. Gipson former Indiana women's champion yesterday defeated Miss Louise Branch, Richmond, Va., 5 and 4. Miss Gottlieb won from Mrs. Hal. Whitney, Miami, 5 and 4.

Noise-Making to Feature Women's Golf Tourney

Dish Pans and Sirens to Be Used in Freak Meet at Atlanta, Ga.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 11.—Once a golfer's chip shot from a difficult lie was ruined when his wife, trailing uncomfortably near, cautioned sweetly as he began his swing:

"Now dear, be sure and strike the ball."

The Atlanta Women's Golf Association says it is foolish to think good golf depends upon perfect quiet * * * Why, the very idea * * * and sponsors a tournament to prove it. Husbands and male golfers unattached are cordially invited.

Dishpans, blank pistols and sirens are to be implements in a match next Monday between two teams of unlimited number of members, captained by Mrs. Helen Dozier Lowndes and Mrs. Clarence Bradley. Each is an experienced tournament player.

Each team member will draw a slip of paper that will designate the single club she will be permitted to use. Play will be in rotation; that is, the woman drawing the driver will play from the tee, the wife armed with the iron will head for the green, and she with the mashie will play close for the putter.

The order of rotation will be preserved, which means that one missed shot and some woman will be called on to putt with a niblick or drive with a putter.

"Each team," says the association, "will make as much noise as possible." For the first time, therefore, leather lunged caddies will be in demand.

SWORDSMEN TO MEET FOR EUROPEAN TITLE

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 11.—French and Italian duelling swords seem likely to flash again in the biggest fencing match of recent years. Lucien Gaudin, whose title to fame as Europe's best swordsman is disputed seriously only by Aldo Nadi, probably will meet his Italian adversary in a match some time this year.

Gaudin has several times defeated Nadi with foils, often by close margins, but the Italian never has been satisfied. A year ago the Frenchman offered to meet him again, but under certain conditions which Nadi never accepted. Now French fencing enthusiasts have arranged for a purse of $50,000 lire (about $2500) for Nadi and the expenses of a bout, and they hope Gaudin will defend the French colors. Nadi turned professional a few years ago.

18-YEAR-OLD YOUTH WINS AT THE TRAPS

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 11.—F. C. James, 18-year-old Chicago youth captured the 100 target National Handicap trophy in yesterday's interstate trap shooting tournament competition. Shooting from 16 yards he broke 95 clays. Scratch was 23 yards.

Mark Arie, Champaign, Ill., shot a perfect score in the daily 100 target event.

Missouri's team No. 1, captured the interstate team cup for 75 flyers with a score of 69 defending the cup they won Tuesday which had been redeemed and placed back in competition.

High Schools to Open Latter Half Of Cage Program

Second Half of Season Starts Tomorrow With Roosevelt and Soldan on Top

The second half of the Public High School Basketball League schedule will open tomorrow night with the Soldan-Cleveland game at the Beaumont gymnasium as the feature. Roosevelt will play Central High on the Roosevelt floor, with both games starting at 8:15 o'clock.

Cleveland High School, because of its surprising defeat of the Beaumont quintet last Saturday, is expected to make a good showing in the second half of the season, although prior to last week's conquest, Coach Neuman's team had failed to win in three starts. Cleveland had showed flashes of championship form in its first three games, but for the most part the play was only mediocre.

The added punch necessary was furnished by the return of Joe Hohn, veteran of previous campaigns, who was ineligible until the second semester.

Cleveland May Beat Soldan.

Cleveland is looking for a victory tomorrow night and the chances of taming Soldan appears fairly good. Soldan is at present sharing the league leadership with Roosevelt, each of these teams owning three victories and one defeat. Coach Harry White lost a valuable man when Soldan defeated Central without difficulty last week, in Edmiston, a guard, who suffered a broken collar bone in a collision with Hartman of Central.

Brown, who replaced Edmiston after the accident, performed in good style, however, so that the Brown and Gold quintet should not be weakened appreciably on this account. Roosevelt is heavily favored to win from Central, as the latter is in very poor shape. The none too strong squad that started the season has been further weakened through the loss of Willets, through graduation, and Schumacher, who is injured.

Roosevelt, on the other hand, is at top form and returns to the race after last week's bye with very good prospects of holding its lead. The Rough Riders took advantage of the open date to hand Principia a decisive defeat, thereby avenging a previous victory of the Cadets.

BERNICE WALL WINS WEST FLORIDA TITLE

By the Associated Press.

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 11.—Miss Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Wis., for four years women's golf champion of that State, yesterday found revenge in her victory over Miss Frances Hadfield, present Wisconsin champion whom she defeated 2 and 1 to win the annual women's invitation tournament here.

Last summer they met and Miss Hadfield of Milwaukee won. Then it meant the Wisconsin title for her. Yesterday it meant the Clearwater Invitation title and the women's championship of West Florida for Miss Wall.

Giants and Athletics to Begin 1927 Campaign With $250,000 Salary Overhead

Acquisition of Notable Veterans Greatly Enhances Payrolls—Roush Is Offered Three-Year Contract at $19,000 Annually by the New York Club.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Carrying payrolls estimated to total half a million dollars, Connie Mack and John McGraw will launch the most expensive baseball craft in their long careers as managers on rival pennant cruises this year.

With the acquisitions of Zack Wheat, Ty Cobb and Eddie Collins by the Athletics, baseball men today figured that Mack's salary and bonus bill for the season would reach the quarter-million dollar mark. The Giants' salary total likewise has been sent skyrocketing by the additions of Rogers Hornsby, Eddie Roush and Burleigh Grimes.

Cutting of the purse strings of the New York and Philadelphia clubs has led to an unprecedented series of trades and purchases. In Hornsby, the Giants added a $40,000 star to their payroll, while yesterday they mailed a three-year contract to Roush, which is said to call for $19,000 a season.

Mack Has Costly Youngsters.

The signing of Wheat, Cobb and Collins is estimated to have added $125,000 to the season's salary bill of the Athletics. Mack also paid fancy prices for new infield talent from the minor leagues in landing Dudley Branom, first baseman from Kansas City, and Joe Boley, Baltimore International shortstop.

If Roush signs for the $19,000 salary he received last year, baseball men figure the club will have at least seven players whose pay checks for the season will exceed $10,000. They are Hornsby, $40,000; Roush, $19,000; Grimes, $15,000; Ross Young, $13,000; Virgil Barnes, Fred Lindstrom and Travis Jackson, $11,000.

To complete the deal by which they acquired Grimes and Outfielder Harper from the Phillies, the Giants paid $20,000 to Buffalo for Infielder Thompson, who figured in the trade. Bevo Lebourveau, Toledo outfielder, cost them $22,000, and Catcher Devormer of Louisville a similar sum.

The Yankees and Babe Ruth.

Possibilities of the Yankees exceeding the payroll of the Giants were seen, however, if Ruth and Herb Pennock both succeed in extracting generous salary increases.

Manager Miller Huggins packed his grips to return to Florida today with the confident prediction that "Babe Ruth will be back in his old place with the Yankees when the season opens."

In contrast to the doubtful head-shakings of Business Manager Ed Barrow and the silence of President Jacob Ruppert, the little pilot of the American League champions indicated he found no cause for worry in Babe's threat to quit baseball if the club does not increase his salary beyond the $52,000 he has received annually for the last five years.

"I am going to Florida to take up golf seriously until the players show up," said Huggins, when asked if he would confer with Ruth in California. "Take it from me, Ruth will be at St. Petersburg and will be back in his old place with the Yankees. We're all ready for our biggest year, for we've got to beat the Athletics and Ty Cobb, as well as the Senators and Tris Speaker."

New Offer to Pennock.

Barrow indicated he expected the home run king would appear here later in the month to discuss terms of his new contract. A substantial increase in his salary is forecast by baseball men, who point out that renewal of the old terms served merely as a gesture to conform to the baseball rule which requires contracts to be mailed to the players before Feb. 15.

At the same time, observers were skeptical of Ruth getting $100,000, the opinion prevailing that a compromise at approximately $75,000 will be effected.

Yankee officials were more optimistic of coming to terms this week with the star southpaw, Pennock, who held his second conference with Huggins yesterday. Herb departed with a new salary proposal under consideration and announced he would give his answer in a few days.

"PRO" HOCKEY MAKES A HIT WITH LANDIS

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Baseball Commissioner Landis likes professional hockey. He thinks the puck game will have the winter-time popularity that baseball enjoys in the summer, and principally because it appeals to women.

"Hockey is a red-blooded game and, like baseball, is an open one which can be followed closely," says the commissioner. "Mrs. Landis dragged me out to my first game and I have never since missed an opportunity to watch the big puck chasers in action."

51 AMATEUR BOXERS TO COMPETE IN COLISEUM TOURNEY TODAY

EIGHT WESTERN A. A. U. TITLES ARE STAKES

Eliminations to Begin at 4 P. M. — Three Champions of Last Year Will Defend Their Honors.

District amateur championship honors in eight divisions of boxing will be decided tonight at the Coliseum in the finals of the annual Western A. A. U. tournament, starting at 4 o'clock this afternoon with a field of 51 contestants, the largest and strongest field of contenders in the history of the local district.

A. U. titleholders of last year, two former champions and approximately 40 local boxers who have achieved class A rating in boxing tournaments held during the current season. A team of three boxers from Little Rock, Ark., and two Illinois candidates, comprise the only out-of-town entries.

Tonight's championship finals will witness the crowning of new champions in at least five of the eight divisions represented, due to the fact that vacancies have been created by the voluntary retirement of Johnny Helstein, last year's bantam king; Dave Jackson, the lightweight titleholder; the advancement of Eddie O'Neill from the flyweight to the bantam class; Eddie Burke's graduation from the featherweight to the lightweight division, and the ineligibility of Charles Theodore, who abandoned the welterweight crown to become a professional.

Three Champions to Appear.

Dave Knost, Sherman Park heavyweight; Jerry Hoffman, a Washington University athlete, who is competing unattached, and Frank Power, South Broadway middleweight, are the champions of 1926 who will endeavor to retain the honors they now hold. All three fighters are expected to encounter stubborn opposition because of the number of promising new contenders their respective divisions have developed within the past few months.

A study of the local candidates and comparisons of records made by various contenders in meets this winter seems to warrant recognition of the following aspirants as favorites and probable finalists:

Dave Knost and John Schwake, heavyweights; Jerry Hoffman and Henry Viefhaus, light-hevay-weights; Frank Power and Al Stillman, middleweights; Al Keeney, George McNulty and Eddie McCleavey, welterweights; Eddie Burke, Reggie Wood and John Buckley, lightweights; Jacob Graswick, Pete White and Joe Staunton, weatherweights; Eddie O'Neill and Joe Ghnouly, bantams; Clifford Doetzel, Mickey Mazer and Carmen Durso, flyweights.

Schwake Has Fine Record.

Schwake, the South Broadway heavyweight candidate, has lost only one decision in two years of competition, and that was at the hands of Knost, the district titleholder, who outpointed him in a special bout last winter. Three successive kayo victories have been credited to the South Side mauler this season at the expense of such rivals as Joe Young, Jack Walton and George Gallagher.

The fact that Viefhaus, a light-heavyweight contender, has chalked up three consecutive triumphs in recent bouts, stamps him as a formidable rival of Jerry Hoffman, titleholder in this division, while Al Stillman's impressive victories of the past two months indicate he should prove a troublesome factor in the middleweight events.

Contenstants mentioned as favorites in the other weight divisions appear to be very evenly matched and district officials predict spirited competiton in both the finals and semifinals of these classes. The referees and judges will determine the victors by point tabulations.

19 South Broadway Entries.

The team trophy, captured last season by the Business Men's A. C., will likely be relinquished tonight to either the South Broadway Club or to Sherman Park Community Center. Only four members of the Business Men's Club have filed entries for the 1927 tourney, other stars of last year's squad having entered professional competition. The South Broadway Club will be represented by 19 contestants, having dropped Tony Nagy, a welterweight, from its original list of 20, while Sherman Park will be represented by 13 fighters.

Contestants and tourney officials have been instructed to report at the Coliseum at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, for the physical examinations and weight classifications. The preliminary tryouts of the featherweight and light-heavyweight divisions will be disposed of during the afternoon session, beginning at 4 o'clock.

The first elimination round of the featherweight class is expected to provide six bouts, as 12 boxers are slated to draw for pairings in this class, while the lightweight events, having eight candidates enrolled, should furnish four contests for the afternoon scheduie. An intermission of one hour will be declared at 6 o'clock, during which spectators will be permitted to leave the building and return to their seats later upon presentation of their ticket stubs.

It is believed that virtually all tryouts will be concluded by 7:30 p. m. and that it will be possible to start the semifinals at that hour. Tourney officials have been instructed to speed up the early program as much as possible in an effort to bring the first pair of finalists into the ring by 9:30 p. m.

An encouraging advance sale is reported by Chairman Robert L. Probst, who believes the receipts of today's meet wiww not only defray all expenses, but also provide a surplus sufficient to cover the expense of sending a representative team to the national championships at Cincinnati next month. Ticket prices art 50 cents to $2.20.

St. Louis U. Loses To Loyola by 33 to 6 Score

Billikens Outclassed Throughout in Chicago Contest to Play De Paul Tonight.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—The St. Louis University basketball quintet suffered a crushing 33 to 6 defeat at the hands of the Loyola University five here last night in the Loyola gymnasium. The Billikens were held to two field baskets and two free throws made by Pope and Knight.

Loyola led at the half by 10 to 3. Although Coach "Squint" Hunter's protéges played gamely, they were outclassed in every department of the game. Pope's three points, a field goal and a free throw, were the only St. Louis points registered during the first period. Twelve fouls were committed by the St. Louis players.

The Billikens attempted to push matters in the second period and fought desperately to overcome the commanding lead held by Loyola, but failed to penetrate the Loyola defense. Numerous long shots from the floor went wild. Knight's basket and free throw were the only tallies counted by the St. Louisans in the second half.

Bremner, Loyola guard, was high individual scorer of the contest, with three baskets and four free throws, for a total of 10 points. This evening the Billikens play De Paul University here.

OKLAHOMA AGGIES PLAY TIGERS TONIGHT, WASHINGTON TOMORROW

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

STILLWATER, Ok., Feb. 11.—Except for Captain Peery's sore throat and Stratton's crippled hand, the nine Oklahoma Aggie basketball men who left Stillwater last night for invasions of Columbia and St Louis were in good condition. Games with Missouri tonight and Washington tomorrow night make up the week end schedule.

Now in undisputed second place in the conference race, with Oklahoma and Missouri tied for first, the Aggies are working hard to continue their winning streak and find a place at the top.

Besides Perry, forward, and Stratton, guard, the starters against Missouri will be King, forward; Collins, center, and Danford, guard. Substitutes chosen are: McCoy, White, Helligman and Lookabaugh.

American League Presents Study in Outfield Strength

Athletics Offer a Regular Tornado With Addition of Cobb—Detroit Will Miss Tyrus—Boston Alone Weak.

By John B. Foster.

(Copyright, 1927.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The whirl of fortune's wheel and the recent shifting of baseball players, new and old, kids and veterans, have made the American League a study in outfields.

The old master managers have a chance to hang new combinations on the line for 1927. Some managers had to stand pat. Out of the trading and signing of new contracts comes a spring exhibition of outfielders unlike anything the American League ever saw.

The Athletic Threat.

Now that Ty Cobb has joined the Philadelphia Athletics, everybody naturally thinks of Connie Mack's team first. In the outfield Mack will have Cobb, French and Simmons. He will also have the veteran Zack Wheat and Lamar and others. But the first three named will hold the attention of the fan as he drifts along the line to look the display over.

In Washington there will be Tris Speaker, Goslin and Rice. There are also McNeely and Cullop, but there is dynamite in that first three. In New York the line-up reads: Ruth, Combs and Meusel. Precious little difference between them and the others. They are fast and they can hit. The Yanks also have Funk, Paschal and Durst to help out and these helpers are better than any utility men in any man's club. This young man Funk, who is coming up from Oklahoma City, is not going to be lost in the shuffle. The East will hear from him if he holds his head and is prudent.

Boston has the weakest outfield lot in the East. The stars are Jacobson, Flagstead and Tobin. The helpers are Bratchi, Carlyle and Shaner. One of the helpers may develop into a regular.

Detroit to Miss Cobb.

The Detroit outfield will be made up of Manush, Fothergill, Heilmann and Wingo. That outfield can make jello out of a baseball. They will miss Cobb. Don't think otherwise. It will happen as soon as Frank Navin can see across the Detroit River, and yet he has an outfield that can maul and maul all day long, if it doesn't start the season short of vitamins.

Cleveland's outfield will miss Speaker and miss him like mischief. Jamieson, McNulty and Summa will be the probable leaders of the outfield, with Eichrodt and the young talent making their way the best way they can. The outfield can't hit like some other outfields, but perhaps it can hit well enough to back up Cleveland's wonderful lot of pitchers. In that case Cleveland will play ball in some respects like Brooklyn, which stacks its pitchers against batters of all denominations and grades.

The Chicago outfield has Falk, Mostil and Barrett, with Moore from a Texas League team and old Ike Boone, the fence leveler par excellence, to fill in. There are fielding possibilities in this team, except when Ike Boone plays, that are sprightlier than those of any other team in the league. Maybe old Ike Boone will be used only as a pinch hitter. If he can play the part he will be dangerous.

St. Louis has Rice, Shulte and Miller. There is Kenneth Williams, too. Maybe Williams will get back to his batting stride, and if he does, he will likely play left field. It has valuable properties, that outfield, and it hangs well on the line.

Augie Kieckhefer, Undefeated, Plays Allen Hall Today

Otto Reiselt, Also With Perfect Record in 3-Cushion Tourney, Meets Tiff Denton.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—The ten cueists competing in the national three-cushion billiard championship picked up today where they left off Wednesday, with the title apparently resting between Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, the champion, and Augie Kieckhefer of Chicago, former titleholder. Each has five victories and no defeats.

Based on present standings and tournament form of the participants, it seems probable that the championship will be decided Monday night when Reiselt meet Kieckhefer. Arthur Thurnblad of Chicago, however, is close behind the leaders with five victories and one defeat. In the event of a triple tie, a round robin will be played Tuesday.

Reiselt engages "Tiff" Denton of Kansas City in the outstanding match today, with Kieckhefer playing Allen Hall of St. Louis who has dropped three of his seven games. Kieckhefer beat Denton in one of the most sensational games of the tournament.

Besides his game with Kieckhefer, Reiselt has another former champion on his schedule—Gus Copulos, who has won four of his six games.

Today's schedule:

Kenney vs. Campanioni.
Thurnblad vs. Copulos.
Kieckhefer vs. Hall.
Deiselt vs. Denton.

ST. LOUIS U. FRESHMEN PLAY SPARKS COLLEGE TOMORROW EVENING

Sparks College of Shelbyville, Ill. will be the opponent of the St. Louis University freshmen tomorrow evening at St. Louis University gymnasium, Spring and West Pine. The game will start at 8 o'clock.

The frosh have lost only to Kirksville Normal in their regularly scheduled games this season and recently won the pennant in a division of the municipal league.

Oldfield and Greathouse will play forward for the freshmen, Strong center and Lintzenich and Flynn the guards.

Mushy Callahan Takes a Beating But Keeps Title

Junior Welterweight Champion Insisted That Spug Meyers Weigh Over Limit.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—Mushy Callahan's foresight in insisting that Spug Meyers of Pocatello, Idaho, enter the ring weighing over the junior welterweight limit of 140 pounds has preserved his title for him. Callahan came forth from the Coliseum ring last night still wearing his crown, but otherwise badly battered.

Callahan, who fights out of Los Angeles, floored Meyers in the fifth round, but his failure to follow up his advantage was costly. Meyers was the aggressor in each of the 10 rounds, peppering away with both hands whereas Mushy's menace was a crushing right which Meyers avoided studiously after the nearly fatal fifth.

My Sullivan of St. Paul, who boxes craftily after the school of those other St. Paul Irishmen, the Gibbons brothers, scored a technical knockout over Len Malody of Laramie, Wyo., in the last round of a six-round preliminary.

The battle was fought before a capacity crowd of 10,000 with the gate receipts around $34,000.

Filipino Boxer Wins.

Another upset was the victory of Johnny Hill, the Philippine featherweight, who received the judges decision over Ray Miller of Chicago, in another ten rounder.

Ray Richell, Chicago featherweight, and Sammy Dorfmann of New York boxed a 10-round draw while My Sullivan, St. Paul welterweight, scored a technical knockout over Len Malody, Laramie, Wyo., in the last round of a six-round bout. Malody was bleeding and helpless when a towel came fluttering into the ring. Sullivan won every round handily.

Ernie Peters, an Indian flyweight, received the judges verdict over Harry Soo Quong Bill, Chinese flyweight, of Des Moines, in six rounds.

Hahn Favored to Beat Edvin Wide

Sharp Turns of Indoor Track Likely to Cause Trouble for Swedish Star.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Although track experts here agree that Edvin Wide of Sweden is a great runner, they believe he will be beaten in an indoor mile race by Lloyd Hahn, fleet distance star of the Boston A. A.

Commenting on his first indoor appearance, they point out that Wide is experiencing the same difficulty encountered by Paavo Nurmi in rounding the sharp armory turns. Hahn, on the other hand, is a finished indoor performer whose six successive victories thus far indicate he is in peak form for a duel with Nurmi's conqueror.

A comparison of Wide's opening exhibition at 2500 yards in Newark, N. J., with Nurmi's record mile and a half race in 1925 shows that the Abo antelope would have left his European rival far behind. According to timers, Nurmi passed the 2500-yard mark—140 yards from the finish—in 6:18 as against Wide's figure of 6:28 4-5. The Finn then continued to the mile and a half tape in 6:39 2-5 for his record.

COCHRAN WINS FIRST BLOCK OF 18.2 BILLIARD MATCH WITH HOPPE

CHALLENGER HAS 500 POINTS TO CHAMPION'S 344

Run of 121 by Cochran Best in Unexciting Block of Play for World's Title.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Feb. 11.—Welker Cochran of Los Angeles, leading by 500 to 334, tonight will resume his attempt to wrest the 18.2 balkline billiard crown from Willie Hoppe.

In the first block of a 1500-point match, Cochran persistently led the champion last night, but neither man was at his best.

Twenty-three innings consumed nearly four hours and produced the unimpressive averages of 22 16-22 and 15 4-22 for challenger and champion, respectively. Cochran made the only run of the night that went past the century mark when he made a score of 121 in his twelfth stanza.

The best Hoppe could do was 89.

Cochran won the bank at the opening of the match. He was able to score only two, but the champion failed to take advantage of his opportunities and missed a cushion draw on his second try. From then on the battle pursued a lusterless course.

Hoppe in Front Twice.

Hoppe took a lead in the sixth inning, holding an advantage until the ninth, when Cochran forged ahead with a run of 28. The score at this time stood: Cochran 124, Hoppe 110.

Cochran sent his total to 148 and then after both Hoppe and he had gone scoreless in turn, the champion went into the lead with a run of 80, the best thus far. A difficult lineup of the object balls against the rail halted the run. The score stood: Cochran 148, Hoppe 190.

Cochran Runs 121.

The champion's lead was short lived, however, when Cochran passed him with his brilliant run of 121, marked by spectacular masses, position shots and clever nursing. It was ended when he missed a side draw by a hair.

Thereafter the challenger always was in front.

This is Hoppe's first defense of the title since he regained it early this year from Eric Hagenlacher.

The summary of the first block:

Score by innings:

Cochran: 2 46 35 0 3 1 2 7 28 24 0 121 51 0 63 0 1 31 12 0 2 68 3—500.

Hoppe: 2 18 2 1 62 3 6 11 5 0 80 3 0 89 1 1 0 4 30 0 7 9—334.

Averages: Cochran, 21 17-23; Hoppe, 15 4-22.

PRINCIPIA TO PLAY WENTWORTH M. A. IN KANSAS CITY GAME

The Principia Academy basketball squad was scheduled to depart this afternoon for Kansas City to oppose the Wentworth Military Academy quintet of Lexington, Mo., tomorrow night on the Westport High School floor. Two Principia players, Joe Deal and Johnson McPherson are Kansas City boys.

The trip will be the second long distance jaunt for Principia teams. Two years ago the basketball team was sent to Chicago to oppose the strong Lake Forest Academy five.

Under the leadership of Coach Al Marquard, former Washington University star, the Principia team has won nine of its 11 games to date. The five lost to Central Wesleyan 24 to 19, on the Warrenton floor to the Roosevelt High quintet, 47 to 19, in a game last week. Principia won from Roosevelt, 24 to 23, in the first contest between the teams on the Roosevelt floor.

In 11 games played so far Principia has rolled up a total of 377 points or an average of 34 points per game, while the opposing teams scored a total of 228 points.

East Side Teams To Play Tonight

Collinsville and East St. Louis Will Meet in Important Basket Game.

Coach William Frazier's East St. Louis High School basketball team gets its big chance to tie for the leadership of the Southwestern Illinois High School Conference titular play when it invades Collinsville this evening for a duel with Coach Larson's Collinsville High leaders.

Collinsville is now setting the pace in the conference race with 10 consecutive triumphs, while the East St. Louis squad has won nine and lost one, losing only to Collinsville. Coach Larson's team can virtually clinch the championship by winning tonight, while a verdict for Coach Frazier's charges will tie up the race.

Three other conference games are scheduled for tonight. Jerseyville visits Alton, Belleville moves to Granite City and Edwardsville invades Wood River.

The conference standing follows:

SCHOOL.	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Collinsville	10	1	1.000
East St. Louis	9	1	.900
Edwardsville	6	4	.600
Granite City	5	5	.500

COLLEGE INDOOR NET TOURNEY OPENS TODAY AT CORNELL UNIVERSITY

By the Associated Press.

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 11.—Thirty-five tennis players representing a dozen Eastern and Mid-Western colleges, have entered the first indoor intercollegiate tournament to be held under the auspices of Cornell University today and tomorrow.

The new William A. Larned trophy will go to the winner. Among the stars listed for competition are Neil Sullivan of Leigh, protege of William T. Tilden, Charles B. Watson of Yale, Clifford Marsh of Williams, Horace J. Barton of Michigan, Horace M. Dullen of Ohio State and J. H. and B. H. Whitbeck of Harvard.

HARGRAVE, CRITZ AND PIPP ARE HOLDOUTS

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 11.—Charles Dressen, third baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, is in Cincinnati to discuss his contract for the coming season with the management.

Three stars of the Reds, Hugh Critz, second baseman, Wallie Pipp, first baseman and Eugene Hargrave, catcher, are holding out for substantial increases in salary.

Hargrave was considered the leading batter in the National League last season, while Critz was voted by baseball writers, as the second most valuable player to his club.

The usual result of the first ride—

"MUSCLES ALL TIED UP IN HARD KNOTS"

Limbers up quickly after hard ride

"After several years' absence from the saddle, I took a hard horseback ride, and the next day my muscles were all tied up in hard knots. I applied Sloan's Liniment. Right away the tenseness in the muscles began to relax and in an hour or so, they felt as limber as ever."

The makers of this wonderful liniment have received many thousands of letters like this telling of the amazing relief that Sloan's gives to every kind of muscular pain.

Sloan's gives real and lasting help because it doesn't just deaden the pain. It gets at the cause. Right to the place that hurts it brings a healing stream of fresh, new blood. And stiff muscles quickly relax, and pain stops as the healing stream carries off the "fatigue poisons." Get a bottle today. All druggists—35 cents.

McNAMARA AFTER HIS 12TH 6-DAY VICTORY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Reggie McNamara, "iron man" of the cycling world, has enlisted for Tex Rickard's next six-day grind, starting March 5, in an attempt to equal Alfred Goullet's record of 12 bike marathon victories.

McNamara already has drawn down more prize money than any rider in the history of the sport. He has won 11 races, finished second seven times, third on five occasions and fourth on three others.

The veteran Newark, N. J., athlete returned two days ago from Europe, where he carried off first honors in a 62½ mile team race with Linari after finishing fifth in the Berlin six-day race. An injury to his partner put Reggie too far behind to make him a strong first place contender in the latter event.

Better Than Whiskey For Colds and Flu

To cut short a cold or cough due to a cold and prevent complications, nothing gives such quick and delightful relief as ASPIRONAL, a delightful elixir, medicated with the latest scientific remedies that are used and endorsed by the highest medical authorities.

Every druggist is authorized by the manufacturer to refund your money while you wait at the counter if you cannot feel relief coming in two minutes. Relief means: Clears the head; relieves the congestion in the nose and throat; checks the excessive flow of mucus; banishes the dull, frontal headache and that chilly, creepy, achy feeling that attends a cold.

Aspironal is a "complete" cold remedy in itself, including agents that almost instantly begin to relieve the distressing symptoms and later remove the cause by acting gently and most delightfully on the liver and bowels. Aspironal is perfectly safe for children as well as adults. Quickest and best relief for catarrhal croup and children's "choking-up" with phlegm at night. Clip this guarantee offer and take it to your druggist today.

A real ehold remedy and one no famhould be without, is my opinf the medicine after all it has for myself and family. For s I tried in vain to get hold of such a medicine, but it was and money wasted until I d of and used your great al preparation. For constipa indigestion, inactive liver and eral rundown condition of the system, it beats anything I have ever found and it is no wonder now that I can heartily recommend and praise it above all other medicines for beneficial results in treatment of the above mentioned ailments. I can truthfully say to anyone who is bothered like I was and doesn't want to waste his money experimenting with different kinds of remedies, get a bottle of this great medicine. Your money will be refunded if it does not help you. Do as I did, give it a thorough trial and be convinced. In every case that I have heard of it has done wonders."

This great medicine is an Herb Extract preparation, formerly called Herb Juice, and is outselling all other medicines. Hundreds continue to call at Walgreen's Drug Store, 514 Washington Ave., to see the special demonstrator, many voluntarily giving statements for publication, praising this great medicine that their friends may be induced to try same.

SMOKE SURVEY AIDS IN ABATEMENT TASK

Useless to Expect Easy Remedy, W. G. Christy Tells Optimists Club.

"It is useless to look for an easy cure for the smoke evil," William G. Christy, executive secretary of the Citizens' Smoke Abatement League, told the Optimists' Club at luncheon at Hotel Statler today. "Success comes only after a long-continued, highly skillful effort.

"It is of little use to complain of smoky stacks and allow new ones to be added daily," he said. "The higher grade of installation, therefore, usually pays best, for its reduces running expenses. Capacity, convenience, efficiency and low cost come first, with a weak but laudable hope that smokelessness can be had also at no increase in cost. This order must be reversed in the public mind if we are to have clean air. Smokelessness should be a first requirement.

Campaign Attracts Attention.

"Successful smoke abatement is a problem requiring high technical ability, a change in attitude of a community, willingness to wait for results and readiness to pay for continuous, long-time effort, free from political control.

St. Louis fortunately has several factors in this combination, so that results here are promising and the beginning already made in surveys, has attracted attention in various other cities.

Survey Bears Fruit.

"Engineers who have studied the situation in St. Louis believe that it can be done and the widespread and hearty co-operation which the Smoke Abatement League has received so far gives promise of constructive results."

When an industrial community realizes that keeping the air clean is as important as clean streets, clean water and clean moral atmosphere, Christy declared, there may be hope of successful smoke abatement.

FAVORS PROHIBITION DEBATE SUGGESTED BY DR. BUTLER

Henry S. Priest, Head of Wet Organization, Says Great Parties Must Take Up Issue.

Former Judge Henry S. Priest, president of the Missouri Association Against Prohibition, has indorsed the demand of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, wet, and Senator Borah, dry, that prohibition be made a party issue in the 1928 campaign. In a letter written to an acquaintance in Montgomery City, Mo., Judge Priest said:

"The great political parties must see that the people have an opportunity to express themselves upon the present prohibition acts. No question fundamentally as great as this has claimed public attention since the Civil War. That, as this, was a war for human emancipation from the tyranny of power. It must be determined by reason, based on a knowledge of history.

"Now that proponents and opponents of prohibition are sincerely anxious to debate calmly in the interest of the public good, the situation is hopeful. I feel certain I express the views of our association when I say I agree with President Butler and Senator Borah, and we are preparing to wage the contest in Missouri. This contest must inevitably come."

REMARKS TO VENIREMAN RESULT IN FINE OF $10

John Brinkman, Whose Nephew Was to Be Tried, Penalized for Contempt.

A few words, spoken to a member of a venire summoned for jury duty, cost John Brinkman of 347 Pope avenue a $10 fine and $9 costs, in Judge Pearcy's division of the Criminal Court today.

Brinkman's nephew, Henry Kuedler, was on trial a few days ago, charged with an offense against a woman. Brinkman saw an acquaintance, Herman Zang, among the 47 men summoned for jury duty in that and other cases, and he spoke to Zang. As quoted by Zang afterward, his remark was, "Do what you can for the boy." Brinkman denied this, saying that his remark was only an inquiry as to Zang's health and welfare. He also said Zang spoke to him first.

The Judge decided that Brinkman was in contempt of court. The jury convicted the nephew and gave him a five years' prison sentence.

ILL MAN'S SENTENCE SUSPENDED

East Side Liquor Law Violator Paroled for Six Months.

William (Cliff) Meadows, 30 years old, former roadhouse propritor at 4000 Broadway, East St. Louis, escaped six months in St. Clair County Jail yesterday because he is suffering from tuberculosis and has a wife and two children. The children are 2 and 4 years old.

Meadows, according to authorities, was arrested at the resort which was declared to be headquarters of the "Red Sweater gang." He was charged with possessing liquor. At the November term he failed to appear and his bond of $2000 was forfeited. He was rearrested two days ago in East St. Louis. Judge Weber paroled him to W. T. Pugh of East St. Louis, for six months.

BUYS MILLION HANDKERCHIEFS

Chinese General Then Shows Army How to Use Them.

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 11.—On the eve of putting up the shutters and definitely going out of business, a Chinese piece goods shop, located in the international settlement here, made one sale which has been sufficient to wipe out the losses for an entire year and to show a slender margin of profit. Throughout the year the shop has made only that one sale, but it was a life-saver, and the owner owes his good fortune to a Chinese General at Canton.

The General, noticing that his troops were continually sniffling, sent to Shanghai and bought 1,000,000 white cotton handkerchiefs and issued them to his troops. Having some over, he has been presenting one of them to each of the residents of the villages he has passed through on his march northward. Few Chinese carry handkerchiefs and the General lined up all of his troops and standing before them gave them a demonstration on how to use one.

Injured When Struck by Engine.

Jacob Meissert, 52 years old, of 2343 Menard street, a teamster, suffered a fractured shoulder and concussion of the brain at 4 p. m. yesterday when his wagon was struck my a switch engine as he drove across the tracks at Clark avenue and the Levee. He was taken to his home. He told policemen box cars hid his view of the engine. The engineer could not see the wagon for the same reason.

DRINK WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Pains or Bladder is Irritated.

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

EAST ST. LOUIS PAWNSHOP CLERK ENDS LIFE IN STORE

Isaac Koppel, 62, of St. Louis, in Ill Health, Shoots Self Through Head.

Isaac Koppel, 62 years old, 6221 Southwood avenue, St. Louis, shot himself through the head in a pawnshop at 108 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis, yesterday, where he had been employed as a clerk for 15 years by Mrs. F. I. Marks, of 32 Lewis place. He died instantly.

Mrs. Marks, owner of the pawnshop said Koppel recently suffered a nervous breakdown. She left the store for a short time, she said, and heard a shot while outside the front door. She found Koppel's body behind a counter with a revolver beside it.

MEALS IN BED FOR TRAMPS

English Town Boasts Quarters De Luxe for Vagrants.

ABERGAVENNY, Monmouthshire, England, Feb. 11.—This little town boasts the most up-to-date and luxurious quarters for tramps in the world.

There are push buttons and attendants to answer them, spring mattresses in the beds, hot baths and hot suppers. If ill, the tramps may have their meals in bed. After a good night's rest all the guest is expected to do is to milk a cow or two, if he can, feed the pigs and saw and chop a specified number of sticks of wood.

Jury Fails to Agree.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—A Federal jury yesterday disagreed as to Dr. L. B. Huff, an Aurora veterinary, found George Hass and William Brown guilty of operating a distillery without a license and acquitted Charles Brown, James Gleason and Henry Meyers. The six were indicted as a result of a raid on a building which Federal agents charged was a distillery masked as a hog packing plant, near Aurora and near a serum factory maintained by Dr. Huff.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

ILLINOIS JAIL BREAKERS CAUGHT IN SPRINGFIELD, MO.

Arrested Through the Efforts of Sheriff Regan of Carlyle, Ill.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CARLYLE, Ill., Feb. 11.—Two men who escaped from the Richmond County jail at Olney, Ill., Tuesday, were captured in Springfield, Mo., yesterday, through the efforts of Sheriff Joseph Regan of Carlyle.

The men, George Heath and George Tucker, both 25 years old and charged with larceny, stole a Ford truck parked outside of the jail in Olney, escaping in it until it ran out of gas near here. They then stole the auto of a farmer near here and proceeded to this town, according to authorities here.

Yesterday they let it be known they were leaving for Springfield, Mo. After they had left, Sheriff Regan heard of their destination, wired Springfield and the arrests resulted.

WOULD PROVIDE $50,000 FOR FIGHT AGAINST CORN BORER

Measure Asks for Total of $75,000 Appropriation for State Plant Board.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 11.—The State Plant Board would be supported by an appropriation of $75,000 under the terms of a measure introduced in the house by Representative Bales, Newton, Lawrence and Montgomery.

Twenty-five thousand dollars would be used for the actual support and maintenance, which includes $15,600 for salaries for 1927-28. The other $50,000 would be appropriated as an emergency fund to be used with the approval of the Governor; for combatting an outbreak of any dangerous plant pest.

An emergency is declared in the act, due, it is said, to the advance of the European corn borer toward Missouri. The pest constitutes a real menace, it is said.

MOVE AGAINST WITNESSES DEFYING REED COMMITTEE

Senate to Be Asked to Deal With Insull, His Attorney, Schuyler, Crowe and Cunningham.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The Reed Campaign Fund Investigating Committee today decided to recommend to the Senate definite action against four witnesses who refused to testify in the Pennsylvania and Illinois primary campaign investigations.

These witnesses who refused to answer specific questions are Thomas W. Cunningham, former Treasurer of the Pennsylvania Republican Committee, who refused to tell where he got $50,000 he expended for Senator-elect Vare; Samuel Insull, Chicago public utilities magnate, who backed Frank L. Smith in the Illinois senatorial campaign; States Attorney Robert E. Crowe of Chicago, and Daniel J. Schuyler, attorney for Insull.

WOULD PROTECT LOTTO GAME

Measure Introduced in House to Prevent Police Interference.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 11.—The Police Department of St. Louis would be restrained from further interference with lotto games at church entertainments and social card parties, under a bill introduced in the House by Representatives A. A. Huber and H. L. Wiesmantel, specifically exempting the game from provisions of the law on gambling devices.

Most of the complaints brought to Gov. Baker against his St. Louis Police Board have originated from the department's campaign to prevent lotto games for prizes. One petition, bearing signatures of thousands of St. Louisans, directed against police interference with lotto games, was brought to Jefferson City several months ago, but the Governor left town that day and did not receive it.

N. L. MILLER LIKELY TO SUCCEED E. H. GARY

Head of U. S. Steel Corporation Said to Plan Retirement Within Year.

By Leased Wire From New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the Board of Directors and chief executive officer of the United States Steel Corporation, plans to retire within the present year. His successor, already virtually chosen by himself, although not yet accepted by all the directors, will be former Gov. Nathan L. Miller. This information comes from sources intimately familiar with affairs of the corporation.

Gary, erstwhile farmer boy, lawyer and country Judge, has been head of the world's largest industrial enterprise more than a quarter of a century. He celebrated his eightieth birthday Oct. 8 last. Since then, through declaration of a 40 per cent stock dividend, he has seen gratifying fruition of the years of conservative management insisted upon by him and concurred in by George F. Baker and J. P. Morgan. These have constituted an all powerful trio in the councils of the company, which has assets of nearly $2,500,000,000.

The milestone marked by this dividend offers Gary a logical occasion for relinquishing the reins so long held, it is pointed out. Despite denials, there has been little question that he would like to drop active work and devote himself to world travel.

The problem has been to pick some one who can fill his shoes. It is well recognized that the man need not be an operating steel man. The corporation has that in its president, James A. Farrell. What is needed is a type of corporate diplomat, a man of sound, yet broad, business vision.

It is known that the choice of Miller is not yet unanimous among the directors, a few objecting to him for the very reason which makes him acceptable to others—his conservatism. Present indications are Gary will carry his point, as usual, and that he will not retire until Miller is definitely slated to step in.

There may, however, be an intervening period in which some one else will act as temporary chairman of the company. This choice probably would fall upon some well-known financier.

The post which will be offered to Miller probably will carry a salary of $200,000 a year.

Miller, who is 58 years old, achieved distinction as an upstate lawyer before entering politics. Prior to his term of Governer, 1921-1923, the apex of his public career was as Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals. Frankly expressing a diser to make more money for his family, he resigned in 1915 and resumed the pactice of law.

Gary Denies His Resignation Was Ever Considered.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, announced today that the question of his resignation had never been discussed or considered. Gary, in reading a statement to 50 newspaper men called to his office, said credence should not be given such rumors unless they were verified. He explained that decisions on matters of such importance would rest with his 14 associates on the board and that the controlling reason which would actuate them would be the best interest of the corporation.

Plan Unemployment Insurance.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—A plan of unemployment insurance for technical engineers, the first time tried in the United States for professional men, has been perfected by the American Association of Engineers, it was announced today. H. A. Wagner, national director, and the insurance committee worked out the plan which provides a maximum of 50 per cent of the engineers' normal salary, to be based on $10 weekly units and multiples thereof, the premiums depending on the number of units of insurance.

AUTHOR OF HORSE-RACING ACT IN UTAH SEEKS ITS REPEAL

House Votes to Rescind Measure and Senate Is Expected to Do Likewise.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Feb. 11.—Repeal of the Redd horse racing law enacted in 1925, resulting in pari-mutuel betting, was approved today by the lower House of the Utah Legislature. The repeal bill which was introduced by the author of the original racing act, now goes to the Senate which is expected to approve it. The opponents of the bill maintained that racing and gambling were synonymous.

Redd charged that the State Commission, which supervises racing, had "sold out" to William Kyne, while leading Salt Lake City business men to believe the concession might be awarded to Utah promoters. It was charged that Kyne had paid $25,000 to get the concession.

390 Crossing Accidents on Mo.-Pac

The total number of crossing accidents in which Missouri Pacific Lines figured last year was 390, and in 114 cases, according to a statement issued by the railroad's safety department, the vehicles struck the train rather than the train striking the vehicle. In the Southern district of the Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana, both having State laws requiring a complete stop before motorists cross railroad tracks, the lowest ratio of accidents occurred.

BOMB FOUND ON ROOF OF SHOP

Previous Explosion Caused $200 Loss to East Side Firm.

East St. Louis police, investigating explosions which caused $200 damage to the clothes cleaning establishment of George Marifian, 1401 East Broadway, yesterday found an unexploded bomb on the roof, with a two-foot fuse which apparently had been extinguished by snow.

Explosions were heard Wednesday night, but police were unable to find any damage to buildings in that vicinity. Marifian yesterday found that a hole had been blown through a side door and another through the roof, directly over his supply of benzine. He refused to join in a general increase in prices by union shops recently, amounting to 50 cents for cleaning and pressing a man's suit.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Except for some speculative railroad shares and a few weakly supported specialties, stocks forged ahead again today in rather active trading. Irregularity developed at times as a result of profit taking and evening of accounts for over the holiday; but in the main operations for the rise continued throughout the session. The position of bullish traders was supported by a continuance of easy credit rates, call loans holding at 4 per cent again over the week end. Bonds were somewhat more active with foreign issues favored. Rails were slightly irregular, while industrials and Government issues received good support.

High Priced Rails Up.

"The failure of directors of the Federal Reserve Bank here to reduce the rediscount rate from 4 to 3½ per cent might have been used as an excuse for selling speculative industrials shares had there been any relaxation yesterday of such a lowering of the bank rate, but it was more probable closing of long commitments over the week end was the real reason for the reaction. The most interesting development of the day, however, was the divergence of attention from most of the speculative rail shares to the higher priced investment carriers. New York Central, for instance, was in brisk demand at a new high for the year while Chesapeake and Ohio pushed forward and Pere Marquette rallied with Reading. New Haven stepped to the foreground with a sharp advance to above 56, the highest level in more than a decade. The advance appeared to have been at the expense of over crowded shorts. Wheeling, the star performer of recent markets, was weak, breaking sharply in the absence of nearby demand. Other speculative rails showed a tendency to join in the recession.

Score of New Peaks.

"Commission house followers were cheered by the announcement William C. Durant had canceled his plans for a vacation in Europe, for this move was interpreted as evidence of Mr. Durant's expectation of a good spring market. As a result, operations were resumed in several pool specialties and new highs were recorded. In fact, a score or more of issues reached new peaks for the year. Baldwin, a recent favorite, was subjected to pressure, however, and slipped back after an early advance. Other weak spots in the specialties included Electric Refrigeration and New York Canners. Colorado Fuel, Safety Cable, Union Carbide and Coca Cola, on the other hand, established new tops. General Motors joined in the afternoon rally, being slow to respond to the expected advance in dividends to $8 a share.

Clearing House Statement.

Another substantial increase in surplus was reported today by the Associated Banks, resulting in an excess of reserves of $22,327,990. The gain in surplus totaled $19,938,020. Loans, discounts, etc., decreased $7,996,000.

Foreign Exchange Irregular.

"Fluctuations in foreign exchanges were unusually wide and irregular in view of the relatively small volume of business. Sterling responded to the absence of a bank rate cut here with a fractional recession, while lire lost all of yesterday's advance. Chinese rates broke sharply on the decline of a cent in silver prices. Strength in Argentine rates contrasted with weakness in Chilean, Peruvian, Venezulan and other South American currencies.

Little Change in Commodities.

"Prices in the principal commodity markets were virtually at a standstill and quotations at the end of the day showed little change from yesterday's final figures."

PRICES ARE IRREGULAR ON COTTON MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The cotton market opened steady today at a decline of 3 to 6 points, May selling off to 14.02c and October to 14.41c under realizing or liquidation promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables and prospects for somewhat better weather in the South.

A little Southern selling was absorbed by trade buying to fix prices, and the market held steady during the first hour, prices showing slight rallies from the lowest. A good deal of the business was attributed to the evening-up of small accounts in preparation for the adjournment over Lincoln's birthday, or pending action in Washington on the farm relief bill.

Private cables reported fair trade calling and covering which absorbed hedge selling in Liverpool and that more idle looms were being restated in the Manchester cotton mills.

Rallies from early low prices carried the market up to 14.18c for May and 14.58c for October, about 10 to 12 points net higher. Liverpool was a buyer here, supposedly against sales in the English market, but the demand from this quarter tapered off after the close abroad. There also seemed to be a little more Southern selling or realizing. At midday prices showed reactions of 6 or 7 points from the best.

Futures closed easy, 2 to 6 lower; March 13.78c to 13.79c; May 14.02c to 14.03c; July 14.22c to 14.24c; Oct. 14.43c to 14.47c; Dec. 14.62c to 14.63c. Spot steady; middling, 14.10c.

NEW YORK RUBBER PRICES

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Rubber smoked ribbed spot 37⅝c.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Rubber closed steady; March, 37.40c; May, 37.70c; July, 38.70c.

New Orleans Spot.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 11.—Spot cotton closed steady, unchanged; sales 3444; low middling, 11.90c; middling, 13.90c; good middling, 14.85c; receipts, 4904; stocks, 646,730.

REACTIONARY TREND ON THE BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The bond market was distinctly reactionary today, and practically the whole list dropped back under selling pressure. Traders continued to take time out to recover their bearings, after the feverish activity of the stock market in the past two or three days.

Railway issues, both high grade and secondary, were noticeably soft. Missouri Pacific general 4s and New Haven 4s sustained losses of a point each.

Industrial and utilities prices were mixed. Rand-Kardex 5½s without warrants and Baldwin Locomotive 5s were in fair demand, but realizing depressed Empire Gas and Electric 6½s more than a point.

With the exception of Czechoslovakian 8s, the price trend generally was downward in foreign issues.

A moderate demand for Liberty bonds held Federal Government issues steady.

Public offering was made today of $20,000,000 International Power and $8,000,000 Fairbanks, Morse & Co. bonds.

LEAD, ZINC AND COPPER

Lead was strong at $7.40 per 100 lbs. in St. Louis today. Zinc was lower at $6.60 per 100 lbs.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The American Brass Co. has advanced prices one-quarter of a cent a pound.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Copper firm, electrolytic spot and futures 12.87. Tin steady; spot and nearby $6925. April $67. Iron quiet and unchanged. Lead dull; spot $7.40; Zinc firmer; East St. Louis spot and futures $6.65. Antimony spot $14.87.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Standard copper, spot, £54 10s; futures, £55. Electrolytic copper, spot, £61; futures, £61 10s. Tin spot, £309; futures, £294 17s 6d. Lead, spot, £27 10s; futures, £28. Zinc, spot, £30; futures, £30 2s 6d.

LOCAL STOCK PRICES MIXED ON EXCHANGE

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, Feb. 11.—Polar Wave was higher in the initial trade on the local market today. Rice-Stix and International Shoe common were up and Wagner Electric unchanged. Mercantile Trust sold at 430. Some Scruggs changed hands at decline.

Subsequently Ely-Walker changed hands at 33 and Consolidated Lead at 13, both unchanged from previous sales.

In the latter half of the session Scruggs recovered lost ground and sold at 22 for net gain. St. Louis Amusement was lower as was Pedigo-Weber. Consolidated Lead turnover was in excess of [illegible] shares. The greater part of business in this stock today consisted of "cross-sales" by one house.

††Hard. *Red.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Feb. 11.—There was evening up for the holiday on the local market today.

Final prices were little changed; wheat being unchanged to off and corn higher. A Chicago dispatch said that hard winter wheat at the Gulf of Mexico was at about the lowest level of the season as compared with May, but the movement in the southwest was reported as falling off.

In the local cash grain market soft wheat was ⅛ to 1c stronger, receipts being higher and demand good. Hard was steady. Corn was steady to 2c higher. Demand was fair. Oats were steady to 2c higher. Demand was fair.

The steadiness of Liverpool notwithstanding increased shipments from Argentina received attention. Argentine exports for the week of 6,834,000 bushels compared with only 3,686,000 bushels a year ago. Australian shipments were smaller and acted as something of an offset. Apparent smallness of exports also came in for consideration.

The early wheat range was small, hard May moving on both sides of previous close. Liverpool was ¼d to ⅜d higher and Winnipeg ⅛c to ⅝c down. Argentine shipments were 6,844,000 bushels. Corn was unchanged to fraction higher in trade.

Liverpool wheat closed ¼d higher. Trade here was affected by pending holiday, with legislation before Congress on farm relief up for consideration.

Hard May wheat opened at $1.39⅞@1.40; red May wheat $1.39⅝; May corn 83⅝c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 75,600 bushels, compared with 85,400 a week ago, included 41 cars local and 13 through. Corn receipts, which were 42,400 bushels, compared with 107,800 a week ago, included 28 cars local and 2 through. Oats receipts, which were 44,000 bushels, compared with 50,000 a week ago, included 15 cars local and 7 through. Hay receipts were 19 cars local and 8 through.

Clearances were 151,000 bushels of wheat, 44,000 bushels of corn, 8000 barrels of flour and 187,000 bushels of wheat and flour.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 608 cars of wheat, compared with 797 a week ago and holiday a year ago. Minneapolis receiving 148 cars, Duluth 65 and Winnipeg 395.

Primary receipts of wheat were 862,000 bushels, compared with 1,095,000 a week ago; corn receipts were 416,000 bushels, compared with 1,198,000 a week ago; oats receipts were 291,000 bushels, compared with 525,000 a week ago. Wheat shipments were 488,000 bushels, compared with 514,000 a week ago; corn shipments were 340,000 bushels, compared with 340,000 a week ago; oats shipments were 361,000 bushels, compared with 333,000 a week ago.

EVENING UP TRADE IN GRAINS AT CHICAGO

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—Wheat prices showed little change in the market today, but the market undertone was easy. The disposition of traders was to even up open commitments owing to tomorrow's holiday.

Wheat closed featureless with last prices unchanged to ¼c lower; May $1.41 to $1.41½, July $1.34⅝ to $1.34¾, September $1.32⅜ to $1.32½. Corn closed ⅛c to ⅜c higher, May 81¼c to 81⅜c, July 84⅝c to 84¾c, September 86⅞c. Oats were unchanged to ⅛c higher, May 46⅝c, July 47c, September 45½c. Lard closed 5c to 12½c lower. Ribs 2½c higher.

Local cash sales were 1000 bushels wheat, 105,000 corn, 105,000 oats, 30,000 barley. Cash wheat basis was unchanged for choice and 3c to 5c lower for poor grades.

Scattering selling based on the weaker Liverpool market featured the early trade. Covering orders were shown in May at $1.41, and this caused some recovery, but Northwest houses later had wheat for sale, bringing a reaction. Liverpool was only ⅛d higher at the close. May wheat at the market was at barely 5c premium over Chicago May, while the normal difference should be around 24c to 26c. Buenos Aires was unchanged to ¼c higher at midday. Argentine shipments, at 8,824,000 bushels, were heavier than expected, and in the face of this big exports, the visible increased 4,810,000, making the total there 6,950,000 against 6,590,000 a year ago. Australian shipments dropped to 2,688,000 bushels.

The seaboard advised that export trade was quiet, and Winnipeg reported that outside of a little business to the Orient, no export business was done there. Canadian millers report bakers bought ahead until May 1. The Southwest movement is keeping up, and Kansas City had 174 cars today; Hutchinson 52 and Wichita 34.

Buying by local bull leaders gave corn firm tone. There was little pressure, but bulge brought some selling by cash interests against corn bought in the country to arrive. Shipping demand was quiet. Oats showed little change. Commission houses bought moderately and locals sold. Provisions were easy on selling by cash interests.

"Prince of Clairvoyants" Dies.

By the Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 11.—Frankie Ryan, internationally known as the "Prince of Clairvoyants," is dead. An adventurer from boyhood, he is reputed to have made millions in psychic schemes and in stock selling, but died relatively poor.

Arkansas Antievolution Bill Dead.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 11.—The Rotenberry antievolution bill, which would have prohibited the teaching of evolution in tax-supported schools of Arkansas, is dead, so far as this session of the Legislature goes. The Senate killed it when it voted to table the bill which had passed the House. While no record vote was taken in the Senate, the bill was tabled by an estimated count of 25 to 6.

Three Boys Reported Missing.

Three boys have been reported missing to police and county authorities. Paul James Errett, 17 years old, has been missing from his home at 4928 Ohio avenue since Monday. Greer Johnson, 9, of 6228 Gilmore avenue, Walnut Park, and Thomas Oldfather, 13, of 5220 Gilmore avenue, left their homes yesterday morning and have not been seen since.

Movie Director Sought for Theft.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 11.—Charged with embezzlement of $10,000 from a San Francisco banking firm, Carl Wiedemann, 40 years old, former director of the late Rudolph Valentino and scion of a prominent European family, is sought by police.

How You Fight Microbes

By CHAS. A. L. REED, M. D.
Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOUR deadliest enemies are your unseen foes—the microbes. That is to say they are unseen and unseeable by the naked human eye. But through the eye of science, the microscope, they are plainly visible, and by this means their characteristics and behavior have been and are being carefully studied.

With this knowledge thus gained of the natural law of their being man has found out the natural law of defense.

Parasitic microbes have preyed on probably every animal, including man, and animals have therefore had to evolve a method of protection against them.

The first defense was the wandering cell of the primitive being. These cells simply ate any microbe that might come along. This is the normal way in which amoebes feed. They simply engulf microbes and digest them within their bodies. The retention of this power by these same so-called mesoblast cells in the lower animals is an illustration of the use by nature of a function which originally served a more primitive purpose.

There is very little difference between the eating of a microbe by an amoeba in a watery medium and by a white corpuscle in your blood.

It is not only your white corpuscles that eat bacteria, but also the much large wandering cells of the kind that repair disease and injury. In this way your cells, which are evolved from the most primitive connective tissue cells, carry both the work of repair from injury and the defense against microbic invasion.

You, like other higher animals, have, however, evolved another means of protection without the direct intervention of these cells. When you have suffered from an infection or have been immunized against the microbe that causes it, your blood serum, the fluid part of your blood, takes on new properties antagonistic to that microbe. These properties may be of more than one kind. It has been customary to regard them as new substances and to call them "antibodies." Nothing is known of them beyond their observed effects upon the microbes, and nothing will be known except by the help of modern colloidal chemistry.

One thing about them, however, is very interesting. The antagonistic properties of the blood do not work purely against microbes, but also against the poisons the microbes secrete and against other substances that scientists call "unformed proteins.

There are many proteins in our ordinary food. Substances such as milk, meat, fish, bread and eggs are largely composed of proteins. Foreign proteins, that is proteins not manufactured within your body, are not tolerated by the body, but are split up in the digestive tract and formed into normal body protein. If by some means these foreign proteins are introduced into the blood stream direct they call out a reaction similar in many ways to that called out by microbe infection.

This reaction is designed to digest them and works by mobilizing or rallying the ferments which are present all over the body and have the property of splitting up protein.

This conflict is so sudden and profound that it is called a "shock."

Protein shock (anaphylaxis) is seen in nettlerash, which some people get after eating shellfish or eggs or strawberries; in the asthma which feathers, or horsehair produce in certain people, and in many other ways, including fever.

A microbe and the poisons it secretes are also foreign proteins. Some antibodies, at least, are almost certainly produced by the wandering connective tissue cells that repair injury and eat microbes. Some microbes need the action of an antibody before they can be eaten, and the more virulent a microbe is the less easy it is for the cells to eat it. That really is what virulence means.

These are the internal, unconscious, natural-law methods by which you fight microbes. Of course, you fight them likewise by external means such as cleanliness and antiseptics. The more you use these external means of defense, the less occasion you will have to use your internal defense mechanisms—which sometimes fail!

Ice-Cream Sponge.

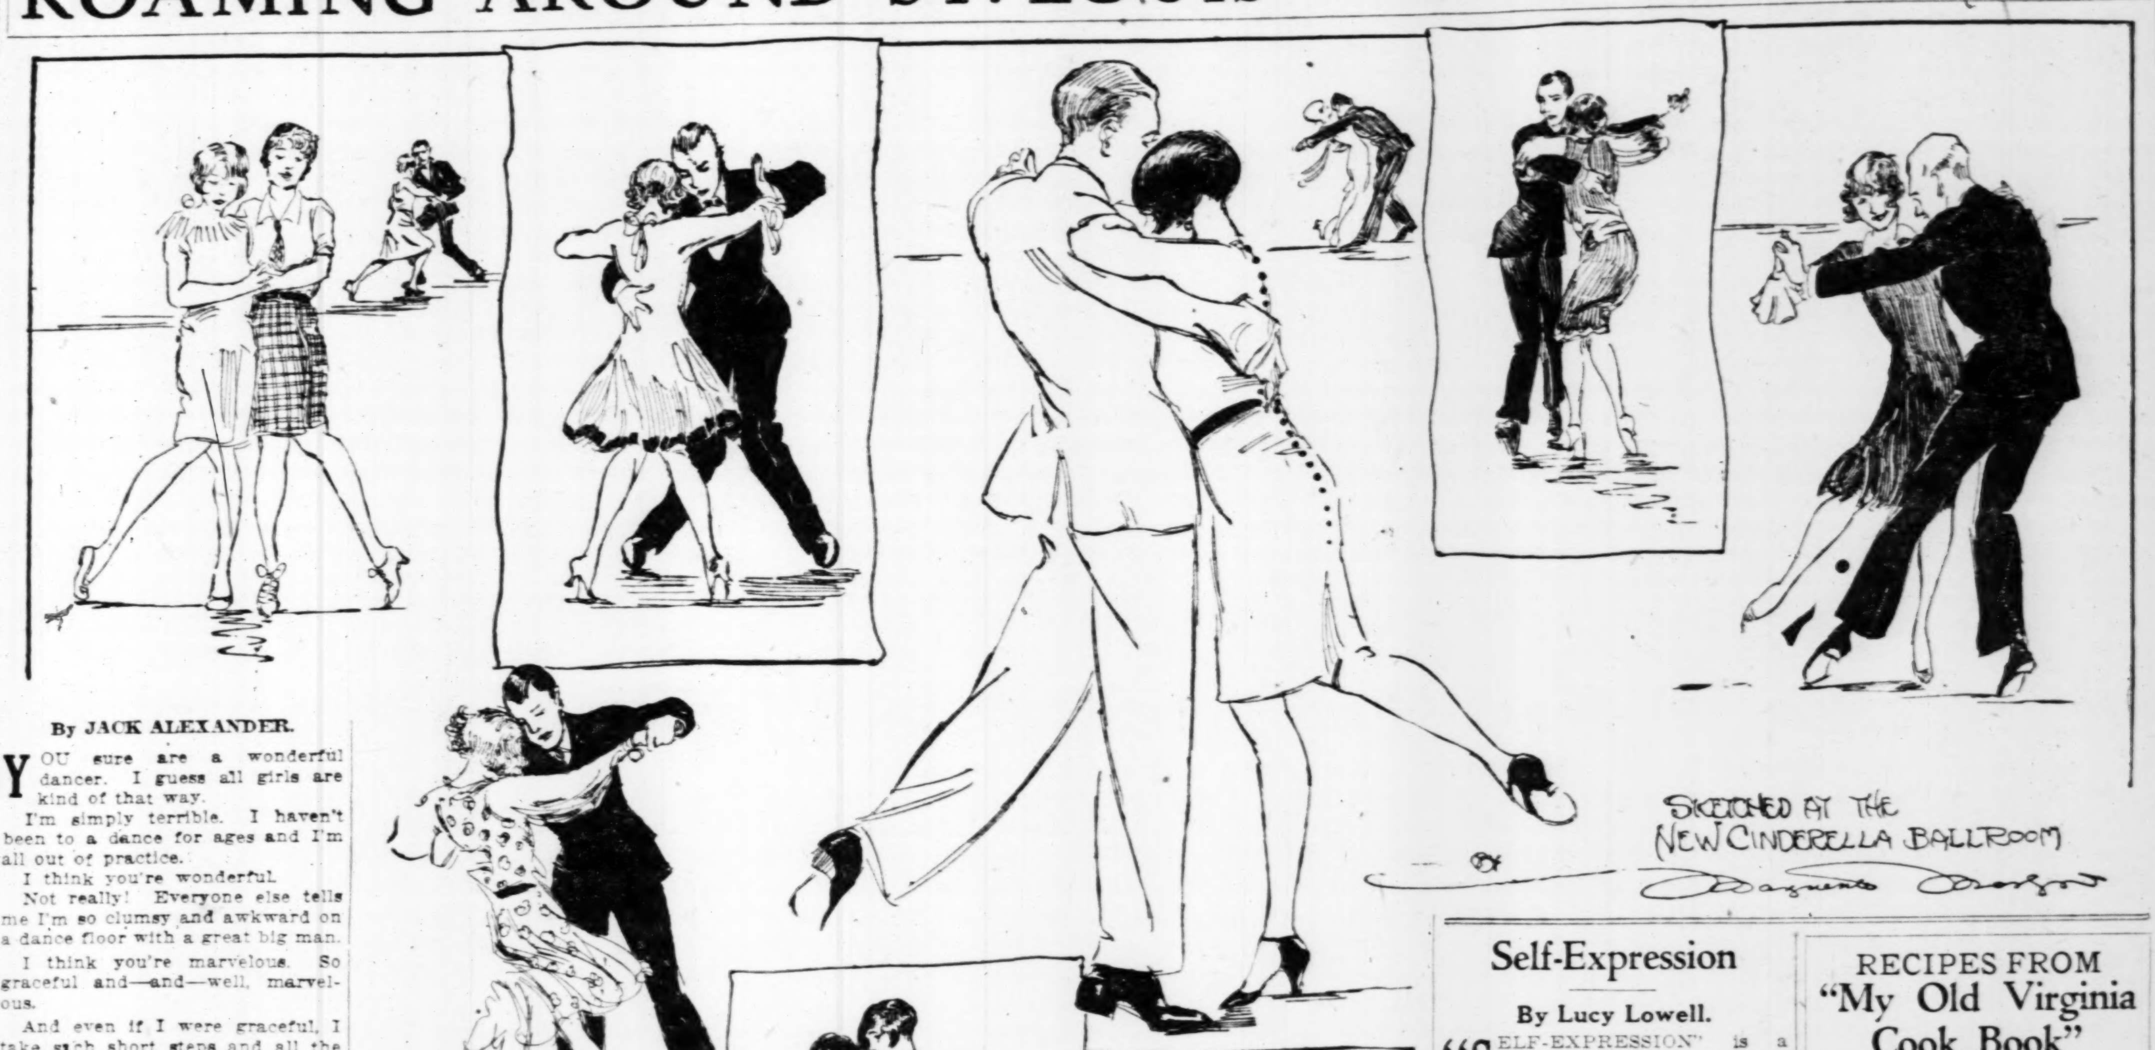
Bake a sponge cake in rectangular shape. When the cake is cold, cut off the top with a sharp knife, cut out the center of the cake leaving a half-inch wall, spread lightly with apricot jam, fill with chocolate or vanilla ice cream, spread the top of the cake with jam and put it on so the cake looks whole. Garnish with sliced candied fruits. Serve in slices with a good chocolate or butterscotch sauce warm enough to pour easily over each helping. Serve as soon as ready and the cake will not have time to soften. The cake should be large enough to hold a quart brick of cream and this will serve six people.

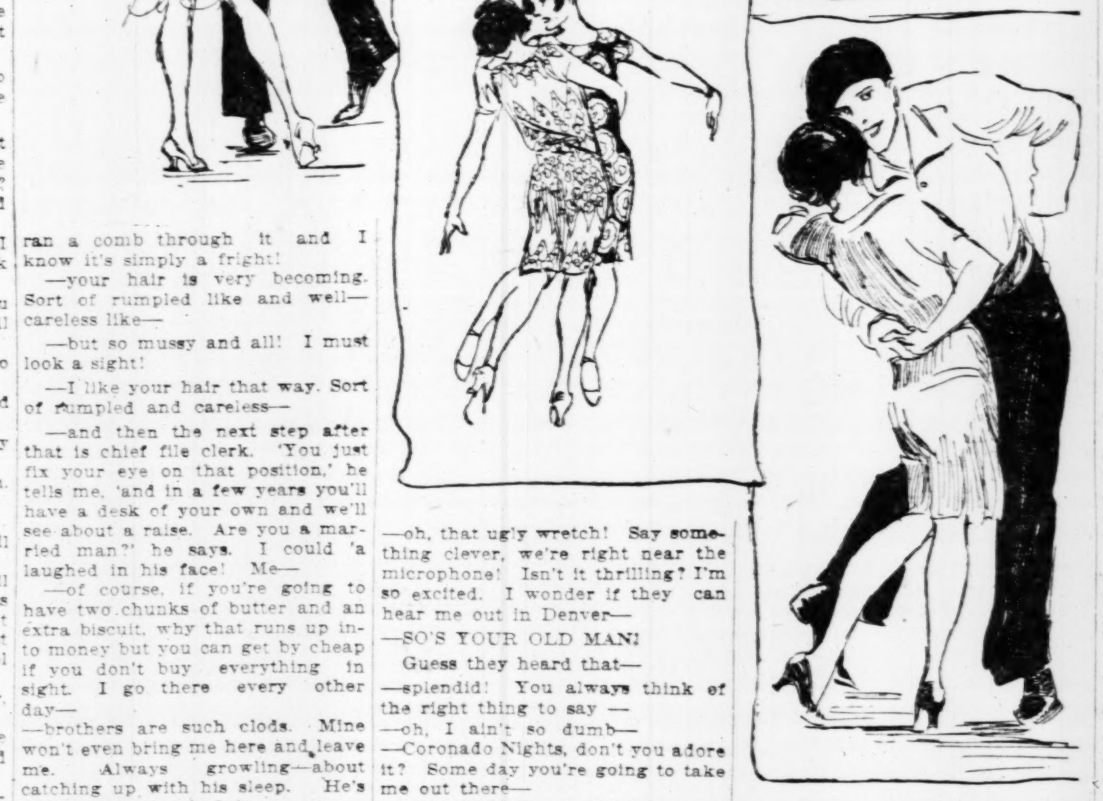
Uncooked Prune Whip.

Rub cooked pitted prunes through a coarse sieve. Place pulp in a deep bowl, add unbeaten egg white and sugar. Beat with whip egg beater until of the consistency of whipped cream. Fold in nuts and vanilla. Pile in sherbert cups, serve very cold. This may also be used as filling for cream puffs or sponge cakes. Will serve six persons. This is a light fluffy dessert which may be served at the end of a heavy meal.

ROAMING AROUND ST. LOUIS

Saturday Night in the Public Ballroom (Nee Dance Hall)





By JACK ALEXANDER.

YOU sure are a wonderful dancer. I guess all girls are kind of that way.

I'm simply terrible. I haven't been to a dance for ages and I'm all out of practice.

I think you're wonderful.

Not really! Everyone else tells me I'm so clumsy and awkward on a dance floor with a great big man.

I think you're marvelous. So graceful and—and—well, marvelous.

And even if I were graceful, I take such short steps and all the boys keep telling me to step out more.

I like short steps. They're so graceful, specially in the Finale Hop and the Chicago.

This horrible old dress! I just put on the first old thing that came to hand. Isn't it a perfect wreck?

It's beautiful. Kinda smooth and slinky like.

But such a bunchy old rag. I intended to take the old thing back and—

I thing it's very becoming. You ought to wear that sort of thing all the time.

My dear, you are impossible! Do you really think it looks good?

I sure do. Kind of slinky and smooth like. It's very becoming.

Really? Don't dare look at my pumps.

I've just been admiring them. They sure are the berries.

Not really?

Honestly. So becoming and well—graceful like—

—so Madge said 'No thanks, we'll walk. We've only got two blocks to go' and kid, he tipped his hat and just drove off. Kid, it must have been a Packard, all nickel and everything—

—leave loose a little, Oscar, here comes a bouncer—

—I like to dance with Sol. He knows the words to everything and sings 'em, low like—

—yeh, I sing a little tenor myself once—

—that was before they closed the saloons, hey Soapy?

—who asked you to butt in? No, kid, as I say, maybe it wasn't a tenor, prob'ly more of a baritone—

—mother said 'for heaven sakes, fix your hair before you go out with that young man' but I just ran a comb through it and I know it's simply a fright!

—your hair is very becoming. Sort of rumpled like and well—careless like——but so mussy and all! I must look a sight!

—I like your hair that way. Sort of rumpled and careless——and then the next step after that is chief file clerk. 'You just fix your eye on that position,' he tells me, 'and in a few years you'll have a desk of your own and we'll see about a raise. Are you a married man?' he says. I could 'a laughed in his face! Me—

—of course, if you're going to have two chunks of butter and an extra biscuit, why that runs up into money but you can get by cheap if you don't buy everything in sight. I go there every other day—

—brothers are such clods. Mine won't even bring me here and leave me. Always growling—about catching up with his sleep. He's always behind schedule.

—Lewis Stone. I love him. So sad and mysterious!

—anybody can be than way. Who wants to be sad—

—but so mysterious!

—who wants to be mysterious? He's old, too. Give me a guy like John Bowers—

—oh, that ugly wretch! Say something clever, we're right near the microphone! Isn't it thrilling? I'm so excited. I wonder if they can hear me out in Denver—

—SO'S YOUR OLD MAN!

Guess they heard that—

—splendid! You always think of the right thing to say —

—oh, I ain't so dumb—

—Coronado Nights, don't you adore it? Some day you're going to take me out there—

—wait till I get me that tux—

—wonderful picture! Simply cried my eyes out. Bertha was along, too, and we had the swellest time—

—mother said 'if you wear that red slicker, you're no daughter of mine' but I wore it anyway. It IS a messy old thing but it keeps the rain off my dress—

—it certainly becomes you. It's very pretty——and if I didn't wear it, I'd catch a cold and then my dancing would be worse than it is—

—I think your dancing is great—

—not really? But such short steps—

—I like short steps.—

THE CHILD PAYS

By Angelo Patri.

Angelo Patri is just the principal of a New York grade school, but the late Charles W. Eliot, president of Harvard, said Patri is doing more for common-school education than any other person in America. His school, a model in every respect, is a mecca for teachers from all parts of the country.

"YOU have Charlie Fitz in your class this term, haven't you?

"Yes. Why?"

"Well, take my advice. Set him in the back of the room where you can't see him much and pay no more attention than you must, no matter what he does or doesn't do."

"But he NEEDS to be paid attention to. Why, that child doesn't keep his mind on his lesson three minutes at a time. He hasn't completed a single assignment so far this month. The minute you take your eyes off him he stops work and when you stand over him he gets nothing done. What's the idea?"

"His mother and his aunt and his grandmother. Maybe his dad, too, although I wouldn't put it on him, poor man, if he isn't in it. I never saw him, never heard of him. But I saw and heard all the others. I spent my days writing explanations, sitting in the office explaining to the principal that I was not picking on Charlie, only trying to get him to do his work, answering charges made to the School Board that I was partial and had wreaked my mean disposition upon this poor lad's head. Every time I sent a report home it was I who had to defend myself, not the youngster. Take a hint from a friend and let him be where he is as he is. He takes two terms to make a grade, anyway, and all you'll get by asking for help from home will be trouble and plenty of it. They think Charlie's perfect as he is and we don't know enough to appreciate him."

"Goodness. But he's on my deficient list. I can't let him just sit there. I must give him a chance. I'll have to talk to his mother just once, anyway. I couldn't have him on my conscience. The boy does nothing, my dear. Absolutely nothing but fiddling with his fingers or his paper or his necktie. He's a dead waste of time."

"Well, I know how you feel but don't say I, who knew, didn't tell you."

"Now, my dear Miss White," said mother when she came to see the teacher, "aren't you expecting a little too much of the boy? Remember, he is only a little boy, 10 years old. What if he does talk a little, misses a few words. You can't expect a little boy to know everything before you teach him, can you? I wasn't so good in school work myself. You teachers think more of marks than you do of the good of the children."

Miss White swallowed hard and began once more. "So far this term the highest mark he has in spelling is 60. The class average is 92 and his mark is included in that. His best mark in arithmetic so far is 30. The best he can do in history and geography is 50. His conduct cannot be marked as his social consciousness seems to be sleeping. What I want to know is, can you help me? Can you suggest any way in which I can help him? He is going to be left back again as sure as the world. He is getting the habit of being left back. What can I do to cure him?"

"My dear Miss White, teach him. He is a perfectly good, obedient boy at home. He comes of a good family. He is intelligent. It seems to me that if you exercised a little patience, if you loved the child more, if you gave him the same chance you give the others—O no, you don't; he tells me so himself—if you were only fair, Miss White. But that's too much to ask. I shall bring this matter before the board."

Self-Expression

By Lucy Lowell.

"SELF-EXPRESSION" is a thing we hear much about these days.

It is a phrase constantly on the lips of boys and girls—young things feeling themselves radiant with the importance of being eighteen, twenty, twenty-two.

Feeling themselves taking up, in a serious way, the matter of making something really progressive out of life and the old world.

"I want to express myself," they say. "That is what matters; that is the thing most essential. A chance to express myself."

And they are quite right. They should have a chance to express themselves. All the chance. But—

Which self is it that each wishes to express?

For every boy, every girl—every created human being—is not a person of one self, nor of two, but of many selves, each wholly different from the others, sometimes violently opposed to all the others.

There is the superficial self—the one, this is, that flies to each new banner, just so the banner be startling enough to dazzle a bit. The self of fads, of unbridled extremes. An immature self which, nevertheless, is retained by some whose years are mature. Soapbox orators, parlor socialists, Greenwich Village radicals, malcontents—a misanthropic throng engaged in tearing at the established order merely because it is the established order.

Is this self worth expression?

There is the dark self, engaged in worry, struggle, doubt—the self of fear that lives in shadow.

"You can't help expressing this at times," it may be said. "It comes popping up of itself."

But it can be suppressed. It is a part of personality, this self, only in so far as it is permitted to be. A pernicious thing.

There is the gay self, the sorrowful self, the ambitious self, all different, each related to the other, every one of which will find expression at some time.

But there is another self—the self of purpose. The self that would travel a lifting road to high, beautiful achievement. The self that would forget selfishness in consideration for others, that would set service as its aim and grow big and shining in the accomplishment of it.

This is the self that should have "Self-Expression."

THE WOMAN OF IT

By MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

WOMEN

Most men just think of women in a mass,
Or prate of them as in one general class,
Men often sadly rue
"The woman's point of view,"
And judgment on the "female" sternly pass.
The women are just WOMAN to man's mind,
Hysterical, emotional, mysterious; though kind
And gentle in some intervals, yet with a fatal power
To lure the male and capture him in an unguarded hour.
Endowed with body's beauty, enwrapped with mystic charm,
Yet full of human dynamite to work a deal of harm;
The women are just WOMAN, though loving, too, at times,
Yet a strange composite creature for all ages and all climes.

But women unto women are not so simply wrought,
They fall into different classes, of differing act and thought.
Like leaves and men, they grow,
No two alike, and show
A great diversity, by art and nature taught.
There's the cold, prosaic creature, so practical it's sad;
There's the soft and mushy sister who is sentimental-mad;
There's the high and lofty "spiritual," a halo on her brow;
And the pugilistic person who's a riot in a row;
There's the busy one, the idler, the gay and sedate,
The Highbrow and Miss Simple, whose mind's an empty crate;
And to lump their divers traits in one class to praise or ban
Makes for psychic indigestion. And that's what's ailing man!

THE ONLY WAY.

Now comes the West Side Y. M. C. A. drive against bachelors—
As if the poor dears were not harried and hurried enough
By Designing Young Women, And Match-Making Mammas—
Their natural and traditional hunts-women.
The "Y" recently made a survey and discovered—
(As we announced in The Evening World)
That New York is the world's greatest bachelor city,
With over 800,000 unmarried young men
Simply spelling out of "Y" residences.
Said we, at the time, "There is a remedy—
"This city is filled with nice girls, obliging clergymen and housekeeping apartments—
"Why BE a bachelor?"
Now, says the West Side "Y," "You CAN'T be a bachelor, under our rooftree.
"For a longer period than ONE YEAR—
"After that you must get out,
"And either get a cold, commercial hall bedroom,
"Or get the Girl and the Ring!"
And, as a consequence, "Y" officials—
Hope to see New York's marriage rate ascending.
We can't prophesy, but we'll say this:
The only way to marry off the young men
Is to convince them that they really can be more comfortable married than single—
The average young man thinks that he can live more freely, indulgently, happily, Without a wife than with one.
On the contrary the average girl still thinks
That she will be better off married than single.
Hence the well-known duel between the sexes,
Which (of course) the girls usually win—sooner or later!
Maybe now the West Side "Y"
Will make it "sooner," for some girls!
Says Charles O. Wright of the "Y."
"We feel that it is right and natural
"For young men to have matrimony and a home of their own as an aim.
"And we do our best to encourage such aims."
So do the girls—SO DO THE GIRLS—
And they thank the West Side "Y." 'deed they do!

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The End of a Bad Day

As night will surely follow day
Your troubles all will melt away.
—Peter Rabbit.

PETER RABBIT couldn't remember when he had spent a worse day. To be sure, he nself made it a lot worse than really was. But that is not to wondered at. That is a common happening with most people. You will remember that Peter was prisoner in the back hall of Johnny Chuck's old house down in e far corner of the Old Orchard. e was a prisoner, for he couldn't t out. The back door was sealed with snow and ice. The only other opening was into Johnny Chuck's old bedroom, and into that were packed Jimmy Skunk and Mrs. Jimmy and six fully grown children. Somehow or other, they had managed to squeeze themselves in that bedroom and were all sleeping together. Even had Peter been sure that none would wake up, he couldn't have squeezed his way out. sir, that would have been impossible. There was nothing for him to do but to remain right where he was until those Skunks would take a notion to go out again.

If Peter had been a real philosopher he would have gone to sleep, as he had planned to do in first place. It would have been wise thing to do, and philosophers are wise, you know. But Peter wasn't a philosopher. Instead of going to sleep, he remained very wide awake. And because he was wide awake, he worried. My goodness, how he did worry!

"It would be just like those Skunks to stay in here for a week," thought Peter. "If some do go out, probably some will remain. I can't get out unless they all go out. I guess this time I'm in trouble. I can't get out of it. I'm going to starve to death. Nobody'll ever know what became of me. Probably Jimmy Skunk and his friends will desert this old house when spring comes and nobody else will find it. Nobody'll ever know what became of me. Not even my bones will ever be found. I-I-I'd rather furnish Reddy Fox a good dinner. Oh, dear! oh, dear! Why didn't I stay with little Mrs. Peter and stay at home?"

Several times Peter scratched at the ice which blocked the way out of that back hall. But each time he did that the sound of his own claws frightened him. You see, he was afraid that so many Skunks sleeping together couldn't possibly all be asleep at the same time. He was afraid that one might hear him and come to find out what was going on. When he wasn't doing this, he sat and thought of all the things he never would see again. He almost got some pleasure out of this. People are that way, you know. They get a kind of enjoyment out of being miserable. It was just so with Peter. He pitied himself because he never, never again would go over to the Green Forest, or up to the Old Pasture, or over to the Laughing Brook, or down to the Smiling Pool, and most of all, because he would never, never go again to the dear Old Briar-patch. Big tears filled his eyes when he thought of all that.

Now, wasn't that a foolish thing to do? Instead of doing that, he should have been thankful that he was safe right then. He should have tried to think of all the things that might happen to get him out of that trouble. He should have remembered that jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun might at that very minute be melting the ice that filled that back doorway. He should have remembered that all those Skunks had been out the night before and they might go out the next night. Always it is better to think hopeful things.

But everything bad has an end. That day had an end. It came with the going to bed behind the Purple Hills of jolly, round, red Mr. Sun. There was a great whining and grunting and funny little sounds in that bedroom just below Peter. After a while it grew less and less. Then suddenly Peter waked up to the fact that he didn't hear a sound. He crept where he could look into the bedroom. It was empty. He crept to where he could look up the long front hallway. What do you think he saw? He saw a star! Yes, sir, he saw a twinkling little star! Then you should have seen Peter scamper up that long hallway and poke his head outside. Headed toward Farmer Brown's house was a queer procession. Peter counted one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight. Jimmy Skunk and his family were going to make a call.

Just How Do the So-Called 50-50 Marriages Work Out?

Who Has the Better of the Arrangement, and Why Forms Bone of Contention Among the Pioneers.

By LOUISE RICE.

NEW YORK.

WHEN something new is tried in marriage, we have, naturally, something new in problems to settle. Among these latest bones of contention (according to what my letter files tell me) I note the now famous "fifty-fifty proposition."

You know what I mean by that. Wife works, both share expense—that's the fifty-fifty proposition. It sounds simple and easily worked out, but I'm not so sure that it is simple. The old complications of marriage seem to be carried over into this latest of modernities. The husband often has a good deal to complain about as to it.

The Peeved Husband.

"I'm ashamed to say, Miss Rice, that I'm getting peevish about this fifty-fifty thing," one exasperated man writes me. "My wife smilingly declares to all and sundry that she is full partner in the firm, carrying all her part of the burden. I smile and toss repartee at her. It's not fashionable, I believe, to try to be a gentleman in these days, but I was brought up to think I ought, so I do, though it hurts.

"Why, if my wife actually paid half of our bills you would hear her holler clear out to Oklahoma. She pays half the grocery and the meat bills and half the electric light and gas, when she remembers. She never pays for the coal or the hired girl, or the insurances that we both carry, or for any of the holiday expenses, like Christmas and our vacations; I buy her coats and shoes and jewelry and all my own clothes, of course, put something away for a rainy day and make sure that we have enough in the old kit to be on the safe side. When my wife has a bonus or gets a little bit of extra money she blows it right in on an extra hat or an evening wrap.

"I feel the meanest of the mean to write like this, but I feel that I must unburden myself to some one or bust!

"I don't dare to talk to her about it, for I know several other men who are in the same fix and who have tried discussing it! Another thing is that I never can talk to her about economy or what I think is wise about our expenditures. She just twinkles her pretty eyes at me and says that it's her own money."

The Woman's Side.

A woman, in just the next mail to this letter, stated an aspect of the case which I find continually creeping into my files of late.

"Every one admires my husband, Miss Rice. So do I! But—of course, there had to be a but. Ours is a marriage in which I 'go to business' as they call it. I wanted to do that and we started our marriage on that basis. My husband is perfectly satisfied. I should think he would be, if you ask me.

"I know that sounds mean, and I feel mean when I write it, but I am so wrought up about all this, and there's no one I can say it to.

"It's true that we absolutely pay our expenses, half and half, but that's not the whole thing, is it? Well, I get home from the office and I either have to get dinner or see that our latest acquisition in the kitchen is getting it. I have to be sure that the laundry goes out—and comes back, intact. I have to decide what we are to have for Sunday dinner and for company 'snacks,' and when and how the spring cleaning shall be done and when it's time to buy new sheets and whether the monthly food bills are running too high—My goodness! Miss Rice, you're a woman and you know the list of all this.

"Well, do you think that nice husband of mine can be urged, dragged, driven, auto-suggested, shamed or forced into doing any of these things? Why, you know he can't! He's so proud of himself, too. Wags his head, and says, 'yes siree—it's fifty-fifty in this house,' and he doesn't care who knows it. What'll I do, Miss Rice, what'll I do? Some day I'm going to run at him and bite him, right where he is pink, behind the ears, and they'll put me in a sanitarium and say it just shows that 'wimmin' can't leave the home!"

And the Father.

For the opposing side, now read what a father has to say:

"Of course, our two girls went to business college, and then went to business. They are two fine girls and so far they have not shown any desire to marry. As soon as they were making good money they said that I and their mother and the two of them would all go 'fifty-fifty' on everything. Of course, I had the house and the farm where we get most of our fruit and vegetables. It's rented on shares. I've always had a fair amount of money, and I am a partner in a modest business here in the village.

"Well, for eight years I and my wife have had this arrangement with the girls and I have never dared to say anything even to their mother; but as a matter of fact, it is very far from that division. Why, Miss Rice, I and my wife no longer have a home, and that's the truth. The girls own us, body and soul. Their mother has all the housework to do, and has to take care of their clothes and they have company all the time.

"Never a tap of work do these girls do at home. They pay half the bills, but that's not all, not by a long shot. What makes me interested in this, besides the facts as they stand, is that both of them declare that if and when they marry, they are going to have a fifty-fifty split of it. All I can say is that I hope it works out better than it does here with the old folks."

No "New Men."

Another wail from the feminine side of the argument now:

"To be a new woman is all right, but I wish I could have a new man to sort of match up. I can remember that when there was an argument with the butcher or when there was anything important or very disagreeable to be done, mother used to just look helplessly at father, and I have begun to wonder if there wasn't a lot more art in that than I ever suspected. Mother was not a helpless woman, in any sense of the word, except when she wanted to be. Is this the only way that we can manage men, Miss Rice?

"I have a gift shop and Charles is a lawyer. We share the expenses of our home. When Junior was born I did as we had agreed we would if there should be babies. I called in my sister, and she ran the shop for six months for me.

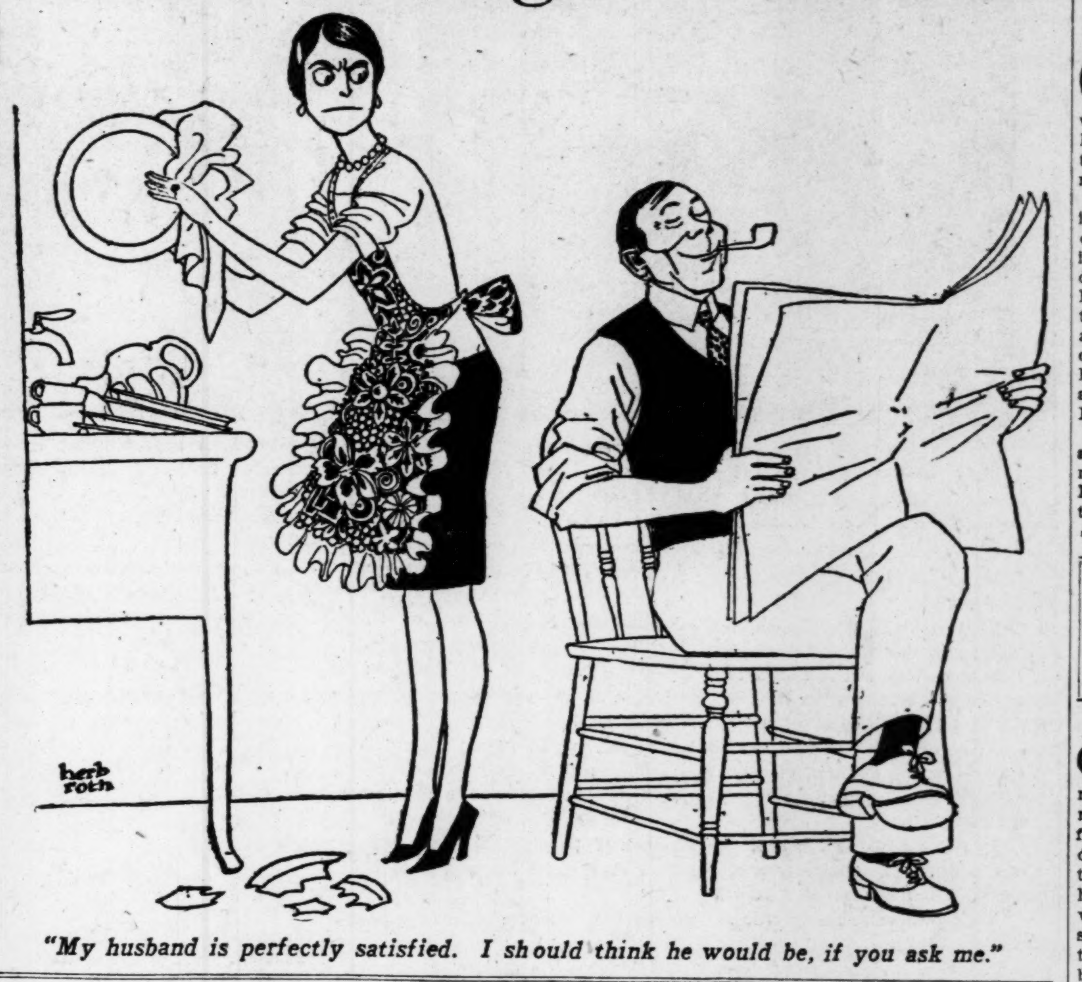
"Junior is now 4 years old, and you'd think, from the way his father acts, that I had nothing to do but stay home and take care of the child. If Junior has a fever, Charles goes to the office, just as a matter of course, and I have to leave my business, willy-nilly to whatever clerks I happen to have. Junior has to have his tonsils taken out. I have to take him. Father never even thinks that he might. Buying suits for Junior is my job. When I suggest that one man ought to know how to buy for another, father grins and says he's a poor judge of cloth.

"When Charles is sick, even with a common cold, he sulks if I don't stay home with him. But when I'm sick, he goes right off in the morning, sends me flowers on his way to the subway, and suggests that I'd better have in a nurse.

"Of course, we have a maid, but the maid doesn't live that does not have to be petted and looked after and encouraged, and so on. Sometimes I get so tired of this part of my job that I quit it cold and do just as Charles does: I get in and change and sit and read and wait for the dinner and never look at the girl. Of course, it's just a question of time as to how long she'll stand this. She leaves. I shrug my shoulders and say that Charles had better get the next one.

"This is always his cue to say, 'Oh, let's have a woman in to clean, and get our little snacks ourselves. The nurse maid will do most of the work and attend to Junior.' I agree to this and in a week the house is just plain chaos. There's butter on the hall rug and dust everywhere, the icebox is empty and the garbage can is full of tins, and Charles mysteriously has to work at night. Then I get a girl and steal time to help her clean up and we go on.

"Just as long as I run my business and the house and Junior, everything is fine and Charles tells people that he sees no reason whatever for a woman's staying at home unless she wants to. I get so mad that I could scream, but you can't teach men anything—or, can you?"



"My husband is perfectly satisfied. I should think he would be, if you ask me."

Famous Actresses

Eliza O'Neill, an Ideal Juliet.

ELIZA O'NEILL was the best tragic actress after Mrs. Siddons, and she proved a worthy successor. She was young, beautiful, full of fire and passion.

Miss O'Neil was the daughter of an actor, who was also manager of the Drogheda Theater. When she was 12 years old she appeared in her father's own theater as the Duke of York in "Richard III." She then went to Belfast where she played several first-rate character parts both in comedy and tragedy.

Her first important appearance was at the Crow Street Theater in Dublin. Miss Walstein, who was the star of the Dublin stage, was to open the Crow Street Theater as Juliet. At the last moment this actress sent word to Mr. Jones, the manager, that unless he increased her salary and granted her certain other privileges she would not appear. Mr. Jones decided to shut up his theater rather than submit to unreasonable demands. The box-keeper told Mr. Jones that it would be a pity to shut up the house, and suggested that Eliza O'Neill, who was then stopping at a hotel in Dublin with her father and brother, en route to Drogheda, be given a chance to play Juliet.

Her performance was an immediate success. Her youth, beauty, simplicity and sweet voice combined to make an ideal Juliet. The audience was wild with enthusiasm, and Mr. Jones was so elated that he offered engagements to her and her brother also. She remained in Dublin three years, where she became a prime favorite.

Glowing accounts of her success and popularity had by this time reached London, and more especially the manager of Covent Garden. Eliza O'Neill crossed the Channel and accepted his offer to appear in his theater.

She made her debut in London as Juliet, as in Dublin. Her acting took the town by storm. The people lost their heads and enthusiastically acclaimed her the successor of Mrs. Siddons. Some went so far as to call her Mrs. Siddons' equal. Her Belvidera and her Isabella moved the audiences to tears. The house was packed to overflowing every time she appeared.

The Lovely Paris Girls
Try what they use
By Edna Wallace Hopper

I have made 35 trips to Paris in my quest for beauty. I go there as regularly for beauty aids as dressmakers go for styles.

Every year I find girls prettier, women younger. And I bring back for myself and you the latest ideas and helps. All Edna Wallace Hopper's beauty aids, supplied by toilet counters, are kept up to date. I want them the best in existence.

My Youth Cream is one of them. It is more than a face cream. Several great complexion aids are embodied in it, including products of lemon and strawberry, and other important factors.

Youth Cream comes in two types—cold cream and vanishing. I use one at night, the other in the morning. Never is my skin without this cream to foster and protect it. My complexion at which millions marvel is largely due to that.

Please learn what my Youth Cream does. It will bring you an entirely new conception of face cream. Ask at any toilet counter for Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Cream. Jars, 60c; tubes, 35c.

The Diary of a New Father

Friday Night.

OUTSIDE of the day Joan said "Yes," and the day we got married and the day the baby was born and the day they came home after visiting all our folks, this has been the biggest day in my life.

I went to the office this morning feeling so blue that I could not even enjoy the comics in the morning paper because today was the day I expected the boss to tell me he had decided to send me out on the road as a traveling salesman, and when he called me into his office I had half a mind to tell him I was quitting, only I was afraid Joan would half kill me if I did.

So I went in and just stood there and he said, "Well, I've decided to make a salesman out of you," and I was so miserable by that time that I just thought, oh, well, and he said, "But I am going to make a city salesman out of you for a year or so, first. I'm not sure that you know enough about the business just yet to go out on the road."

I said, "Oh, I guess I know as much as some of the birds that travel out of here," and he said, "What are you growling about? You wanted to stay at home, didn't you?" and I said "Yes, sir."

One of the unmarried boys in the office is going out instead of me, so nobody's hurt.

It all goes to prove that it is not a bad old world after all, just as I have often said.

So tonight when I came home I was feeling pretty good, and Joan was giving the baby his dinner and I said "Boo" at him and he let go of his bottle and chuckled at me and honest, I never knew a baby could be so cute!

Perfumes.

OH the scents which we long for in close, stifling streets are not perfumes made heavy with musk, but the fragrances drifting from pine-woods' retreats and from dew-laden clover at dusk. Sweets that memory out of her treasure-house yields are the sweets that when children we knew, the fresh, spicy odors of newly-cut fields and the seawinds that sang as they blew. Not to fragrances famed for their value in gold, not to blends which the chemists have sought, turn our fancies—grown wistful when old dreams unfold—not to spices from Araby brought. But the sweets which we yearn for in dull, airless rooms are the sweets of a spring long ago, when the sunlight was warm on the pink apple-blossoms and the cherry-boughs' odorous snow.

HUNGRY . . . all tired out? A good healthy feeling. But it's also nature's warning that energy is running low; that you must be careful what you eat.

A fully ripe banana—whether you're two, twenty-two, or twenty times two—will both relieve that hungry feeling and permit you to drop off into a sound, dreamless sleep. Why?

Because the thoroughly ripened banana is packed with rich sugars—energy elements that hungry, tired bodies can easily assimilate.

How can you tell when this all-food fruit is ripe? That's easy. When the skin is a golden yellow generously flecked with brown, then the banana is so easy to digest that it actually melts in your mouth.

The next time you feel hungry and tired, try a fully ripe banana. In the meantime, we shall be glad to send you a most unusual recipe book that tells of over eighty different ways of serving this nourishing fruit from the tropics. Just fill out and mail the coupon below for a copy.

A New Mystery Thriller

By Carolyn Wells

(Copyright, 1927.)

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Death strikes GARRETT FOLSOM while bathing with a party at Ocean Town, N. J. At the Hotel Majusaca, where they had been guests, an inquiry is begun, after a doctor, perfunctorily examining him on the beach, pronounces him dead.

Folsom's companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, MRS. HELEN BARNABY and CARMELITA VALDON. It is established that Folsom, just before his death, had been standing next to NED BARRON, known as the copper king.

Folsom's sister, ANASTASIA, is sent for in New York. Then the startling announcement is made that Folsom had been stabbed to death in the water. ROSS, his valet, is questioned, as are Barron and his wife, but no light is shed on the mystery.

Anastasia, an eccentric, masterful woman, arrives. She lets everyone understand, even JEPSON, a detective, that she is in full command of the investigation.

CHAPTER 12.

A SLIGHT warning glance from Roger Neville was caught by Jepson's quick eye and, understanding, he agreed tacitly with the speaker and said:

"Very well, Miss Folsom, we will put it that way, then."

"We will. But you wouldn't have agreed so easily if Mr. Neville hadn't given you the wink. Now, you may as well understand, once for all, Mr. Jepson, that I am at the head of this whole affair. I am the one who has lost a dear relative; I am the one who is investigating his death, and it is to me that you are to report and from me you are to take instructions. I suppose until I came, Mr. Neville was by way of being in charge, but that is so no longer. Now, Mr. Neville, though my friend and my brother's friend, has no authority of any sort and is not to be consulted in any way."

Whatever he may have felt at this exceedingly straightforward speech, Roger Neville said no word, merely shrugging his shoulders and nodding as if in acquiescence.

"My heavens!" exclaimed the Duchess, who was outspoken herself, "I should think you'd be glad of help, Miss Folsom. And Mr. Neville was your brother's confidential friend, I know. Why do you flout him like that?"

Anastasia turned on her and seemed about to launch forth another angry speech. Then, with a sudden smile that transfigured her homely face and made it almost attractive, she said:

"I'm running this, Duchess, dear. Don't butt in!"

"Now, tell me, Miss Folsom," Jepson began, fearing he was losing his whip hand of the situation, "is there any one—any one in the world, whom you would suspect of having any motive for wishing your brother's death?"

"Many," she said, looking at him, squarely. "My brother was a man of wide and varied interests. He was a man of independent nature and strong will. He usually got whatever he wanted, irrespective of obstacles that stood or seemed to stand in his way. In these proceedings he not infrequently made enemies, or at least severed friendships and caused ill feeling, even hatred, on the part of those who had once liked him. I tell you this, frankly, that you may know what manner of man he was. But I never thought that any of these enemies he made were so desperately angry with him as to kill him! Yet that has come about, and so, as I said, it is now my life work to seek out that murderer and hang him."

Though speaking positively, Miss Folsom's voice was controlled and her manner quiet. Her rage seemed to have spent itself, and when she announced her intention of avenging her brother's death, she looked like a great and majestic goddess of fate, and her eyes, no longer snapping with anger, were somber and deep with intensity of purpose and righteous wrath.

"You are quite right, Miss Folsom," Jepson said, a little awed by this strange person, but endeavoring not to show it. "I am told," he went on, "that you wish to occupy your brother's rooms—"

"I do," she said, "and I'd like to go there at once. We are doing nothing here, of course, and I want to get started."

"Tonight?"

"Certainly tonight. Police don't go to bed at curfew, do they? If you please, Mr. Jepson, we will go to the rooms at once, and then we can get a real start."

Already Miss Folsom had risen, and was picking up her hat and putting it on.

"Come, Paxton," she said, "bring the things that are here, and you can call the porters to bring up the rest. Good night, Duchess; good night, Carmelita. Roger Neville, I thank you for what you have already done for my brother and for me and I excuse you from further responsibility. No, thank you, I need no other escort than Mr. Jepson and my maid."

Majestically, she stalked out of the door, and the trio disappeared down the hall toward the elevator.

"My word!" exclaimed the Duchess, "isn't she a caution?"

"I told you so," Carmelita said, as she lighted a cigaret. "Clear out, Roger, I'm done up, and we're going to bed."

All right, Carmy. Good night. But—I don't like it."

"Neither do I," said Carmelita Valdon.

The three who entered the suite of the late Garrett Folsom were struck with the attractiveness of the rooms.

"What charming atmosphere!" exclaimed Miss Anastasia. "But it's easily seen why. There are lots of Garry's personal belongings about. And flowers and oh, my goodness! Look at the dolls!"

There were several of the quaint and curious French dolls, so much affected by smart society people.

These dolls were not entirely a novelty to Miss Folsom, but they had never appealed to her strongly, and she had never owned any.

"Bless his heart!" she said, with feeling, "to think of Garry liking these puppets! I wish I'd known, I'd given him one on his birthday."

"They're very beautiful dolls, ma'am," said Paxton, picking up one and examining its costume.

"Yes, and they have that wonderfully human look, that only these real French dolls have. Why, that one looks like—well, I can't think who it is, but she looks just like some one I know. Now, Mr. Jepson, don't wait for any sort of preliminaries. Just sit down there at that table and tell me what you propose to do."

The detective had never before been up against a proposition of this sort, but he realized not only that it was necessary for him to obey orders, but that this strange woman might be of real benefit to him in his investigations.

"I don't believe, Miss Folsom that you quite understand how soon it is to expect any real work to be done yet. You see, the inquest has not yet been held."

"No. When will that be done?"

"I don't know—"

"Oh, you don't? Then I will tell you. It will be held tomorrow afternoon. It would be tomorrow morning, but it will not be possible to get the witnesses together by that time. But tonight, as soon as you leave me, you will get posters printed and have them up by sunrise, all over this part of the beach and boardwalk. They will summon to the inquest every one in Ocean Town who can give the slightest bit of information or evidence concerning the death of Garrett Folsom."

And, after a short but intensive session, Jepson departed to carry out the lady's orders.

As somebody or other has pithily said, the way to do some things is to do them.

This was the dogmatic belief of Anastasia Folsom, and on this principle, to her way of thinking, hung all the law and the prophets.

So, she brought it about that when the guests of the Hotel Majusaca opened their eyes the next morning, they were greeted by the sight of an envelope stuck under their bedroom door.

The message was to the effect that anyone knowing personally the late Garrett Folsom, or anyone knowing any fact that bore upon his tragic death, must immediately communicate with the management of the hotel.

In the minds of most of the readers of this notification, there was aroused only curiosity and the sort of excited interest that the news of a murder usually stirs up.

Yet there were many who felt themselves called upon to respond to the summons.

Some, to be sure, were merely urged to such a course by a morbid desire to mix into the matter. Some from a pride that lured them to the limelight under any pretense. And some felt conscientiously bound to tell what they knew in the cause of right and justice.

Wherefore a goodly number of the hotel's guests presented themselves at the desk, and were directed to Room J, where they were met by Mr. Pelham himself.

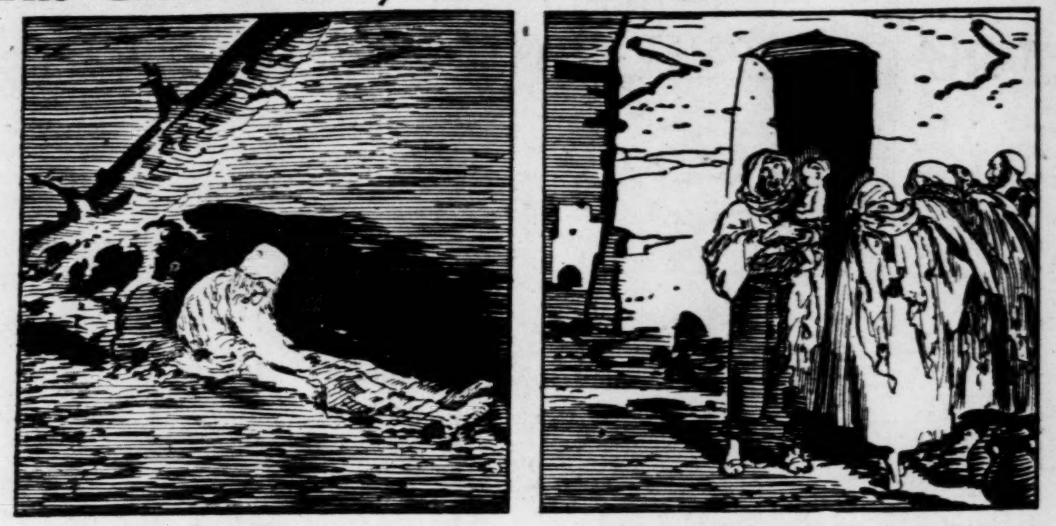
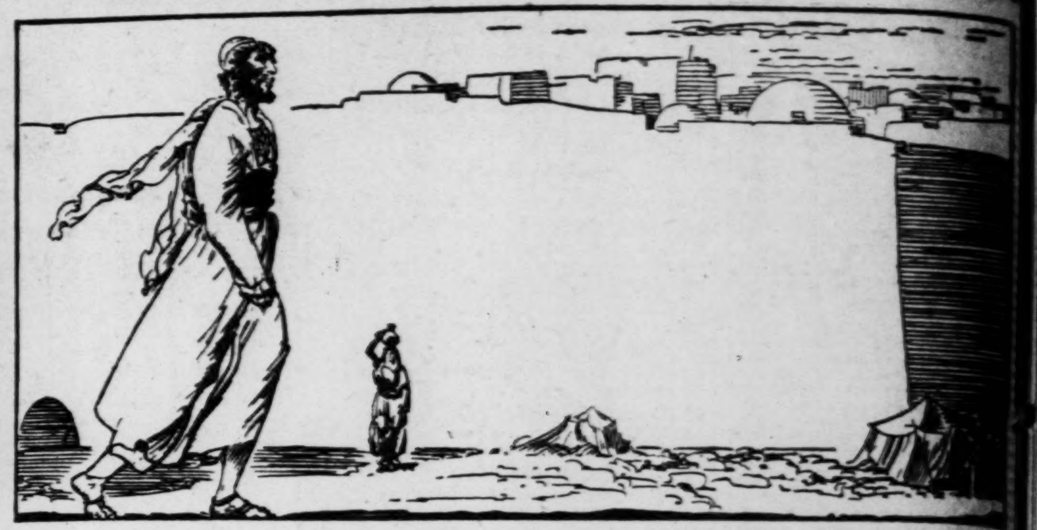
The Greatest Story in the World

The Bible in Pictures



And Methuselah begat Lamech; and all the days of Methuselah were 960 and nine years; and he died. And Lamech lived an hundred and eighty-two years, and begat a son: And he called his son Noah, saying, this same shall comfort us concerning our work and toil of our hands, because of the ground which the Lord hath cursed. And Noah was 500 years old; and Noah begat Shem, Ham, and Japheth.



And it came to pass, when men began to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them, that the sons of God saw the daughters of men and they were fair; and they took them wives of all they choose. There were giants in the earth in those days; and when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men and they bare children to them, the same became mighty men which were of old, men of renown.

The Beauty Shop

By Frances Olivier

SHE was so gloriously healthy looking, pink-skinned, gay in her movements, bright and gleaming as to eyes and hair, that one just naturally expected the usual accompaniment of dazzling white teeth. Instead, when she parted her lips, there was that quite common and unlovely sight of teeth of a grayish-yellow hue.

VISITOR (to Beauty Specialist): My particular problem may be seen at a glance. I only wish it might be solved as easily. It is strange why I should be penalized in this way, because I visit my dentist regularly. I clean my teeth not once, but three times a day, and I never smoke. So, the dentist and I having failed to solve the mystery, the happy inspiration occurred to me to put the case before you.

BEAUTY SPECIALIST — And I am quite, quite sure that I can be of help, because, from what you have told me, your problem is essentially an esthetic one, and the solution of it is not dependent on the kind of tooth powder or wash you use, so much as on the shade of your face powder and your lipstick.

There are as many types of teeth as of skin; you did not realize that, did you? There are, for example, thick teeth and thin teeth, and the thick teeth are most usually brilliantly white or of a soft ivory tint, whereas the thin teeth have a grayish cast. Yours are thin teeth, my dear, hence their peculiar coloring. They are ultra-sensitive in addition, and you must never treat them harshly.

Before I go on to tell you the kind of lipstick and powder you must use, let me first give you a simple little formula for a tooth powder which is a good cleanser, is quite pleasant to use and, most important of all, contains nothing harmful to that very delicate coating of enamel on your teeth:

Formula for Tooth Powder.

2 ounces of prepared chalk.
½ ounce of powdered orris root.
½ ounce of bicarbonate of soda.

Mix the ingredients thoroughly and pass through a fine wire sieve.

Have you ever taken notice of the fact that most of the people who possess those gleaming, brightly white teeth have skin that ranges all the way from a light cream tone down the scale to the swarthy olive variety of the Southern Europeans? And that observation holds a clew for the girl who wishes her teeth to appear whiter than they are naturally. A shade of powder darker than the natural shade of one's skin does the trick beautifully. Hence the popularity of the Rachel, cream and ocre tones of face powder.

Then the tone of the lipstick has a very great deal to do with the apparent whiteness or cloudiness of the teeth, although very, very few women realize this. Indeed, the lipstick is even more important than the powder. For teeth that are a decided yellow, one must choose a lipstick with an orange tint in its composition, and teeth that incline to be gray can be made to seem much whiter if they have a foreground of deep American beauty lips to set them off.

He only is a well-made man who has a good determination.—Emerson.

the clear glass tube

Use a clear glass Zetka Process tube either as detector or amplifier and you'll enjoy ...volume, as powerful as desired... tone, faithfully reproduced... distance, that breaks right thru the locals.

By elimination of "silvering"—magnesium coating of the glass stem where filament wires are joined, is avoided. Thus, voltages from 22½ to 250 volts (impossible, for sustained performance, with any other 201 A type tube) are easily carried without arcing of current from one wire to another.

Prolonged service with an actual increase in efficiency. Your set deserves this finer equipment. Prices no higher Insist upon the clear glass tube in the blue and orange box.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

E. V. B.—Jan. 9, 1877, was a Tuesday.

BOB.—You should inquire at the School of Fine Arts, Washington University, about the special art work you desire to study.

L. V. B. — Your question was answered Jan. 23. You may consult the files at the Public Library.

A. F. — To wash your sweater make a thick soap suds with soap chips and hot water. Cool the water to barely lukewarm. Place the sweater in the water and souse it up and down by slipping your hands under the wet mass and raising it. Do not lift the heavy sweater out by the collar, arms or bottom edge as that will stretch it. Very dirty parts may be rubbed with a little dry soap chips and the suds worked through without lifting the garment from the water. If the water gets very dirty drain the bowl by slipping your hands under the garment and holding the stopper open so that the sweater will not be sucked into the drain. Then lift the wet sweater out of the bowl on your palms and press the excess dirty water out. Do not wring or twist the garment. Prepare another pan of suds as before and repeat the washing process. Drain off the water and press out suds between the palms again. Use two bowls of clear, lukewarm water to rinse, handling the sweater as described. After pressing as much water as possible from the garment lay it on a thick bath towel or two if needed; roll it and twist very gently to get more of the water out. Spread the garment on fresh dry towels and pull it into shape, patting it gently to the right dimensions. Watch the drying process and reshape the sweater about every half hour, gently stretching the sleeves and body part wider so as to prevent the usual lengthwise stretch. The drying should be done on a flat surface, such as the floor, a table or bed, and always on bath towels. Be sure to measure the length of the sleeves and body part before washing so you can properly shape the sweater when it is washed.

ANXIOUS.—The quickest way for you to learn bridge is to have some friend who is a good player teach you. Bridge is played with a full deck and cards are dealt to each player in turn until each has 13 cards. The dealer bids or passes first, then each player in turn. The player to the left of the final bidder leads for the first trick and then the lead passes from player to player according to which one wins the trick. A bid of one means that the bidder must manage to take one trick over the six that must be taken by every bidder. All tricks over six taken by a bidder count for her score. Spade is the highest suit, then heart, diamond and clubs. Honors are the ace, king, queen, jack and ten of the suit bid or the four aces for no trumps. Possession of these cards determines the value of a suit bid, usually. The partner of the final bidder is called dummy and lays down her cards, in suit order, after the first lead has been made. The bidder then plays to take as many tricks as possible by using her partner's hand and her own. The bidder must remember the suits her opponents may have bid on and avoid playing what will allow the opponents to gain tricks. The bidder must also endeavor to remember the cards as they are played so that she will know whether the opponents are out of a suit, what high cards are still in opponents' hands and what trumps are still in the unplayed hands. The most difficult part of bridge is determining the bidding value of your hand and in remembering the cards as they are played. When players cannot follow the suit lead they may trump and take the trick or discard and hold their trumps for future plays, whichever seems the best policy. There are many fine points to the carefully played game that require intensive study, and it is these details that make the game so fascinating to many people. You can obtain descriptive books at the Public Library and bookstores. Before attempting to study the books you should actually play the game with friends having patience enough to teach a beginner.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

MARCELLA. — The doctor can hold you liable only for as much of his bill as your deceased sister's estate might be able to pay, unless you told him that you would pay all his bill. If the doctor threatens you because of the debt you can have him prosecuted.

HIRAM.—The survivor becomes sole owner of property held jointly with the deceased person. The person named in the policy as beneficiary would receive the insurance payment. Partners desiring to sever their partnership should sign a written agreement which a lawyer has drawn up for them.

MARY LOU. — The girl could have your husband's wages garnished to collect the judgment which might be awarded to her for damages suffered while your husband was driving the automobile. She could not levy against the automobile if it really is your property. Your husband could not be imprisoned for failing to pay a judgment in Missouri.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

WORRIED. — You should take your mother to the Barnard Skin and Cancer Hospital, Theresa and Washington avenues, for an examination at once.

UPSET. — Your trouble is not likely to be a rupture in the ordinary sense, but rather what is called a prolapsus of the intestines, as is evidenced by its protrusion when standing. The condition should have immediate professional care. Your case will be treated free of charge at the City Dispensary or hospital, or at the clinics of the larger hospitals such as Barnes, St. Mary's, Mullanphy and others.

T. S.—We advise an examination of your back at the City Dispensary or City Hospital or at the clinics of any of the larger hospitals in the city, where it will be made free of charge. Or, if you prefer, consult a private physician.

PEGGY.—To increase your bust measure mix the following ingredients and apply the ointment with a circular massaging movement each night for 15 minutes: Melt 1 ounce each of lanoline, cocoa butter and oil of sweet almonds over hot water and beat them into an ointment as the mixture cools.

The Man on the Sandbox

By L. C. Davis

THE PASSING SHOW.

WHILE we missed out on Tyrus Cobb
And likewise Tristram Speaker,
With Sad Sam Jones upon the job,
The Browns are not much weaker.
Our bid of fifty-thousand bones
Was really never in it,
And in the meantime Sad Sam Jones
Grows sadder every minute.

We gave Giard and Cedric Durst,
For whom we got the Sad One;
And while some fans may fear the worst,
The trade was not a bad one.
The darkling skies will soon clear up,
The Browns will start to winning,
If Sad Sam Jones will just cheer up
And do a little grinning.

I see George Kelly is a Red
And Roush is now a Giant;
While Johnny, having captured Edd,
Feels cocky and defiant.
As it will take a tidy sum
To get him in the line-up,
We fear the worst is yet to come
When Edd is asked to sign up.

The man on the sandbox says gangster activities must be at a pretty low ebb when the sale of a railroad can make the front page.

"Obey Stricken From Marriage Ritual of English Church."

Oh, well, it didn't mean anything, anyway.

About the only thing that wives obey is that impulse to do as they please.

"Flood Threatens Beardstown Again."

Better change the name of Beardstown to Venice.

On second thought, Illinois already has one Venice which is not particularly noted for its dryness.

QUITE SO.

Babe Ruth, who is holding out for $100,000, says his earning power wouldn't decrease if he were to quit baseball. Indicating that Babe believes Big Business has more $100,000 jobs than there are men to fill.

THE ROAD HOUSE.

(Bowing to Shady Rest.)

TO live in a house by the side of a road,
For some may be very fine;
But in view of the way that the bombs explode,
It is like living over a mine.

See where James C. Hook and Helen Key were joined in wedlock. Fair enough.
